ITALY DEMANDS CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS

Calls It First Step to World Recovery.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 9 [Saturday.]—The grand council of Fascism—the Italian government's official advisory body—early today flatly declared itself in favor of the renunciation of reparations and the cancellation of war debts in a resolution adopted at a secret session presided over by Premier Mussolini.

BENITO MUSSOLINI.

The council went into session at 10 o'clock last night, its members emerging early this morning.

The resolution said the settlement of the reparations-war debt problem "is the first necessary step toward the economic recovery of the world. A government spokesman said the council took this position after the entire international situation had been discussed in detail.

Five Main Recommendations.

The council's statement, which was handed to the press at the conclusion of the session, said the cause of the business depression was more political and moral than economic. Five principal recommendations were made. They were:

FIRST—Settlement of the question of reparations.

THIRD—Solution of the economic difficulties of the Danubian and Balkan countries.

FOURTH—Revision of the peace treaties, "which are responsible for the restless conditions of nations and consequently likely to cause war."

FIFTH—Cessation of too frequent international conferences "which, after raising peoples' hopes, result in ever more serious disillusions and increase the causes of attrition."

"Something must be done to restore international commerce before a condition of 'total anaemia' has been reached in the trade of all countries," the council's statement said.

Urges Drastic Disarmament.

A second resolution approved the government's stand on the disarmament question as set forth in a memorandum filed by Italy in Geneva yesterday. This memorandum laid down specific directions on how tools of the world war should be beaten into plowshares. They amplify the arms limitation proposals presented to the disarmament conference by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi last February.

The new memorandum aims to show how Grandi's proposals to abolish heavy artillery, tanks, battleships, submarines, bombing planes, germs, and chemical gases and to revise the rules of war can be put into speedy and practicable effect.

Mussolini's government asks the nations of the world immediately to melt up field guns of any type over four inches in caliber, together with their carriages, and destroy all ammunition adapted to them and agree not to make any more. An exception was made in heavy coast artillery on fixed bases.

To the same scrap heap are consigned all tanks, the memorandum specifying that they should be reduced to fragments or melted. The guns may be retained if they are not over four inches in caliber, and the motors may be used for industrial or agricultural purposes.

Cuts Size of Warships.

The memorandum limits warships to vessels of 10,000 tons and guns of not over eight inches and bans all airplane carriers of any type or tonnage as well as all submarines.

Destruction is specified to mean the complete dismantlement of all guns, armament, engines, boilers, and scientific fire apparatus, or else sinking them outright. Cases are specified whereby ships may be used for pontoons.

Bombing planes to be destroyed are defined as all heavy planes with more than one pilot seat and with wide radius. All bombing material is to be destroyed and a limit is to be set on the number of other military planes each nation is to possess, with the reserves to be limited to 25 per cent of the military planes.

The Italians also propose to destroy all supplies of poison gas and germs on hand, together with plants from which poison gases are made.

CARLSTROM CRY FOR TAX RELIEF RALLIES VOTERS

Swanson and Brooks Active in Drives.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Exhausted taxpayers, jobless men and women, business men on the ragged edge, depositors of closed banks, were depicted yesterday as the groups with most at stake at Tuesday's primaries, as Oscar Carlstrom, Republican candidate for governor, State's Attorney John A. Swanson, and C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for state treasurer, swung into their respective homestretch drives.

The trio, Carlstrom, Swanson, and Brooks, emphasized economic issues. Noon and night at their meetings, they dwelt on the growing pay roll bureaucracy and governmental extravagance, riding the neck of the public like an "Old Man of the Sea." Retrenchment, they said, was an issue affecting every inhabitant of Illinois.

Relief is Great Issue.

"Men and women," said Carlstrom at the Garrick theater, "have had to retrench during the depression, but government has kept splurging, increasing its expenditures.

"The great issue today is to bring relief to a public which is suffering from the sheer exhaustion of carrying a staggering tax burden. Into it is interwoven the issue of prohibition repeal and the issue of getting the government out of private business."

Great audiences greeted the three campaigners. From the reception they were given it appeared that apathy has walked the plank, and the campaign is now hitting its stride. From downstate came word of kaleidoscopic changes, since the action of the Anti-Saloon league in indorsing Omer N. Custer of Galesburg for governor, and of the Ku Klux Klan in indorsing Len Small.

Carlstrom Making Inroads.

County chairmen reported that downstate, Carlstrom is making heavy inroads into the old Small and Emmerson-Custer vote, Custer is taking the dry downstate vote from Small, while in Cook Custer's stand for prohibition is reckoned to have brought Carlstrom out in front.

Mr. Carlstrom, without mentioning his rival by name, ripped into a letter written by Mr. Custer to Gov. Emmerson suggesting bills to save the assets of real estate bondholders and depositors.

"It's rather late in the day, is it not?" asked Carlstrom. "It appears my opponent is just awakening to vital issues which I have been preaching for months.

Gave an Opinion.

"Without a request of any kind, I drew up and issued an opinion on the legality of the taking over of assets of defunct banks by the Citizens' Reconstruction Finance corporation, which opened the way to saving millions of dollars to depositors in those banks.

"Now the issue is being beclouded. In order to embarrass my efforts to save millions for the depositors, the auditor of public accounts is insisting upon a test case before the state Supreme court to determine the validity of the opinion.

"This is not a time for hesitation. This is an emergency. The auditor of public accounts did not ask for the opinion and never has asked for it, for it will put his receivers out of business for a year or more.

"This terrible situation in which we find ourselves, with millions of dollars tied up in frozen assets, can best be relieved by means of the Citizens' Reconstruction Finance corporation taking over assets of closed institutions. I have tried to meet the emergency with action.

Urges Coöperation.

"If other state officers would cooperate we could turn loose an enormous volume of cash to the depositors of closed banks. The assets can be sold later, when they will fetch something like their real value. Do not let them hide the real issue."

Mr. Carlstrom roused his audiences to enthusiasm as he proclaimed the failure of prohibition and the part it has played in the depression.

Mr. Brooks hammered away at the rising tide of taxes and the part a state treasurer could play in reducing government prodigality.

"The appalling burden of taxes," said Brooks, "is the chief reason why the depression still sticks with us. Any economic analyst will agree to that.

"While retrenchment has had to be practiced by every man and woman, government is slow in realizing it must curtail expenses. Our people are being bled to death. The tax bill is so extortionate that it cannot be extracted from the community.

"Look at the desperate situation in

STIMSON RENTS VILLA ON HILL OFF SWISS LAKE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, April 8.—Blessinge, a large, rambling country house three miles from Geneva, has been rented for one month for Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson. It is situated on a hill off the south shore of Lake Leman and has a magnificent view of Mont Blanc. Its architecture and park recall Mr. Stimson's Stanmore home during the London conference.

Mr. Stimson will also have an office in the Hotel des Bergues at Geneva with the rest of the American delegates to the disarmament conference.

The details of the house indicate the secretary of state is prepared to do considerable receiving. They suggest, in connection with his announcement that Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson will continue to function as the head of the United States delegation, that Mr. Stimson hopes to confine himself to private conversations at Blessinge, leaving all public work on the conference floor to the ambassador. This will be a departure from Geneva tradition that will not be widely welcomed here. All the other foreign ministers and premiers, too, while using to the utmost Geneva's unique facilities for private talks, have invariably made a point also of participating in public discussions, if only to show their respect for Geneva's ideal of open diplomacy.

Theodore Bunte, candy manufacturer, yesterday announced that he had resigned as a west park commissioner. He refused to discuss his resignation. William R. James, president of the board, said he had not been notified of the resignation, and added that he didn't "give a damn, anyway."

Rumors that Mr. Bunte and Mr. James had come to blows over the management of the park board were vigorously denied by both men. Political observers, however, read a story between the lines of Mr. Bunte's announcement.

Recalls Brundage Charges.

A week ago Edward J. Brundage, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, charged that the west park system had been turned into a playground for "gangsters, political pay rollers, and Republican party racketeers."

"The west park situation is worse than the sanitary district scandal," said Brundage at that time. "It looks as though Jesse James (W. R. James, president of the board) has been authorized by the governor to help Custer's last stand at the expense of the west park taxpayers."

Complained to James.

Bunte was reported to have complained to President James at the time that the park pay rolls should be slashed. When he was told that no action would be taken he decided to resign, according to reports.

Brundage, in his speech, declared that 1,700 persons were on the pay rolls of the park board and that less than 1,000 of them actually worked. He asserted that many of the men were called "lagoon watchers," who did nothing but loaf around the parks. Many of these watchmen are affiliated with the Capone interests, Brundage charged.

Bunte was appointed a commissioner by Gov. Emmerson in January, 1930. He was elected vice president of the board by the other commissioners. He is president of Bunte Brothers, candy manufacturers, at 3301 Franklin boulevard. He has never been a candidate for any office and his service as a park commissioner was his first venture into public life.

Street Car Kills Horse, Injures Woman Rider

Miss Bernice O'Shesky, 26 years old, assistant surgical supervisor at the Woodlawn hospital, was seriously injured last evening when a horse she was riding became unmanageable and ran in front of a surface car at 61st street and Woodlawn avenue. The animal was killed. Miss O'Shesky, thrown clear, suffered a broken nose and a possible fracture of the skull.

HELL 'N' MARIA! GENERAL, YOU'VE BEEN SWEARING

William J. Stratton, secretary of state, yesterday refused to issue a charter for the 'Hell 'n' Maria club," an organization of young men on the north shore, on the grounds that the name they had selected is profane. "Hell 'n' Maria" is a favorite expletive of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, diplomat, statesman, and former Vice President.

Because of the alleged profanity, Mr. Stratton asserted in a letter, the proposed name would reflect upon the dignity of the state of Illinois.

Attorney Donald B. Hatmaker, secretary and treasurer of the club, announced last night that he intended to start mandamus proceedings to force Mr. Stratton to issue the charter. The group had applied for the charter as a non-profit corporation for the promotion of civic welfare, civic improvement and political improvement.

More than 100 men have joined the organization, which has its headquarters at 7530 Sheridan road. Attorney Robert Friedlander is president. The members voted for the name, "Hell 'n' Maria," because of their admiration for Gen. Dawes.

ELOPERS SOLVE MYSTERY OF CAR PARKED 3 DAYS

A small coupe which was parked for three days and three nights in one spot in front of the Chicago Civic Opera house revealed the elopement of two young New Yorkers last night.

They are Franklin Burr Morse, 21 years old, of Babylon, Long island, son of Mrs. Harriet B. Morse, and the former Vittoria Sartori, also 21, of Babylon and Philadelphia, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Bloempot. They left New York ten days ago and motored to Wheaton, where they were married. Members of both families had been advised of the marriage.

The elopement became known here when police, mystified over the three-day parking of the automobile, towed the car to headquarters and examined letters and cards found in a suitcase. Communication with New York led them to the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street, not far from where the machine had been parked. There police found the elopers. Morse tried to claim his car last night, but was told he could not do so without authorization of his mother.

"Slurp! Ah!" Senators Take on Potlikker

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana sent his clerical staff scurrying about the markets of Washington today. They did not go to the fashionable groceries but edged over toward the Negro section.

One fetched back four bits worth of turnip greens, another several hunks of very saline dry salt pork and a third was lucky enough to get a few jitneys worth of collards. A fourth appeared with corn meal, ground hull and all between stones, unrefined and gritty.

The gentleman from Louisiana failed to answer at the early roll call in the senate. He was in the senate restaurant kitchen watching carefully a southern Negro cook who takes pride in being just that.

Let Him Explain.

A big iron pot was boiling away. Let Senator Long explain for himself:

"You take turnip greens with an occasional turnip attached and salt pork with an occasional streak of lean, put it in water and boil it about an hour with salt and pepper to suit your taste. If you get collards, chuck 'em in.

"Then you eat the greens, the turnips and fat meat. But the juice, you understand, is soup and you drink it. That, gentlemen, is pot likker, and pot likker is a remarkable and delectable substance, veritably an elixir of life. It supported the entire confederate army during the war between the states."

The cook meanwhile was preparing a couple of batches, one of corn bread and one of corn pone, which are cousins, but taste vastly unlike.

Tuck in Their Napkins.

The guests gathered about one table, tucked their napkins into their collars and dived in. Soon Mr. Long looked askance at Smith Wildman Brookhart, for the senator from Iowa was crumbling his corn bread into the potlikker. Senator Black, although from Alabama, committed the same cardinal sin.

Robinson of Arkansas and Sheppard of Texas won the praise of their host. They used spoons to snare out the greens and meat, and then lifted the plate and drank the likker with delightful "slurps" reverberating as when a cow pulls her left hind hoof out of a nice soft mud hole.

The others—Logan of Kentucky, Fletcher of Florida, George of Georgia, Bulow of South Dakota, and Neely of West Virginia—ranged all the way in Mr. Long's opinion from "high" to "low potlikker breeding."

Meanwhile John Garner, speaker of the house, is in trouble. He let it be known that he plans to eat turnip greens with a ham sent to him by Texas admirers. Word came tonight that at Lubbock, Tex., a group of Garner adherents threatened to enlist under the banner of Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, who uses bacon with his turnip greens.

BEAT PRECINCT CAPTAIN IN 29TH WARD CAMPAIGN

Guido Santucci, 3111 Polk street, a precinct captain for Assistant State's Attorney Joseph R. Orrico, candidate for Republican committeeman of the 29th ward, was severely beaten last night by three men. The assault occurred near the Orrico headquarters at 3854 West Madison street. The 29th is the ward of Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney.

According to Santucci, the men struck him on the head with pistol butts and when he fell leaped into an automobile and drove away. He was taken to the Robert Burns hospital.

Feinberg Pushes His Bench Campaign.

While judges were clashing, rival grand juries were adding to the confusion of the political campaign and two special state's attorneys were in the field ready for action in the Republican primary mixup yesterday, the first person to be jeopardized was Criminal Court Clerk George Seif, a Democrat.

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, Republican candidate for nomination for state's attorney, who has a special grand jury and special prosecutor of his own—both of which had been ruled illegal by Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court—served notice on Seif that he would be cited for contempt of court today.

The reason for the citation was that Seif had refused to furnish Judge Feinberg with a Criminal court clerk. In his refusal to supply the clerk Seif was obeying Chief Justice Fisher, who had forbidden him to recognize Feinberg as a Criminal court judge or to regard Feinberg's jury and prosecutor as legal.

Attorney Hart Goes Ahead.

Attorney Louis E. Hart, appointed special state's attorney by Feinberg, proceeded during the day to examine witnesses before the special grand jury which Judge Feinberg impaneled. He did so in the face of a written court order by Judge Fisher vacating the appointment by Feinberg.

Chief Justice Fisher also quashed the Feinberg order impaneling the special grand jury and ordered that the grand jurors be discharged. Feinberg, however, ordered them to continue and they did so, holding forth in a 7th floor courtroom in the county building.

Chief Justice Fisher ordered that any actions taken by Hart be considered null and void. On the request of Judge Feinberg, however, the sheriff furnished several bailiffs for Feinberg's special grand jury and Police Commissioner Allman said he would assign some policemen to Mr. Hart.

Fisher Also Calls Jury.

Chief Justice Fisher ordered a special grand jury to be called and to report to him Monday morning. He appointed Floyd Thompson, former justice of the Supreme court, special state's attorney and both his appointments of grand jury and special prosecutor met with the approval of State's Attorney John A. Swanson, against whom Feinberg is running.

Mr. Swanson made a statement explaining why he had first asked the Bar association to investigate Judge Feinberg's appointments. His explanation was in answer to Feinberg's query as to why he had not asked a grand jury to do the investigating.

"The acts of Judge Feinberg in enriching his friends at the expense of the depositors (for whom he mourns so plaintively) do not, unfortunately, fall within the scope of grand jury action," Mr. Swanson stated, "and, knowing this to be true, Judge Feinberg feels perfectly safe in conducting his one man shadow boxing tournament.

A Question for the Bar.

"Matters which are purely discretionary with the court, such as the selection of receivers, the appointment of attorneys, may be handled in such a way as to be highly reprehensible, demonstrating an utter unfitness for judicial office, and still fall short of an actual violation of the criminal code such as would fall within the range of a grand jury investigation. Those matters were properly submitted by me to the Bar association."

Seven Negroes were arrested by election board officials for false affidavits which enabled six of them to obtain absentee ballots and to cast premature votes. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki held all in $5,000 bonds and they were sent to the county jail. Feinberg's grand jury and his special prosecutor, Mr. Hart, sought to have the seven produced at their headquarters for questioning. There were reports that the regular state's attorney, Mr. Swanson, and also the latest special state's attorney, Mr. Thompson, would want to have the prisoners produced before them.

A Question of Money.

President Emmett Whealan of the county board meanwhile was sitting at his desk pondering the question: "Who is going to pay the costs of these special investigations?"

"Any one who comes in here and asks for an appropriation for a special investigation ought to get shot," he remarked. "I know that these attorneys who have been appointed are officers of the court, good citizens and interested in civic welfare. As such they will probably be willing to donate their services.

"In other investigations of this kind special prosecutors have charged from $100 to $150 a day for their services. If we have to pay these present special prosecutors I am going to seek a way to limit their pay to the same as we pay the regular state's attorney, $12,000 a year. We are hiring mighty good lawyers these days for $400 a month.

"It's going to be bad enough to have to pay the special grand jurors—46 of them at $5 a day. We haven't the money to pay the employés as it is, and now if the jury fund is depleted there's going to be a mess."

The Day, Hour by Hour.

10 o'clock—Judge Feinberg opens court in the county building and announcement is made that locks on his doors had been tampered with and an effort made to jimmy the door. Court impanels special grand jury with John F. Plunkett, an executive of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, as foreman.

10:10—Judge Feinberg reads instructions to jurors. Tells them to investigate him as well as everybody else. Jury retires.

10:15—[Criminal Court building]—Chief Justice Fisher enters order countermanding Feinberg's order. Tells his clerk to notify Judge Feinberg of the action taken in conformity with the vote of 18 to 2 by the twenty judges of the Circuit court.

Tells Seif Not to Act.

10:20—Justice Fisher notifies Clerk Seif to pay no attention to Judge Feinberg who, he said, is not a judge of the criminal court because he was not duly assigned to hear criminal cases. Asks Assistant Sheriff Frank Wright to notify Feinberg's special grand jury he will wait till 12 o'clock for the jurors to report in his court.

10:25—Wright knocks on door of Feinberg's grand jury room. Acting Special State's Attorney Hart informs Wright to tell Judge Fisher he is too busy to listen to anything Fisher has to say.

11:00—No Criminal court clerk is on hand, so Judge Feinberg appoints his deputy Circuit court clerk, Daniel Buckley, to act. The question arose of how any possible indictments voted by this jury could be docketed.

11:30—Feinberg's jury and prosecutor listening to family of Nicholas Testa, 40 year old political worker who was shot to death in front of his home, 2709 Polk street, on April 1.

12 o'clock—Judge Feinberg addresses political meeting.

Police Captains on Hand.

2:00—Feinberg's grand jury resumes session. Four police captains waiting to be called. Capt. Frank Matchett says he is to give evidence about a street fight which is construed as having political significance. Capt. Michael Grady says some one was beaten in his district and politics is blamed. Capt. Charles McGurn says part of the 25th ward is in his district. Capt. Albert Mikes says Testa murder was in his district and Testa was not a politician, but had police record.

2:15—Special State's Attorney Thompson says he is preparing to make investigations beginning Monday—no action prior to then.

2:30—Judge Jarecki inquires about Negro applicants for ballots and questions affidavits that they intended to be out of town on primary day. Learns that six were sent for absentee ballots by Robert Cross, colored, who works for the city as license investigator and is precinct captain of 31st precinct of 3d ward. The Negroes wanted Democratic ballots.

3—Negroes on way to jail. Judge Feinberg reported to be taking a nap.

3:30—Special Prosecutor Hart notifies Clerk Seif of pending contempt citation. Judge Fisher accepts responsibility.

4:30—Feinberg jury adjourns. Feinberg still absent.

7:50—Detectives Edward Gleason and Walter Gould are assigned by Schoemaker to go to Judge Feinberg's suite in the Hotel La Salle and act as the judge's bodyguards until after the primary.

8 o'clock—The regular political campaign resumed.

FALL FATAL TO MAN, 80.

Ole Swanson, 80 years old, 811 Milton avenue, died yesterday at the County hospital of injuries suffered on April 2, when he fell at his home and fractured his skull.

WIFE OF CURTIS READY FOR TRIP IN BABY SEARCH

Report of $250,000 Ransom Demand Denied.

Norfolk, Va., April 8.—[Special.]—Refusal of John H. Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, two of the three Norfolk men negotiating for the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, to answer questions as to the amount of ransom demanded for the return of the child, and reports that Mrs. Curtis was preparing to leave Norfolk a second time in connection with the baby hunt, were today's developments in the five week old search.

A local paper printed a report to the effect that the kidnapers had demanded $250,000 ransom and that an agreement to pay that amount is reported to have been settled between Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and John H. Curtis, principal in the Norfolk negotiations.

Pastor Talks of Movies.

The Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, the third member of the negotiating body, did not appear to be actively engaged in the baby hunt today. He attended a meeting of the Civitan club and made short addresses favoring the opening of moving picture theaters in Norfolk as a means of raising funds to care for the unemployed.

"Everything is moving along fine," Dean Peacock said in answer to a question as to how the negotiations were progressing.

There was one development today that appeared to confirm statements made by Mr. Curtis that he had obtained information about the missing baby as early as March 9, when he tried frantically to make contact with Col. Lindbergh without success. It was after this failure that he consulted an attorney and was advised to take Admiral Burrage into his confidence because the latter could make contact with the Lindberghs. Dean Peacock was then brought into the case because of his acquaintance with the Morrow family in Mexico City.

Link Plane to "Contact."

It developed today that contact with an agent of the kidnapers in Hampton Roads might have been made between March 13 and March 24. Col. Charles B. Borland, director of public safety in Norfolk, stated that he had been advised that an airplane had landed off Craney island, in Hampton roads, between 2 and 3 o'clock on the morning of March 13, and contact was then made with a motor boat. Neither plane nor boat carried any lights.

The information was supplied by a Norfolk and Western railway detective on duty at the company's coal piers at Lambert's Point. Col. Borland said he took no action because he thought any police activity might interfere with plans to have the kidnaped child returned.

It was surmised that the motor boat probably contained Mr. Curtis, who at that time was working on the case alone. There were other visits by a plane and contact with a motor boat on March 25, 26, and 30, Col. Borland was informed.

Link Fire and Kidnaping.

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—The thirty-ninth day since Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's baby was stolen from their home passed today with no indication that a solution of the kidnaping mystery was near.

Police investigated a far fetched theory that the kidnaping and the brush fire which threatened the Lindbergh home on Sourland mountain early this week were motivated by spite, but they found no evidence of incendiarism, nor anything to support the theory that the kidnaping and fire were connected in any way.

Meanwhile Henry [Red] Johnson, the sailor friend of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse, who has been questioned several times in connection with the kidnaping, was turned over to the federal authorities, preliminary to deportation proceedings.

Col. Schwarzkopf stuck faithfully to his routine bulletin from his headquarters in the Lindbergh garage, but it was as devoid of information as most of the others.

Still Seek Gangsters.

Maj. Charles Schoeffel, his chief assistant, is still abroad and will not return until he has completed the mission that took him there, the colonel said.

Search for Harry Fleischer, purported member of the Detroit Purple gang, and Abe Gordon, known kidnapers, is extending along the eastern seaboard, the announcement said.

Two visitors appeared at the Lindbergh home today and were admitted, causing some speculation as to the purpose of their visits. One identified himself as Charles F. Ward, a banker, from North Arlington, N. J., who said he had an appointment. The other was a stock man who said he came from Martha's Vineyard, Mass., the island which Col. Lindbergh visited in an airplane earlier this week.

The man from Martha's Vineyard declined to give his name. He told a story of a rum runner he had seen with baby clothing hung out to dry in the rigging. Small boats made frequent trips from it to the shore, he said. Detectives questioned him closely.

WIDOW, 68, AND CHAUFFEUR, 31, WILL WED TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Muller, 68 year old widow, who has extensive real estate interests, will marry her 31 year old chauffeur, Everett Tompkins, tomorrow to bring about what she calls "a good business arrangement."

"Besides the knowledge that I am marrying a very fine young man with absolutely no bad habits," she said today, "we both think we are making a good business arrangement.

"This way I have a chauffeur who will be taking a real interest in the business because it is part of his income and he can help me with business affairs. We both like each other immensely."

HUNT WOMAN, 60, AS EMBEZZLER OF $30,000 FUNDS

Trusted Cashier Accused by Insurance Co.

Miss Josie Gregg, 60 years old, was charged in a warrant issued yesterday by Judge John Rooney in the Felony court, with embezzling $30,000 from the Home Insurance company of New York. Until recently she was cashier in the Chicago office of the company, for which she had worked for the last 29 years.

E. R. Hurd, manager of the office, obtained the warrant upon which Miss Gregg will be arrested when she is found by the police. He told Judge Rooney that Miss Gregg was a trusted employé of the company and that all cash from the Chicago territory passed through her hands. He charged that she had manipulated the books during the last seven or eight years to cover up her alleged speculations.

Suspects Gambling Losses.

Hurd told Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast that he believed that Miss Gregg used the company funds to gamble on race horses and the stock market. He said he had been told that a sister of Miss Gregg owned three race horses and that though these horses seldom won, Miss Gregg always had a sizeable bet on them when they raced.

Hurd told Judge Rooney that he believed Miss Gregg started embezzling company funds at the time of the sensational stock market rise, but that she lost everything during the crash.

The manager said that he tried to adjust the alleged shortage with Miss Gregg, but that she refused to deal with him, after which he obtained the warrant for her arrest.

Sister Charges Frame Up.

Miss Gregg, who lives at 2064 Powell street with three sisters, was not at home yesterday. One of the sisters, who refused to give her name, asserted that the charge was a "frame-up." She said her sister was discharged recently.

"My sister should have had a pension three years ago," said the sister. "The company refused to give it to her, and has trumped up these charges to get out of it. We are as poor as church mice here. None of us ever owned a race horse."

OFFICIALS ACT TO EXTEND TIME OF TAX PAYMENT

JUSTICE DE YOUNG.

The Illinois Supreme court, in a decision yesterday holding Cook county's 1929 tax levy valid, handed county officials a sharp weapon in their fight against tax strikers who can pay their taxes but won't. At the same time officials came to the rescue of small taxpayers who want to pay their taxes but can't by arranging to extend the delinquency date on 1930 tax collections from April 15 to May 15 or June 1.

Postponement of the deliquency date was agreed upon at a conference of Mayor Cermak, President Whealan of the county board, and County Judge Jarecki. A resolution postponing it a month or more will be introduced at the next county board meeting.

Legislature Must Act.

This must be validated by the legislature when it resumes its special session on April 19. The legislature will also be given a bill, now being drafted, which will grant further delays to small home owners in danger of losing their property through tax forfeitures, if they can establish that they are without funds to meet their taxes.

Mayor Cermak hailed yesterday's Supreme court decision, written by Justice Frederic R. De Young, as "a body blow to tax strikers." Lawyers, scanning the language of the decision, agreed that it would be a powerful influence in bringing to an end organized tax strikes by taxpayers' associations.

The case on which the court ruled was an application for an injunction to prevent the sale of real estate for delinquent taxes. The suit was brought by James E. Bistor and about 5,000 other members of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers against County Collector Joseph B. McDonough on the claim that the 1929 taxes were fraudulent and void because of the omission of billions of dollars' worth of personal property from the tax rolls.

Other Cases Pending.

On largely the same contentions, this association has another case pending before the Supreme court claiming that the 1930 taxes are illegal. Also in that tribunal's hands is the Lillian Cesar Oak Park case wherein County Judge Jarecki held that the 1928 and the 1929 taxes are void.

In the attorney general's office in Springfield it was stated that the text of the ruling in the Bistor case indicated that the Supreme court would reverse the Jarecki decision.

County Tax Attorney Hayden Bell, after reading several quotations from the Supreme court opinion, said:

"There is a fundamental similarity between the Bistor case and the Lillian Cesar case. In general, the facts are almost the same. In the Bistor case the facts were admitted by the county's demurrer. In the Cesar case, they were established by testimony of witnesses. I regard both cases as clearly coming within the control of the same principles and rules of law."

Keehn Gives Different View.

However, Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaeffer, attorneys for the plaintiff in the Cesar case, took a different view of yesterday's decision.

"Much of the Supreme court's opinion in the Bistor case is in line with the contentions we will argue on the Jarecki appeal before the court next Thursday," said Mr. Keehn last night. "The court in the Bistor case held, as we have contended, that the constitution requires uniformity in taxation and prohibits discrimination as between personalty and realty."

County Treasurer McDonough said that he hoped that the decision would stimulate tax payments not only of 1930 taxes, now in collection, but also delinquent taxes for 1928 and 1929.

"So far as the people have the money," said McDonough, "I feel confident that payments will increase; but it must be remembered most people are hard pressed for cash. Taxes are too high, and they must come down."

Representatives of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers announced that they did not look upon the decision as conclusive. They said they would ask for a rehearing, and if that is denied, the United States Supreme court will be asked for a writ of certiorari.

No Ground for Relief.

The state Supreme court decision holds that the association did not make out a case which entitled it to relief. The petitions cited official reports showing 15 billions in personalty in the form of bank deposits, investments in building and loan associations, automobiles, manufacturers' products, stock of merchandise and the like, which was largely escaping taxation.

Regarding the evidence on this point the Supreme court said:

"The appellants (taxpayers' association) fail to state a case entitling them to the relief sought. Under federal and local statutes considerable personal property is exempt from taxation. If the personal property, the ommission of which from assessment is the ground of complaint, was exempt from taxation, the board of assessors had no authority to assess it. The appellants were required to allege facts from which it might be determined whether the omitted property was liable to assessment. No description of the property is given, and in no instance is the ownership disclosed. The allegations of the bill that the property was liable to taxation were mere conclusions of law and were insufficient."

Levy Is Pronounced Valid.

On another major contention of the taxpayers, the court opinion says:

"The contention that the assessments upon the lots and parcels of real estate of the appellants are void because there was discrimination in favor of personal property is not tenable. It has been the uniform rule in this state that neither the omission to assess nor the undervaluation of one kind or class of property will invalidate the assessments upon other property in the same jurisdiction.

"The framers of the constitution could not have designed that such an omission should avoid the tax levied upon the property which is regularly assessed. They intended to require and did require that the law should provide for a uniform mode of assessment and collection which would not sanction exemptions from the burden of taxation, and they imposed the duty upon the officers acting under the revenue laws of executing them fairly and impartially, but it never could have been intended that their omissions should render the whole tax void and to suspend the collection of revenue."

Point to Valid Remedy.

In addition, the court indicated that the procedure should have been by mandamus to compel the assessing bodies to place the omitted property upon the tax rolls, instead of by injunction. On this point the Supreme court said.

"It is only where a valuation of taxable property has been fraudulently made and the complaining taxpayer has not waived his right to relief that the assessment is subject to judicial review. The jurisdiction of a court of equity may not be invoked against a fraudulent assessment of taxable property where the owner has failed to insist upon a legal remedy that would have afforded him complete relief. He must show that he has been diligent in pursuing his remedy to have the assessment corrected by the board of review, or that he has been prevented from pursuing such remedy by fraud, accident, or mistake.

Comment by Mayor.

"Upon the neglect or refusal of the board to review the assessment the owner's remedy is mandamus to compel the board to act, and he must pursue that remedy before seeking relief by injunction."

"That decision," said Mayor Cermak, "is the equivalent of a warning to nonpaying taxpayers in Chicago and Cook county against being exploited by the so-called taxpayers' associations which are advocating nonpayment of taxes.

"The taxpayers are cautioned against permitting themselves to be exploited by the so-called taxpayers' associations."

Sally O'Neill, Film Star, Will Become Bride

Now in New York

Hollywood, Cal., April 8.—[Special.]—Molly O'Day, film actress, today announced the engagement of her sister, Sally O'Neill, film star, to Arthur Loew, young business man of New York. Miss O'Neill and Loew are in New York at present. Miss O'Day said she did not know whether the wedding would take place in New York or Hollywood. Loew, who is a member of a family with heavy interests in the motion picture industry, formerly was married to Mildred Zukor, daughter of Adolph Zukor, film magnate.

GAMBLER GOOD TO WIFE (WITH CAPTAIN'S AID)

Joseph Tuckman, a gambler, told Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday, in the course of an alimony hearing, that Police Captain Hugh McCarthy bought the railroad tickets last winter on which Tuckman's wife and two daughters made a trip to California.

Capt. McCarthy is now "on the bench," assigned to inactive duty at the detective bureau. Tuckman made no explanation of his statement.

"You know, judge," he said, "I know that this business I'm in isn't 'legit.' I hate to talk about it, because I don't want to get in trouble. I know that the less I talk, the better off I'll be."

Daughters with Father.

Mrs. Esther Tuckman is suing Tuckman for separate maintenance. She is a large, red haired woman, and she appeared at the hearing in Judge Trude's chambers wearing a sable coat. Tuckman, a little, wizen faced man, was accompanied by his two daughters, Betty, 18, and Sally, 16 years old. They live with him and his parents in the Copeland hotel, 5009 Sheridan road.

Tuckman said that he is manager of the Chicago Manhattan club, 2418 West North avenue. Asked regarding the activities of the club, he replied: "People come up there to train, and every now and then there's a poker game or a little craps."

Doesn't Recall First Names.

Tuckman was hired as manager of the club, he said, by a man named Eslin, whose first name, he maintained, he doesn't know. They were introduced by a man named Jones, he said.

"Ah, the mysterious Mr. Jones," commented Judge Trude.

Attorney Seymour Lewis, representing Mrs. Tuckman, wanted to know Jones' first name.

"Why, John, of course," said Judge Trude. "Why not make this easy?"

Two years ago, Tuckman said, he had a drug store at Damen avenue and Division street. Before that, he said, he gambled. Judge Trude asked what his profits for a year were.

Borrowed to Live.

"Well," said Tuckman, "I book a little horses and I gamble a bit, but I've gone behind. Nobody has any money to spend. I had to borrow to live. I got $17,500 from the General Mortgage company on my unsecured note."

Tuckman has been giving his wife $50 of his salary of $100 a week since they separated, and gives the other $50 to his parents to help pay the rent of their apartment, he said. Discussing the manner in which he had provided for his family, Attorney Lewis asked if he hadn't sent his wife and daughters to California last year. He replied that he had.

"Who bought the tickets?" the attorney asked.

Tuckman refused to answer until ordered to do so by Judge Trude.

"Well," said Tuckman, "it was a Captain McCarthy."

"Who is he?"

"Well," Tuckman said, "it was Capt. Hughie McCarthy of the police."

Judge Trude ordered a recess immediately. The hearing was resumed later in the day and Tuckman was ordered to pay his wife $60 a week temporary alimony.

DARES LIBERTIES UNION GROUP TO VISIT KENTUCKY

Prosecutor Says They Are Meddlers.

Frankfort, Ky., April 8.—(AP)—A challenge to the American Civil Liberties union to carry out its announced intention of sending a delegation to the Bell and Harlan county coal fields in Kentucky was issued today by Walter B. Smith, Bell county attorney, in an open letter to Arthur Garfield Hays of New York, attorney for the union.

Smith made public his letter while at the capitol to arrange with Gov. Ruby Laffoon for the annual mountain laurel and rhododendron festival near Pineville in June. He was a silent observer in the office of the governor's secretary when a delegation of five representatives from Commonwealth college of Mena, Ark., left a statement for the governor outlining their relief mission to Bell and Harlan counties.

Calls Name High Sounding.

In his letter to Hays, Smith attacked the American Civil Liberties union as communistic and atheistic.

"You are a godless, self-appointed, nondescript, iconoclastic minority of grandiloquent egotists who arrogate to yourselves the right to meddle in courts, in legislature, in educational institutions, and in other people's business everywhere with a pompous air of immunity for your insolent conduct," he wrote Hays.

"Under your high sounding name, and your play upon the constitutional articles in the bill of rights, you seek to create a smoke screen behind which to effect your devilish uncivil and un-American designs."

Asks Series of Questions.

"You now have struck a snag in in your hitherto uninterrupted course of deception against the unsuspecting public in choosing Kentucky and Bell county as a ground to test your hypocritical pretenses. You have put your foot into it. In the language of one of our famous Kentuckians of other days, I say to you, 'It is now time for you to put up or shut up.'"

In a series of questions Attorney Smith asked Hays whether he believed in or was sympathetic towards communism; whether he believed in rights of private property; whether he interpreted "the American doctrine of free speech to mean that American citizens have the freedom of publicly or privately advocate treason," and whether he interpreted "the doctrine of 'unmolested assembly' to mean that men have the freedom to get together and openly and threateningly organize and combine against the established laws of the state."

Child Dies on Operating Table as He Is Given Gas

Robert Bransky, 8 years old, of 635 Roscoe street died on the operating table in Grant hospital last night. He was being put to sleep with gas at the time, and physicians attributed his death to heart failure. Shortly before the boy had gashed his foot on glass when he kicked out a window in his home, and he was taken into the operating room so that glass splinters might be removed.

Camp Fire Girls Mark Twentieth Anniversary

A celebration was held last night by the Campfire Girls of the Chicago district in Orchestra hall, commemorating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the organization. A play, "Hansel and Gretel," in three acts, taken from the opera of that name, was presented, under the direction of Miss Clara Baumann Pettee. The Grand Council Fire, participated in by 300 girls, one representative from each district, was also held. Mrs. William T. Grable led the council fire.

CARLSTROM CRY FOR TAX RELIEF RALLIES VOTERS

Swanson and Brooks Join in Primary Drive.

Cook county. We have a population of approximately four million people. In 1928 the tax bill for this community amounted to about 400 million dollars. For the year 1930 the total tax bill will be in excess of 500 hundred million dollars.

"Analysts have pointed out that this will be $132 for every man, woman, and child in the community, or more than $525 for each family. How can our industries and our civilization carry such an appalling burden?"

State's Attorney Swanson at the City club ripped into his opponent Judge Michael Feinberg, for his action in calling a grand jury to investigate himself as well as the state's attorney.

"I wonder," he said, "how Feinberg feels after his action was repudiated by 18 of the 20 judges of the Circuit court. They told him to act like a judge.

"Two judges voted against their 18 colleagues. I hardly need tell you who they were—Feinberg and Stanley Klarkowski, the men I called attention to in my report to the Bar association on bank receiverships."

Reveals Debt to Bank.

Referring to Feinberg's campaign to "Jail Crooked Bankers," Swanson said, "One of the men most active in promoting Feinberg's candidacy had $31 in the Stony Island bank and owes that bank $100 on an unpaid note."

The Swanson Business Men's Non-Partisan league amplified its attack on Feinberg by stating that in seven of the nine banks in Feinberg's court the total expenses for receiver and legal fees actually exceeded by $20,000 the total collections made through Feinberg's court.

The league issued a table showing that debtors of these seven banks—the Sheridan Trust and Savings, the First and Second Humboldt state banks, the Lake View State, the Second Northwestern state, the Central Oak Park state, and the Congress Park state—owed a total of $2,725,063.

"Of this debt," it says, "Feinberg claimed to have collected $368,498.88, but he actually collected $91,255.78, the receivers of the banks collecting $246,226.59. And to contrast with Feinberg's collections, the receiver and attorney fees paid were $110,360.15, more than $20,000 in excess of the recoveries."

Otto K. Eitel Heads Hotel Men's Tax Group

Otto K. Eitel, general manager of the Bismarck hotel, was appointed chairman of the newly created tax committee of the Illinois Hotel association yesterday by L. M. Harvey, president of the association. Earl L. Thornton, manager of the Great Northern hotel, and Leonard Hicks, manager of the Morrison hotel, were the other Chicagoans appointed to the committee. The committee will keep members of the association advised on the tax situation, and will represent the group in demands for governmental economy and lower taxes.

TEA AT SWANSON HEADQUARTERS DRAWS CROWD

Women gathered yesterday in the headquarterse of State's Attorney Swanson in the Great Northern hotel, where a tea for the candidate and his colleagues drew so vast an attendance that additional rooms had to be opened to take care of the overflow. Hundreds of women applauded the oratory, sipped tea, nibbled cookies, and listened to the entertainers.

Mrs. Harry Hoff and Mrs. Helen Merley were co-chairman, with a committee comprising Mrs. Susan Hough, Mrs. Louis Voller, Mrs. Frieda Koch, and Mrs. Julius Kessell. Mrs. Swanson was among the guests. Speakers included Mr. Swanson, Jacob D. Allen, Harry E. Hoff, John E. Northup, and Wilbur C. Smith.

Candidates on the regular Democratic ticket, headed by Judge Horner for governor, were boosted last night at a women's meeting at the Windermere West, where Mrs. George Bass presided and introduced the speakers. They were Miss Amelia Sears and Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, county commissioners, and Prof. James W. Linn.

Three women's meetings for Edward J. Brundage were held last night—in the Zion church at 38th and Dearborn, at 47th and South Parkway, born, at 47th and South Park way, Elmwood. This evening a "cabaret smoker" for young men and young woven of the University First Voters club will be staged in the Brundage headquarters at the Hotel La Salle.

Today Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest, an ardent Brundage backer, will be in the Forty-second ward, instructing the women in their homes how to mark the primary ballot.

Widow and Daughter of Brennan Cast Ballots

Mrs. George E. Brennan, widow of the Democratic leader, and her daughter, Mary, yesterday cast absentee ballots for Michael L. Igoe for the Democratic nomination for governor at the election commissioners' office in the city hall. They will be out of the city next Tuesday, when the primary election will be held.

CLEVELAND FIRM MOVING DREDGES TO MARSEILLES

The United States district engineers' office received notice yesterday that the Huffman Construction company of Cleveland had accepted a contract for dredging the Marseilles pool of the Illinois waterway and that a dredging fleet was already on its way to the scene.

The Huffman company was awarded the contract on a bid of $886,500, which calls for 1,954,000 cubic yards of common and 223,000 cubic yards of rock excavation. The contract contains a clause assessing a penalty of $250 a day for each day after Oct. 15 that a pilot channel, sufficient for the opening of the waterway, is not completed.

CERMAK TAKES SLAP AT IGOE'S POLITICAL JOBS

Horner Chides Rivals for Dual Tactics.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In the language of some of his hearers, Mayor Cermak "got personal" yesterday with Michael L. Igoe, who is opposing Judge Henry Horner, the regular Democratic organization candidate, for the governorship nomination.

Speaking in favor of Horner at a crowded noon meeting at the Apollo theater, the mayor brought up the fact that until recently Igoe received a salary as auditor of the south park board, although the commissionership he holds is an honorary position. Then he discussed Igoe's connection with the Federal Pipe company, which, he said, has done a big business with various governmental bodies of the state.

Until these utterances Cermak has confined his criticism of Igoe to his official acts in the legislature, such as his voting record on tax rate bills and on the bill to increase legislators' salaries. But it was said that he had been goaded into the "personal" attack by the fact that Igoe has directed his campaign at him more than at Judge Horner.

Mayor Lists Igoe's Offices.

The mayor repeated what he has said hitherto, that Igoe owes his several public and party offices to the good graces of the organization and then enumerated them.

"And he is a south park commissioner," the mayor said, "a position that is supposed to be entirely honorary, but he got himself a job as auditor of the board which paid him $5,000 a year.

"And he is attorney for the sheriff. Of course his name doesn't appear there, but there is a law firm in Chicago called Mason, Flaherty and Igoe. Flaherty is named as attorney for the sheriff.

"But he also took care of Mason. There is a concern known as the Federal Pipe company that does a lot of business with local governments in Illinois. Mr. Mason is president, Mr. Flaherty is secretary, and Mr. Igoe is treasurer. He is well taken care of."

Horner Chides His Rivals.

Judge Horner followed his usual form of campaigning at this meeting and at others later in the day. He did not mention his opponents, Igoe and Bruce A. Campbell, by name.

"The gentlemen who are opposing me, or, rather, I should say were opposing me," he said, "have tried to b too clever. They tried to be anti-Chicago downstate in the hope of attracting votes. In Chicago they love our fair city, but attempt to attack the mayor, who is giving us the best administration we have had in many years.

"One of the principal causes for gratification in this campaign is the way the people have seen through these tactics. The way in which sentiment all over the state has turned in our favor is an indication of the common sense of the Democratic voters of Illinois.

"The recent election in Cicero, in which the gangster elements went down to defeat, paves the way for a vote in the country town districts that will increase our majorities beyond what we expected."

Funding Group Suggested.

Two of the candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, Edward J. Brundage and Omer N. Custer, vied with each other during the day in proposals that were new in the campaign.

In reply to a questionnaire sent to candidates by Fred W. Sargent, general chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, Brundage wrote a letter proposing the creation of a funding commission to take hold of the $322,111,654 in obligations against the local governments in Cook county.

His proposal was that the commission, serving without pay, consist of a limited number of business men—"not bankers"—authorized by legislative enactment to issue debentures for the purpose of taking over outstanding tax warrants and, if legally possible, absorbing all of the 1931 tax levy.

"The commission," wrote Brundage, "would not function as a super-government, but would resolve itself into a board of estimate, apportionment, and expenditures with veto power over annual budget making by the 418 tax levying bodies of Cook county."

Cites Tax Warrant Problem.

Brundage discussed the serious problems confronting the local governments, pointing out that additional tax warrants are not marketable.

"The candidates in the present primary contest," he continued, "seem to have no actual knowledge of what confronts the public. They talk of economy and tax reduction, but suggest no plan for clearing up the muddle. Three of the candidates for governor on the Republican ticket were members of the state tax commission. They did nothing to attract attention to the situation which has now fallen so crushingly on the taxpayers of Cook county.

"Radical—almost revolutionary—methods must be adopted to save Chicago and its interwoven municipalities. If I were governor I would recommend this plan. We cannot carry on unless a practical method of salvaging the municipalities of Cook county is devised.

Custer Asks Legislative Action.

Custer's offering came in the form of a letter to Gov. L. L. Emmerson, urging legislative action to regulate the sale of real estate bonds, for the more stringent regulation of state banks, and for the supervision and regulation of bondholders' committees."

Custer charged that Attorney General Carlstrom had been negligent in protecting the small investors, and that he could have, and should have, saved for depositors of closed banks more than $1,000,000 in attorneys' fees by representing the receivers for all closed banks.

Custer proposed that the subjects he named be brought before the general assembly when it reconvenes in special session on April 19. Lawyers say none of the special sessions can consider these subjects, since they were not included in the call for any of them and that a fourth special session would have to be called if immediate action is to be sought. The cost of the three special sessions already in existence, it is said, will approach $250,000.

Affairs of Two Film Actresses Occupy Attention of Courts

Ethel Clayton, former star of films, whose final divorce decree from Ian Keith is being held up because of dispute over $4,827 actress claims husband owes her.

Fritzi Ridgeway, wife of composer in private life, who is being sued in Los Angeles for $2,639 grocery bill. The provisions were for a hotel owned by the actress.

Notes of the Primary Campaign

Regular Democratic headquarters yesterday made public indorsements of Judge Henry Horner from two leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, wrote, "rejoicing" that Judge Horner is running and hoping "for the sake of your state that the party will be wise enough to nominate you." Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York wrote the judge, "wishing you every success in your candidacy."

Twelve hundred neutral watchers, all above 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing more than 180 pounds, will be furnished to County Judge Jarecki by the Voters Non-Partisan association to guard the polls and watch the count on primary day, F. B. Ernst, treasurer of the association, announced yesterday.

Judge Michael Feinberg last night denied State's Attorney Swanson's charge that he had allowed attorneys' fees and receivers' fees in the cases of the two Humboldt State banks, and the Lake View State and the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank. Judge Joseph Burke entered the orders in the latter two cases, he said. Feinberg denied that he had entered any order or authorized any fees in the Humboldt banks' cases.

Through a typographical error, according to County Clerk Sweitzer, the name of Karl M. Vitzthum, architect and Republican candidate for trustee of the sanitary district, will appear as Vitztheim on some of the primary ballots. The error was corrected before all the ballots were printed.

Roy S. Gaskill, Republican candidate for municipal judge, has been indorsed by the Dovre club of Chicago, Young Chicago, Inc., and the 49th Ward Patriot Voters league, a non-partisan organization.

The Women's Republican Club of Evanston has indorsed an almost complete slate of candidates, among them Edward J. Brundage for governor, C. Wayland Brooks for state treasurer, and Congressman Carl R. Chindblom for renomination.

14 PCT. FEWER G.O.P. REGISTER IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—A record registration of Democrats for the California May 3 presidential primary and a loss of about 14 per cent for the Republicans was revealed today in a tabulation by the Associated Press.

Making gains in every county, the Democrats rolled up a total of 842,727, an increase of 388,739 over the registration for the state election of 1930 and 378,505 over that for the 1928 presidential primary. All but one California county is included in the tabulation.

Dispute with Mate

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—Efforts of Ethel Clayton, former film star, to assure repayment of $4,827.50 she claims Ian Keith, her actor-husband, owes her have delayed the formal entering in court records of an interlocutory divorce decree she obtained Feb. 26.

At the same time Fritzi Ridgeway, film actress, who in private life is Mrs. Bakaleinkoff, wife of the composer, was sued in Superior court to collect a grocery bill amounting to $2,639. The action was filed by the Allen Hotel Supply company, which contends Miss Ridgeway owes the money for provisions supplied to Hotel Del Tahquitz at Palm Springs, Cal., of which she is owner.

KERNER PROMISES FEARLESSNESS IN ADMINISTRATION

Atty. General Candidate Gives His Stand.

Circuit Judge Otto Kerner, now sitting in the Appellate court, issued a statement yesterday emphasizing the importance of the office of attorney general for which he is the regular Democratic organization candidate.

JUDGE OTTO KERNER.

Because of his judicial office, Judge Kerner has refrained from stump speeches of a political nature and his statement is considered his only complete expression on important questions concerning the attorney generalship.

Chief Law Officer.

"The attorney general," it read, "is the chief law officer of the state. His office is second only in importance to that of governor. It is the only one which has both constitutional and common law powers. He is empowered to represent the people in any suit or proceeding in which the state is the real party in interest. He is the sole official legal adviser of the governor, general assembly, and of all state officers, boards, commissions, and departments of state government, and it is his duty to pass upon the legality of all laws.

"It is also his duty to conduct the law business of the state, both in and out of the courts. He is authorized to consult with and advise the several state's attorneys in matters relating to the duties of their offices, and when he deems it in the interest of the people he shall attend the trial of any party accused of crime and assist in the prosecution.

Enforces Blue Sky Laws.

"It is also his duty to enforce the proper application of funds appropriated for public institutions and prosecute breaches of trust in the administration of such funds, and to supervise the administration of the inheritance tax laws and to see to the enforcement of the so-called blue sky laws. I shall perform all the duties of the office honestly and fearlessly and to the best of my ability. Nothing shall swerve me from my duty.

"In the past liberal appropriations have been the rule rather than the exception. Officials must put aside all questions of expediency which tend to make for extravagant appropriations. They must practice the most rigid public economy."

SIMPSON JR. RAPS CONCENTRATION OF GOVERNMENT

Campaigns on Economy and Dry Repeal Platform

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Weeks of hard campaigning in the Tenth Illinois Congressional district, one of the most important in the country, have taught James Simpson Jr. valuable lessons on the distracted state of the Union and the reasons for the distraction.

"I am finding," he said yesterday, people living in shacks built of boxes and tar paper who seem to know more about our government and its needs than do some of my friends in Lake Forest who kick loudly but don't vote and won't take the trouble to run for office."

To the question, "What, in your opinion, is the matter with this ailing country of ours?" the candidate for the Tenth district's Republican nomination for congress replied, "The principal ailment is what I have just told you—ignorance of and indifference to urgent national problems on the part of people who ought to be willing to row their weight in the boat. Those problems are everybody's problems. If our civilization is to endure, each of us must row his weight in the boat."

"What is the prime cause of these big problems?"

Raps Governmental Concentration.

"Concentration of government at Washington, instead of with the people. The original theory of our government was that the citizens should govern themselves and the federal government should be the intermediary between the states and outside powers. But today the whole scheme of government has got so far away from the people and has become so intricate that the citizen seeking redress does not know where to go. He loses his way in the thickets of bureaucracy.

"If you go to congress, Mr. Simpson, what remedies will you work for?" he was asked.

"Extreme retrenchment in every department of the government and elimination of prohibition. About three governmental departments could be abolished without the loss of any vital service. And the saving in money and relief from meddling would be huge. The first step toward relief from prohibition's waste and abuses should be repeal of the Volstead act. The ultimate step should be the turning of the whole problem of liquor control back to the states, leaving the federal government nothing to do with it except to collect the excise, as in the old days. The revenue would amount to about a billion a year.

On the Liquor Problem.

"The question today is not the question of bringing liquor back. Liquor is back—if it ever was gone. If liquor is to be sold, let it be sold legally and in an orderly manner, with its quality assured, its price reasonable, and the excise from it going to relieve taxation.

"Saving money and establishing rational liquor control are more than planks in my platform. They are its base. Each of them is a sincere, straightforward proposition and neither of them requires miracle men for its realization—just sincere men.

"The response of the people to plain sincerity from a plain man has been the most heartening feature of my campaign. I announced my candidacy last July and in the nine months since then I have made a neighborly canvass of our great district—in some parts a house to house canvass."

Makes Individual Canvass.

To the question, "How did you rouse them?" he answered:

"More by the individual canvass than by mass appeals. Of course, in a district that extends from the Wisconsin state line away down to North avenue in Chicago and that has a population of more than half a million, you can't talk personally with everybody.

"Since last July I have put in from twelve to eighteen hours a day of campaigning on a platform that hasn't been changed since I took my stand on it. Both my opponents have changed theirs in the last two months. Both were originally drys.

"One of them was floor leader in congress for the Anti-Saloon league and voted for the Jones five and ten law. Now he is campaigning as a wet. The other had petitions out for congress last July as a dry. And last February—on the last day for filing—he filed for congress as a wet. I don't believe that the conversion of either of those candidates is sincere."

Scotch on Both Sides.

Blunt speaking James Simpson Jr. is Scotch on both sides of the family. His mother was a McLaren. His father came of the Simpsons of Glasgow and today is chairman of Marshall Field & Co., where he began wage earning 41 years ago as a 17 year old clerk in the cashier's office.

Lean visaged young James is 37 years old, a farmer and proud of it.

"Every cent I've got in the world," he said, "is in my farm in Newport township, Lake county. It's no toy farm, either. It's 600 acres planted to corn, oats, wheat, and rye, and I have had it five years and made it pay."

Asked what has lured him into politics, the farmer said:

"It wasn't a lure. Partly it was the solid conviction that I was telling you about— the conviction that every citizen ought to be rowing his weight in the boat. And the other urge dates back to my days at Harvard."

"What was your class?"

"Twenty-eight, but I ought to tell you I didn't graduate. Anyway, while I was there I specialized in political science under Prof. Monroe, a great man in the teaching of government administration, and it's due to the lessons he taught me and to a certain sense of responsibility that he developed in his students that I am campaigning eighteen hours a day."

G. O. P. FIGURES IT HAS ROOSEVELT TO BEAT IN FALL

If So, Wet Plank Is Held Essential.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The triumphant progress up to date of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in the contest for the Democratic nomination for President is profoundly influencing the course of events, not only in the Democratic, but in the Republican party.

Roosevelt's capture of 25 of the 26 delegates in the Wisconsin primary last Tuesday, coming hard upon his victories over Al Smith in New Hampshire and Alfalfa Bill Murray in North Dakota, and his annexation of solid delegations in Georgia, Iowa, Minnesota, and Washington, has loosed speculation among the Democratic politicians on the possibility of the nomination of the governor on the first ballot. The Roosevelt partisans tell you that it is all over but the shouting, while the Smith-Raskob followers are far less sanguine of the success of the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

Republicans Plan for Roosevelt.

Among Republican politicians the prevalent opinion is that Roosevelt is going to be nominated, with the result there is much discussion of the character of the campaign which it will be strategic for the Republicans to conduct against a ticket headed by the New York governor. On every side one hears the Republican argument that with Roosevelt appealing strongly to radical Democrats and radical Republicans, the presidential election is going to be a contest between radicalism and conservatism.

That being the case, the argument runs, it behooves the Republican party to adopt tactics designed to hold conservative Republicans in line for President Hoover and to attract the support of conservative Democrats. Inasmuch as the conservative part of the country, which is mainly that part east of the Mississippi, is also the wet part of the country, the Republicans, it is contended, cannot be assured of carrying this region unless they adopt a platform that is satisfactorily wet.

This view is so prevalent among Republican leaders that none but the professional prohibitionists are still seriously talking of a dry plank in the G. O. P. platform. The general understanding is that the plank is to be dampish, if not actually wet; that Mr. Hoover is going to keep his hands off the proceedings in the convention resolutions committee, and that he is going to accept the plan, however wet it may be.

But Two Drys in Cabinet.

Of the ten members of the President's cabinet there are only two defenders of the prohibition régime, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. The others favor a change. Earl Kinsley, Republican national committeeman for Vermont, had a talk with the President today and afterward expressed the opinion that the sentiment for a change will be crystallized at the Chicago convention.

The problem with which the Republican leaders are wrestling is the writing of a plank wet enough to satisfy the wets yet not so wet as to alienate the drys. The present expectation is that it will take the form of a prohibition referendum commitment. Also the expectation is that whatever the Republicans do in the way of questioning the sanctity of prohibition the Democrats will go them one better.

While counseling a strong appeal to the wet conservative east, Republican leaders are also taking thought of the agricultural and radical west in which Roosevelt has demonstrated great strength. Something must be done to hold the farmers in line for Hoover.

One product of this line of thought, it transpires, is the putting forward of Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa for temporary chairman of the Republican convention, whose chief function would be the delivery of the campaign keynote address. In the words of the late Nick Longworth, Senator Dickinson is a "hell raiser for agriculture."

Roosevelt's attraction of Republican support of a radical tinge is being much discussed as a result of the Wisconsin primary. The Democratic party had become almost nonexistent in Wisconsin. The vote cast in the primary on Tuesday, however, makes the party one to be reckoned with again in that state.

At the same time the conservative Republicans gained the upper hand of the La Follettes in the Republican primary. These phenomena are regarded by most politicians as evidence that the radical Republicans deserted the La Follettes in enormous numbers and went over to Roosevelt in the Democratic primary with the intention of supporting him in the election.

No "La Follette" Platform.

Incidentally, with the stalwarts in the majority in the Wisconsin delegation in the Republican convention, there will be no La Follette member of the resolutions committee and hence no radical minority platform report presented to the convention by a La Follette for the first time in a couple of decades.

The Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries on April 26 will have an important bearing on Roosevelt's prospects. If he should win a substantial majority of the Pennsylvania delegates and some of the Massachusetts delegates his stock would go sky high. Otherwise the leaders of the "stop Roosevelt" movement would take new courage. The announcement of Al Smith today that he is still a candidate tightens the lines of the opposing forces in these states, one of which, Massachusetts, is a Smith stronghold.

Ritchie Suggests Hoover Take Definate Wet or Dry Stand

GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE. [H. & E. Photo.]

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, one of the candidates prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination for the presidency and an ardent wet, believes that a statement from President Hoover on his attitude toward the prohibition question is in order.

"I would like to see the President have some definite ideas on the subject of prohibition," Gov. Ritchie said in the course of an interview today. "Without wishing to seem disrespectful to the President of my country, it is, perhaps, a little surprising that he has not taken a stand on a subject of such importance as he has on every other question."

Prohibition and Jobs.

Gov. Ritchie came here to address the Calvert associates at their dinner tonight, celebrating the founding of Maryland.

The issues of the coming campaign, as he sees them, are prohibition and jobs. He has noticed a strong swing toward the Democratic party, particularly in Pennsylvania. He believes the Wisconsin and North Dakota primaries are the first concrete evidences of such a tendency, which he says has been obvious for a long time.

"Unless the chickens get back in the pot and the cars in the garages before November," the prospects of Democratic victory are excellent, the governor believes.

Sees Harmony at Convention.

Gov. Ritchie expects a short and harmonious convention, with the candidate who is strongest when it opens receiving the nomination. He conceded that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is making great progress at this moment.

If there is any coalition to "block Roosevelt" or any understanding to promote the candidacy of another possible nominee Gov. Ritchie has not heard of it. The other candidates, he said, may have a "common cause" which gives rise to such reports.

A letter received from President Hoover and read at the Calvert association dinner dwelt primarily with the principle of religious freedom and tolerance. "One of the proudest traditions of our history," the letter read, "is the early date at which our nation committed itself unreservedly and permanently to the principle of freedom and conscience."

87 Pct. of Doctors Polled Vote for Vivisection

Results of a poll just completed by the National Anti-Vivisection society revealed yesterday that more than 87 per cent of the physicians voting are in favor of vivisection. There were 3,632 replies from physicians in all parts of the country. Of these replies 3,258 were in favor of experimentation on living animals and 374 opposed the practice. Despite the vote in favor of vivisection, Clarence E. Richard, managing director of the society, asserted that the poll disclosed the value of the educational work anti-vivisection societies are doing.

DINNER TONIGHT ON F. J. LOESCH'S 80TH BIRTHDAY

Today is the 80th birthday anniversary of Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission.

The veteran attorney, who is serving his fifth consecutive term as head of the crime commission, will be chief guest this evening at a banquet arranged by the commission's officers and directors at the Union League club. Two hundred will be present.

Mrs. Loesch and her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Prentiss Browning, who is 96 years old, will attend. George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will be toastmaster.

Let Wild Flowers Grow, Forest Preserve Warning

Wild flowers in the Cook county forest preserves are there to delight the many and not to decorate the homes of a few, President Whealan of the county board warned yesterday. He held a conference with Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent of the preserves, following which Mr. Sauers instructed the district's police and foresters to arrest any one found picking the flowers.

BIG TRIMS MADE IN THE BUDGETS OF TWO SCHOOLS

Two school districts north and northwest of Chicago yesterday announced that they had made large cuts in their budgets.

Teachers in the Winnetka grade schools have agreed to accept a pay cut of 12½ per cent, effective at once, and the claim was advanced that total expense of the schools will be lowered 20 per cent. Eleven positions will be abolished at the end of this year. The board's budget, adopted March 28, called for an expenditure of $337,137, as against $416,418 last year.

Principal C. M. Himel of the Maine Township High school, taking in Des Plaines and Park Ridge, said that a 20 per cent reduction would be made in the 1932 budget.

STALKING HORSE STORY BRANDED FALSE BY SMITH

Reiterates He Is in Race to a Finish.

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith branded today as untrue the whispering campaign which he said had been spread throughout the country that he is a stalking horse for another candidate in the race for the Democratic nomination for President.

Going much further than he did in the first announcement of his candidacy a month ago, Mr. Smith declared he was in the race to the finish and had no thought of heeding the advice and counsel of those who are urging him to retire. In that he referred to Senator Key Pittman, close friend, who yesterday urged the former governor to step out of the race.

Letters Made Public.

Mr. Smith made public at his office in the Empire State building an extensive correspondence between his supporters in Connecticut, Pennsylvania and California dealing with the subject of his "availability." Stating that he did not know what was meant by his opponents who were whispering in those states that he was not "available." He wrote that he was ready and willing to accept the nomination if selected by the national committee.

The California letter, signed by P. M. Abbott as executive secretary of the Al Smith for President club, stated:

"The speakers for the candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt, who is also a candidate in the primaries, are stating that you are not in reality a candidate, asking why vote for the Smith delegation and throw away a vote, and that if you were nominated you could not be elected because of your religious affiliations."

In answer Mr. Smith stated in a telegram:

"I resent any whispering campaign that I am working in the interest of another candidate. That is false and would be a betrayal of my friends. I think you for the way in which you have dealt with the un-American and un-Democratic propaganda for the purpose of interfering with my friends in California."

Asked for Statement.

Thomas A. Logue, writing on behalf of a group in Pennsylvania, said his friends in that state felt that Mr. Smith should state to the public more concisely and definitely exactly what his position now is in the presidential contest, and that the Democrats there were confused by the whispering campaign, which makes out "that you are a stalking horse to ward off opposition to a certain candidate or to secure sufficient delegates to stop the nomination of some other candidate." To those, as to the other inquiries, Mr. Smith answered the reports were unqualifiedly untrue.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS WARD REDISTRICTING

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday handed down an opinion at Springfield holding valid the ordinance redistricting Chicago's fifty wards, adopted last summer by the city council. The court sustained Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court, who denied the petition of the Woodlawn Business Men's association for an injunction restraining the city from putting the new ward lines into effect.

The Woodlawn group fought the redistricting plan on the contention that the city council had not obeyed the state law governing redistricting, which provides that wards must be compact and of approximately equal population. The 7th ward, as redistricted, had a 1930 population of 88,009, while the 1st ward had only 56,000. The average for the fifty wards is 67,500, on the basis of the 1930 census.

TAB COLLAR SHIRTS

As far as collars are concerned men have pretty well divided themselves into the "stiff" collar school and the "soft" collar school. But here's a collar that appeals to both. The Tab has much of the smartness of a starched collar plus the comfort of the ordinary soft collar.

We are showing a very choice selection of new broadcloths and madrases in the authentic colors and stripings with tab collar in what we consider its best form.

ESTATES 'LOOTED' BY FEDERAL TAX RUN INTO SCORES

Show How Heirs of Rich Chicagoans Were Hit.

Scores of examples of the almost confiscatory effect of federal and state inheritance taxes were uncovered yesterday in a study of the inventories of estates left by wealthy Chicagoans, who died shortly before or since the market crash of 1929.

Under the government regulation the estate tax rate is based on the value of the testator's assets at the time of his death, regardless of the drastic decline in all securities in the last two years. It was this regulation which, as revealed in a Washington dispatch in Friday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE, converted supposed asset of $11,000,000 in the late Reuben H. Donnelley's estate, into a $1,300,000 liability for the heirs.

Other Cases Revealed.

While no cases were discovered quite as desperate as that of the Donnelley heirs, numerous instances came to light where the inheritance tax collectors had squeezed from heirs a sum equal to the present value of their inheritances.

A case in point was that of Mrs. Augusta Rosenwald, first wife of the philanthropist, Julius Rosenwald, rated one of the richest men in Chicago. Mrs. Rosenwald died May 23, 1929, a few months before the market crash.

In accordance with the federal regulations, her estate was appraised for taxing purposes at $19,800,000, the principal item being a block of 167,000 shares of the common stock of Sears, Roebuck & Co., valued on the day of her death at $120 a share.

State Takes $2,500,000.

Mrs. Rosenwald left to charity approximately $210,000, which was tax exempt. The state of Illinois imposed an inheritance tax of $2,500,000. The federal tax collector then stepped in and, allowing a deduction up to 80 per cent of what had been paid the state, levied an estate tax of $1,800,000. This brought the total death duties on Mr. Rosenwald's estate to $4,300,000.

Under the will the bulk of the estate was left in trust to the Rosenwald children, and the Sears, Roebuck shares could not be sold. These shares, on the basis of yesterday's closing prices on the New York Stock exchange, were worth approximately $3,350,000, or $800,000 less than the inheritance taxes paid.

Other Stocks Deflated.

Other items in Mrs. Rosenwald's estate were taxed even more inequitably, the inventory showed. The estate included 4,420 shares of Radio Corporation of America stock, taxed on a valuation of $414,205. The value of these stocks at yesterday's market price was $22,150. She also held 2,334 shares of the Electric Bond and Share company, valued for taxing purposes at $217,000. Yesterday value on these shares was $23,000.

Heirs coming into estates composed of bank stocks and others of the gilt edged variety have been the heaviest sufferers from the government's policy, the inventories showed. In the case of the late Louis D. Hirsheimer, stock broker and former head of the state board of equalization, the heirs paid in inheritance taxes more than one-third the present value of the estate, their attorney estimated.

Died Before Market Collapse.

Mr. Hirsheimer died Sept. 25, 1929, just before the bull market collapsed. His estate was appraised at $1,876,000, on which the state levied an inheritance tax of $184,000 and the federal government an estate tax of $35,000, bringing the total of death duties to $219,000.

Among the securities in the Hirsheimer estate were 742 shares of Commonwealth Edison company, taxed on a valuation of $306 a share, or a total of $227,000. These sold yesterday at $63 a share, making their total value $46,000. The estate had 315 shares of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, taxed on a basis of $705 a share, or a total of $222,000. These were quoted yesterday at $109 a share and their total market value is $34,000.

Often Unable to Sell.

While the position of estates carrying diversified stocks has been none too comfortable, tax experts say the heirs of these estates are well off by comparison with those who inherited large blocks of securities in a single company. Whereas the holders of diversified stocks may sell enough of them to meet the tax assessments, the holders of a single line of securities, they pointed out, often dare not sell for fear of depressing the market. Hence they are hard put to find cash to pay the taxes.

An example of an estate almost entirely invested in a single concern is that of David P. Thompson, assistant to the president and director of the Inland Steel company. Mr. Thompson died intestate on March 24, 1930, leaving his entire fortune to a 15 year old son.

A block of 40,700 shares of Inland Steel valued at $2,700,000 on the day of Mr. Thompson's death, comprised almost the entire estate. The net estate was appraised at $2,500,000, and the state and federal governments levied duties of $408,000. The stock on which this tax was imposed sold yesterday at $15 a share and had a total market value of $610,000.

State Tax Is Paid.

Another estate of the same type was that of Mrs. Minnie Simmons Towne, who died May 4, 1930. The principal item was a block of 50,120 shares of stock of the Simmons Bed company, a family holding. On the day of her death the stock sold at $22 a share. The estate was appraised at $1,100,000 and the state collected a $125,000 inheritance tax.

Stock in the Simmons Bed company is selling currently at $6.50 a share and the market value of the block of stocks is approximately $313,500. The executor has thus far refused to pay the estate tax levied by the federal government, contending it is exorbitant. Attorney Russell Whitman, representing the executor, said negotiations were being conducted with treasury officials in Washington in hopes of an equitable adjustment.

Spanish Princess Delays Her Wedding to Kin

The Infanta Beatrice, daughter of former King Alfonso of Spain, and her cousin, Don Alvaro d'Orleans, whose wedding has been delayed until prospective bridegroom passes his examinations at engineering school.

Daughter of Alfonso

PARIS, April 8.—(AP)—The marriage of Infanta Beatrice, daughter of former King Alfonso of Spain, and her cousin, Don Alvaro D'Orleans, will not take place until after he passes his examinations at the Zurich Engineering school next October, his father, Alfonso D'Orleans, said today. The wedding had been expected to take place on July 18.

At the same time a spokesman for the former Spanish royal family at Fontainebleau said Don Alvaro spent the Easter holidays there and there was no question of any quarrel between him and the infanta.

"There never has been a formal engagement between my son and the infanta," Don Alfonso said, "but there has been an understanding. They probably would have been married already if it had not been for the revolution in Spain, which naturally affected both families financially. My son has stiff examinations to undergo at Zurich and there is no question of the marriage for some time."

AUSTRALIA STATE DEFIANT; LOCKS UP TAX RECORDS

Premier Lang Spurns Federal Garnishee.

SYDNEY, April 8.—(AP)—The New South Wales state government of Premier J. T. Long ordered most of its tax records locked up today and in effect defied the commonwealth government to proceed with the seizure of state tax moneys to pay foreign obligations of the state.

The counter thrust was taken on orders of the Labor premier himself and follows by less than a month the withdrawal of £1,000,000 (normally about $5,000,000) in state funds from New South Wales banks by the commonwealth authorities under police escort. The federal government is acting under the financial agreement enforcement act passed by the federal parliament on March 3 empowering the government to seize the revenue or bank deposits of any state defaulting in debt payments. The measure was upheld by the Supreme court.

Padlocks Assessment Papers.

The commonwealth has proclaimed New South Wales in default and ordered income taxpayers to pay their assessments to the commonwealth, but Premier Lang's order today padlocked the assessment papers, stopped future issue of assessment papers, and sent part of the staff off for a holiday.

The premier's action affects the commonwealth even more directly, for under normal arrangements the state later in the year will collect taxes directly due to the commonwealth. Thus, Premier Lang not only interrupted collection of state income taxes but also stopped most of the commonwealth's direct revenue from New South Wales.

It was understood that the premier had the tax office keys in his own pockets. An opposition newspaper suggested that he could be fined $500 or imprisoned for six months if he refuses to reopen the tax department.

ARREST HOSPITAL PICKETER AFTER MAN IS ASSAULTED

Striking attendants at the psychopathic hospital were accused of assaulting Albert Norsworthy, 35 years old, 641 North Central Park avenue, yesterday when he was on his way to work at the institution. Later in the day the picketers were accused of taking a quantity of bacon from a truck which was to go to the nurses' home of the Cook county school for nursing.

Miss Nora Sullivan, 40 years old, 616 South Washtenaw avenue, one of the 27 employés discharged by the hospital as an economy measure, was named as the leader of ten picketers who jumped on Norsworthy, who went to the Marquette police station and signed a complaint against Miss Sullivan and John Arnett, 3301 Maypole avenue. Miss Sullivan and Arnett were arrested and released on bond. They will appear in the Fillmore street court today.

The report of the bacon theft was made by Miss Laura Logan, dean of the school for nursing.

The ousted attendants have tried to induce all union employés to strike. Forty-two attendants and orderlies have walked out of the hospital, while seven regular attendants remained.

Quink

PECULIAR name, isn't it? What does Quink mean? Quink means quick drying and an ink that's better than any ink you ever wrote with before.

HOW BETTER?

2ND Quink does not dry in the pen feed, so you never have to shake or coax your pen to start. Yet on paper Quink dries 31% faster than common ink, due to rapid penetration.

The use of this ink will make any pen work better than common ink.

Quink is a triumph in chemistry research. Ask for Quink if you want better ink. Small sample bottle free to the skeptical.

MASSIE DEFENSE PINS ITS HOPE ON ACQUITTAL ORDER

Expects Court to Enter Directed Verdict.

HONOLULU, April 8.—(AP)—A swift conclusion of the trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai, was in prospect tonight as the result of hopes and plans of both prosecution and defense.

Although the possibility that alienists would be brought into the case appeared in the offing, John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, announced he would present his case in three days.

Hopes of the defense for a directed verdict of acquittal were voiced by Montgomery Winn, associate of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, leading the fight for the society woman and her three co-defendants. They are charged with abducting and slaying one of five men suspected of raping Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Mrs. Thalia Massie. Other defendants are Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted naval men.

United States Alienists Arrive.

A directed verdict would make it unnecessary for the defense to present any testimony.

Both Darrow and Winn declined to confirm or deny reports that Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. James Orbison, Los Angeles alienists, who arrived here yesterday, would be associated with the defense.

"We are not even prepared to admit," Winn said, "we know they are here."

Prosecution attorneys had been conferring with Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Stanley Porteus, local psychologists, despite previous statements by Kelley that he was not planning to call alienists into the case.

May Not Use All Witnesses.

Kelley's statement that but three days would be required for prosecution evidence was taken to mean that he would not use all the 29 witnesses previously claimed for that side of the case.

Under orders of Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis the jurors will spend the week-end in their homes with the judicial admonition against discussing or reading about the case. The jurors will be segregated Monday, however.

Judge Davis said the plan of holding only morning sessions of court out of regard for Darrow's age would be continued. Darrow is in his 75th year.

When some one suggested that it might prove a hardship upon jurors having to spend idle afternoons under restraint, Judge Davis said:

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 8.—Albert Eustace Short, famous aeronaut and senior partner in the aircraft firm of Short Brothers, was found dead tonight in the cockpit of a seaplane he had just been flying alone over the River Medway near his works at Rochester. Mr. Short, who was more than 62, had made a perfect descent, but when the crew of a launch reached for the mooring rope they saw him huddled over the controls dead. The cause of death was somewhat of a mystery, but physicians think it was a heart attack.

Although Mr. Short made his first flight with Wilbur Wright in the first machine he took to France and had taken a hand in the design of every type of war and civil aircraft, he and his two equally famous brothers, Oswald and Horace, had produced, it was not until 1927 at the age of 58 that he started piloting airplanes.

N. U. FOOTBALL CAPTAIN TO WED

Miss Dorothy Florence Ames of La Grange, Northwestern university graduate, who will become the bride of Dallas Marvil, football captain.
[Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

Ceremony in June

Dallas Marvil, captain of the 1931 Northwestern university football team, and Miss Dorothy Florence Ames, a graduate of Northwestern last year, will be married next June, it was announced yesterday. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Ames, 114 6th avenue, La Grange, and a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mrs. Ames said that the exact date of the wedding had not been set, but that it would be after Marvil's graduation. He came to Northwestern from Laurel, Md., and is a member of Beta Theta Phi fraternity.

2 SERVANTS SUE RICH MEN FOR FALSE ARREST

Suits for damages were filed yesterday against two wealthy men by a chauffeur and a maid on the grounds of false arrest and defamation of character. The defendants are Washington Porter III., 4043 Lake Park avenue, former secretary to the American legation at Copenhagen, and Elmer Rich, of 6100 Sheridan road, a manufacturer.

Porter was sued for $50,000 by Miss Marie Sauer, the maid, who is still employed by his mother, Mrs. Frances Lee Porter, at the Lake Park avenue address. According to Attorney Gustave Bodie, Porter caused Miss Sauer's arrest last Jan. 3 for questioning about a $10,000 set of silverware which was supposedly stolen, but actually had been misplaced.

The suit against Rich, demanding $75,000, was filed by his former driver, Alfred Gehrig, now employed in Lake Forest. The bill, drawn by Attorney Jay J. McCarthy, alleges that Rich caused Gehrig to be taken to the Psychopathic hospital in November, 1930, and later had him brought before a Municipal court judge on a charge that Gehrig had threatened him. Gehrig won in both cases.

CHILE PUT UNDER MARTIAL LAW TO CURB DISORDER

Troops Patrol Streets; Cabinet in Office.

BY JOHN LIVINGSTONE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 8. — The Chilean congress today approved the martial law bill, the senate by a vote of 17 to 13, and the deputies, 56 to 23, following the government's resignation yesterday as a result of the financial crisis. A censorship decree also went into effect. The new cabinet took its oath of office today. It follows:

Victor A. Robles, Radical, premier and minister of interior; Carlos Balmaceda, Liberal, foreign affairs; Luis Izquierdo, Liberal, finance; Arturo Ureta, Conservative, justice; Alfredo Bravo, Radical, education; Luis Urrutia Manzano, Liberal, defense; Hector Rodriguez de la Sotta, Conservative, agriculture; Marco de la Cuadra, Democratic Liberal, public works; Sotero del Rio, social welfare; Gaspar Mora, former consul to Belgium, minister of lands and colonization.

Troops Patrol Streets.

President Juan Esteban Montero issued a manifesto stating that a new plot engineered by former President Carlos Ibanez threatened to throw the country into chaos. He asked all Chileans to maintain order and assist the government in its difficulty. A heavy run for silver coins on the Central Bank of Chile led to the old government's resignation.

Mounted lancers and police and foot soldiers patrolled the streets of this capital today, energetically riding down the only attempt at a demonstration. A group of extremist students started a parade but were quickly dispersed.

Troops March on Rebel Navy.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, April 8.—(AP)—Strong detachments of troops left Guayaquil tonight for the fort at Punta Piedra with orders to launch an attack at dawn to dislodge the naval mutineers who have seized the fortress and Ecuador's two-ship navy. Army units moving in during the day by train from Rio Bamba and Latacunja took part in the expedition.

An airplane squadron was prepared to blast 60 or more rebels out of the fort, and the port at Guayaquil was closed in order that steamers bound for Punta Piedra might be shunted elsewhere.

The government took the latter step as a means of starving out the sailors.

The newspaper El Telegrafo published an extract from a rebel manifesto which was intercepted by the government. Commander Ildefonso Mendoza was named as the revolutionary leader and the movement was called "a revolution in defense of the principles of liberty which are threatened by the conservative party."

Call Street Car Strike.

BUENOS AIRES, April 8.—(AP)—The Street Railway Employes' union decided today upon a 24 hour strike, to begin at midnight, April 13, in protest against the refusal of the companies to pay differences in salaries accrued since the application of the 8 hour day a year ago. The order affects surface lines and subways.

SCENES OF UNREST

Map shows (1) Gayaquil, Ecuador, where mutinous navy holds Fort Punta Piedra and against whom federal troops are now marching; (2) Santiago, capital of Chile, which is under martial law as a result of unrest over the financial crisis, and (3) Buenos Aires, where street car employes have voted a 24 hour strike in a wage dispute.

RAID BLIND PIGS WHERE MISSOURI STUDENTS DRINK

Columbia, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Twenty persons who operated places where liquor allegedly was sold to University of Missouri students were arrested here tonight in raids by 27 prohibition agents from Kansas City and St. Louis.

Agents who conducted the raids said only one of the places where arrests were made was near the university campus.

Simultaneous raids were made upon about eighteen places where two prohibition agents, who had pretended they were university students, said they had bought liquor.

Most of the places raided were beer flats, although one still was seized and the agents also took charge of an automobile which they charged had been used for transporting liquor.

SIR JOSIAH STAMP SAYS U. S. HAS NO 'GUTS' IN FINANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 8.—Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, who came to Ottawa from the United States today, told an assemblage of parliamentarians, including the prime minister and his cabinet, that neither the United States nor France had "the stability and the staying power." He added that these two countries lacked "the guts" to supplant Britain as the international money lender.

"The United States," he said, "has lost faith in its men and in its institutions and, worst of all, the Americans have lost faith in their slogans, and when the Americans lose faith in their slogans heaven help them."

CAPTURE OF 3 BY COP AND WIFE MAY SOLVE HOLDUPS

The police yesterday hoped to clear up a number of recent robberies through the capture of three men late Thursday night by Policeman Bernard Bukowski. The policeman's wife, Anna, aided in the capture. Mr. and Mrs. Bukowski were returning to their home at 5151 Henderson street after attending a theater when they heard a cry for help from a taxicab in front of 2644 Milwaukee avenue. Policeman Bukowski pursued a cab in his car, exchanging shots with the occupants, while his wife reloaded his revolver. At Armitage and Kedzie avenues the cab was forced to the curb and the robbers surrendered. They identified themselves as John Shepack, 19 years old, 1653 North Central Park avenue; Albert Klewer, 20, of 1648 North Spaulding avenue, and Richard Edwards, 21, of 2217 North Sawyer avenue.

ECONOMY PAINS GRIP CONGRESS IN BONUS STORM

Squirms Between Vets' Demand, Veto Threat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Economy continued to be the popular official watchword today. Actual steps to achieve it were taken and more were in prospect.

But over all hung the threatening cloud of the new and growing movement to force through congress a bill to pay veterans' bonus certificates in full.

To do so would require more than 2¼ billion dollars at a time when the treasury is issuing bonds to meet the expected 2¼ billion dollar deficit for this year and congress is wrestling with a tax bill to raise an additional billion dollars to meet part way next year's estimated deficit of 1¾ billion dollars.

Vets in Bonus March.

In anticipation of the bonus bill hearings, which will begin next week before the house ways and means committee, a group of several hundred members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars marched upon the capitol with flying flags and strident trumpets. To Majority Leader Rainey [Dem., Ill.] of the house and Senator McNary [Rep., Ore.], administration whip of the senate, they presented a petition which they said contained 2,240,030 signatures demanding immediate payment of the service certificates in full.

Leaders in both houses admit freely that if a bonus bill succeeds in getting a start it stands an excellent chance of passage. If this should happen they say they must look to a presidential veto as the only means of prevention. A year ago the house by a vote of 328 to 79, and the senate by a vote of 76 to 17, passed the bonus loan bill over President's Hoover's veto, but such majorities as those are not looked for on a bill to provide payment in full.

Despite this prospect of an undoing of all efforts to achieve government economy, congressional and administrative agencies continued to work for at least some curtailment of expenditures.

Senate Gets Action.

Most telling because it was something accomplished instead of something merely talked about was the action of the senate appropriations committee in agreeing upon a ten per cent cut in the 124 million dollar supply bill for the departments of stae, justice, commerce and labor. The cut was made under the McKellar resolution which sent the bill back to committee for the ten per cent operation.

Most prominent among the reductions was a flat $1,100,000 in the 11 million dollar appropriation for the bureau of prohibition.

At the same time Chairman McDuffie [Dem., Ala.] announced that the house economy committee would present tomorrow four bills contemplating a saving of some $6,000,000. The bills seek to cut government printing costs from 14 to 9 millions, to postpone a construction of a $750,000 heating plant, to transfer the work of the United States-Mexican water commission to the international boundary commission, and to coördinate the steamboat inspection service and the bureau of navigation.

In addition Mr. McDuffie said that he would carry to the committee's economy conference with President Hoover tomorrow a list of between 45 and 50 further suggestions for reducing government costs.

The President today consulted with Secretary of the Treasury Mills. Mr. Mills and Budget Director Roop will be at the conference with him. On the eve of the meeting the United States Chamber of Commerce, through its president, Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, came out with a vigorous plea for a balanced federal budget to be accompanied in so far as possible through reduced expenditures. The chamber will submit recommendations concerning the tax bill based on the result of a questionnaire sent to 1,200 business men's associations.

DETROIT MAY CUT CITY WAGES, BUT CALLS IT SURTAX

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—In addition to the 10 per cent already in effect, a surtax on all city salaries above $2,500 was today proposed by Councilman John Lodge, former mayor, to become effective July 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year. This would mean a cut of from 5 per cent to 50 per cent on all salaries of city employés who now draw in excess of $2,500.

Councilman Lodge said it was not a salary cut, but an emergency surtax leveled for the purpose of helping the city through its present financial crisis. He also announced that on Monday next he would, for the third time, attempt to have the council reduce all city employés' salaries one-third for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Ralph H. Stone, chairman of the city finance committee, stated that the suggestion to pay city employés part in cash and the remainder in certificates calling for payment out of 1931 taxes would not keep the city's promise to balance the budget.

"I think," Stone added, "that an ordinance should be passed which reduces expenses, including salaries, to the revenue which the city will actually receive to June 30."

On recommendation of Controller G. Hall Roosevelt an overdue pay roll of 3,000 city employés was today approved. More than $1,000,000 in interest is due upon the $40,000,000 in notes coming due in May and June, according to Controller Roosevelt.

Youth Pays Fine as Result of Auto "Necking" Party

Charles B. Keck, 19 years old, 205 South Kedzie avenue, was arraigned before Police Magistrate John Ehardt in Berwyn yesterday on a charge of "necking" in the suburb Thursday night. The girl did not appear and her name was not revealed. Police said they found the couple parked in a car at 39th street at Ridgeland avenue. "I'll fine you $5 and $5 costs, but suspend the fine if you marry the girl," ruled Magistrate Ehardt. "I'd rather pay the fine," said Keck.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—A campaign to bring about taxation of the liquor industry was under way here today. The move, originated by thirty-two men prominent in the banking and industrial world, will be nation-wide in its scope if the original appeal meets with the approval anticipated by its sponsors.

The New York group, in public notices, urged every voter to refuse to cast a ballot for any candidate favoring prohibition. In the first appeal a solution of the taxation problem of the federal government was offered. The proposition is simply to tax the liquor industry of the United States.

Financial Leaders Listed.

Leaders in the "let's do something about it" group include Theodore S. Watson of the investment firm of Watson & White; Julian W. Curtiss, president of A. J. Spalding & Co.; Hubert R. Brown, Frederic P. Moore, Alfred Ely, Paul Abbott, Colgate Hoyt, Marshall Prentiss, and other well known figures in the downtown financial district.

"We would like to see similar groups of bankers and business men interested in our movement in Chicago and other large cities," said Paul Abbott when seen in his office at 149 Broadway. "The growth of our plan depends upon public reaction. We will, of course, coöperate in every way with other cities, but their the liquor industry campaigns will have to be locally sponsored.

Prohibition Nonexistent.

"The 'let George do it' attitude so long followed by the voters of this country must be changed. There is no such thing as prohibition and most of the people know it. The bootleggers and racketeers are getting all of our surplus money.

"Figures published in the last year before prohibition placed the annual beer consumption at about 17 billion pints. A six cents a pint tax on beer would bring in more than a billion dollars and balance the national budget. I have been informed that approximately 500 million dollars of our currency is being hoarded in safe deposit boxes by bootleggers and racketeers who do not keep savings or checking accounts because of fear of taxation.

"It is high time, we believe, that responsible citizens took a hand, and if enough of them act something can be accomplished."

Back Wet Candidates.

In the public notice today readers were asked to send the following little note to President Hoover:

"I am in favor of taxation of the liquor industry as mentioned above and therefore will vote for candidates favoring the repeal of the Volstead act and the prohibition amendment."

Headed by the slogan, "Let's Do Something About It," the advertisements read:

"The President of the United States and congress are searching for new means of taxing the American people. For reasons best known to themselves they refuse to tax the most prosperous industry in the country—the liquor industry. Apparently they refuse to admit that the only thing that prohibition prohibits is regulation and taxation of the liquor industry. Practically prohibition does not exist.

Gangsters Get Money.

"Liquor is available throughout the country. These are facts. The only practical result is that the government is losing revenue estimated at a billion dollars a year, which revenue is now being collected by bootleggers and gangsters. This amount would be sufficient to balance the national budget."

Mr. Abbott said that the appeal to the voters to demand liquor taxation had met with wide approval in this city.

MARSHAL SEEKS WAY TO LOCK UP NEW YORK FARM

Rochester, N. Y., April 8.—(AP)—How to padlock a farm, that's what United States Marshal Joseph Fritsch wants to know.

He got an official order from his superiors today to padlock one in the town of Brighton. It said the place was raided Sept. 12, last.

Fritsch asked reporters about it. They didn't help much. One of them suggested he padlock a couple of apple trees and let it go at that.

The padlock order reads "farm," Fritsch insisted, and, he said, that means cow sheds, chicken coops, et al. He's asking for further instructions.

New York Commission Inspects Fair Grounds

Members of the New York state commission on the 1933 Century of Progress arrived in Chicago yesterday. The five commissioners, headed by State Senator Cosmo A. Cilano, toured the World's Fair grounds and buildings and inspected plans for future developments. Mr. Cilano announced that his state has appropriated $75,000 for its exhibits at the exposition, and if necessary, will obtain an additional $25,000. The members of the commission were given a luncheon in the trustees' room by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition.

AVIATION NOTES

Faster direct passenger service between Chicago and Nashville, Tenn., and Chicago and Louisville, Ky., is planned in a new system or air lines to be inaugurated by American Airways within the next month, according to Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president in charge of the Universal division. Other new lines will run from St. Louis to Evansville, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., where they will connect with the Cincinnati, Columbus, and Dayton to Cleveland line.

W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of the air mail, last week inspected the Chicago airport. He forecast that 1,000,000 passengers will be carried by air during the present year and said that loads of air mail clearing Chicago airport are as heavy today as at any time in the history of the air mail service.

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m., April 8, to noon, April 9:

Chicago-Cincinnati—Clear sky over north, overcast over south portion, preceded by light rain near Cincinnati; fresh to strong northerly winds.

Chicago-Omaha—Some high clouds, becoming threatening near Omaha toward morning; moderate east and southeast winds.

Route forecasts for 12 hours ending at noon:

Evansville-Atlanta—Partly overcast Saturday; moderate north winds near Evansville and fresh northwest near Atlanta up to 1,000 feet and fresh to strong northwest winds diminishing near Atlanta at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-New York—Overcast with rain; fresh east winds, increasing near New York and fresh to strong north near Cleveland up to 1,000 feet and fresh southwest winds near New York and fresh to strong north near Cleveland at 5,000 feet.

SENATE TO BEGIN STOCK EXCHANGE INQUIRY MONDAY

Rumor of French Bear Raid Spurs Probe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The long awaited senatorial investigation of the New York and other stock exchanges will commence next Monday with the appearance of Richard Whitney, president of the New York exchange, before the senate banking and currency committee.

The committee was convened hastily today, despite the absence of its chairman, Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] and the decision was taken to begin the inquiry.

It was reported that the moving force behind the meeting and the decision came from the administration and that the purpose of the investigation is to check, if possible, and learn the cause of the recent slump in the market.

Resolution Month Old.

The original resolution to hold such an investigation was passed by the senate a month ago after President Hoover and others close to him had demanded an exposure of the bear raiders and their methods.

At the insistence of committee members, including those belonging to the radical bloc, the first purpose of the inquiry—to confine itself to short selling—was broadened to include all phases of stock transactions.

Chief among the matters to be investigated is the report that a foreign bear raid, led by France, has been instituted with the intention of driving the United States off the gold standard. Treasury officials profess not to be worried so far as the stability of government finances is concerned, but by high government officers today such a plot by France was blamed in part at least, for the past week's recession in stock prices.

Brookhart Bares Report.

Senator Smith Brookhart [radical Rep., Ia.], who called the banking and currency committee together in Senator Norbeck's absence, said that he had a confidential report claiming that a foreign campaign against American credit was in process.

Senator Walcott [Rep., Conn.], who has acted as President Hoover's spokesman in bringing about the senate inquiry, declined to say what had moved the committee to make its sudden decision.

LEADER OF RED PARADE SHOT IN CAMPAIGN CLASH

Arthur Madden, 32 years old, 3116 South Halsted street, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday when a parade of colored communists clashed with political workers at Pershing road and St. Lawrence avenue. Madden, a white man, was leading the paraders, according to police. He was taken to the Dailey hospital.

Eugene Burton, colored, owner of a poolroom at 532 East 39th street, was charged with the shooting. He is held at Stanton avenue police station. Eight men and three white girls also were arrested, charged with rioting and inciting a riot.

The shooting occurred when the marchers tried to tear posters from a truck campaigning for Joseph Tittinger for Democratic ward committeeman. Burton was on the truck.

Two thousand persons, nearly all of whom were Negroes, rushed to the scene of the shooting. Burton took refuge in the basement of his poolroom and was rescued by a squad of police under Capt. Thomas Condon. The communists had staged a parade and demonstration, demanding free rent and other relief, in front of the relief depot at 700 Oakwood boulevard.

FRANCE BLAMES DOLLAR RAID ON GERMAN BANKERS

Says Woman "Ponzi" Was Their Tool.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 8. — An accusation that a notorious French "female Ponzi," Mme. Martha Hanau, was regularly paid by a group of German bankers to attack the dollar in her publications and that she maintained suspiciously close contact with the soviet embassy in Paris, apparently with the same object, was contained in a secret report today by Paris police to Finance Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

Mme. Hanau, who was sent to prison after the collapse of her get-rich-quick investment clubs three years ago, was released pending an appeal after a successful hunger strike. She was arrested again today on the curious charge of having stolen a police report about herself from the files of the finance ministry with the intention of publishing it in her new financial organ, Forces.

Linked with Gang of Bears.

The police are officially silent about the case, but reliable information is that they have been collecting evidence on her for months and have succeeded in establishing to their satisfaction that she is a member of a gang of bears employing illegal methods to drive down prices on the Paris bourse.

An interesting feature of the case is that the secret police report definitely links her frequently published attacks on the dollar with financial operations of a syndicate of international short sellers. This is particularly interesting, coming after an almost incredible attack on leading American banks which was launched by a section of the French press yesterday, but for this very reason conservative banking circles here are inclined to be a little skeptical about Mme. Hanau's connection with an alleged international conspiracy against the dollare on the grounds that the French authorities might be a little overzealous in sincere efforts to express disapproval of undercover attacks on the dollar which have appeared in certain papers.

Attacks U. S. Banks.

Whether or not Mme. Hanau is acting as a tool for a formidable ring of international conspirators, her persistent efforts to destroy the confidence of the French public in the stability of American financial institutions has long been noted.

For reasons she has never made known, Mme. Hanau has a bitter grudge against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It was rare when an issue of her journal did not contain a distorted translation of a TRIBUNE editorial, interlarded with comments of her own.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

It was stated March 31 in THE TRIBUNE that Julius Gualano, son of former Municipal Judge Alberto N. Gualano, had committed suicide following a quarrel with his sister. Mr. Gualano stated yesterday that there was no quarrel, and that the only visible motive for his son's act was the fact that he was rendered highly nervous by overstudy.

KILLED BY GAS FUMES.

Kewanee, Ill., April 8.—(AP)—Frank Holt, 45, of Woodhull, died of gas fumes from his automobile today.

Count teeth with others older than you

Ask those who have ALL their teeth, if they ever had gum trouble

among the few who escape pyorrhea. You can't "fool around" with pyorrhea. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up home treatment seriously, it will pay to use a toothpaste invented by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is used by thousands of dentists and his home formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste money can buy, with an extra-protection feature in its special formula. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. Use it twice a day—old and young. At all drug stores.

"Counting teeth" is not a very popular game. You can't find many people who will play it. There is too much embarrassment in confessing that natural teeth are missing. And there are not so many folks around who can boast two sound and perfect rows of teeth.

When teeth begin to "go," you feel that it is a personal failure. And it is. No matter how carefully you brush your teeth, they are never safe unless you care for your gums. Four out of five people past the age of forty have the dreaded gum disease pyorrhea—and pyorrhea takes half of the adult teeth which are lost.

Don't be sure that you will be

BUSINESS CHIEFS EXPAND BATTLE ON TAX WASTE

Senators Approve Move of Chamber of Commerce

Success achieved in lining up business interests in the middle west in a movement directed at reducing tax burdens and lowering governmental expenditures has resulted in the Chicago Association of Commerce taking steps to make its campaign nationwide.

G. W. ROSSETTER. [Moffett-Russell.]

The association has received many letters from chambers of commerce in other cities offering cooperation in the campaign. In addition a considerable number of congressmen have written to the association with favorable comment.

George W. Rossetter, president of the association of commerce, has written to organizations throughout the country asking their help in the campaign to protect the interests of the taxpayers.

List Is Made Public.

The associations whose assistance has been asked include the following:

Boston Chamber of Commerce—For the New England states.

Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce and Commercial club—Intermountain states.

Included in the messages received yesterday was a telegram from Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York stating that he had presented the resolution adopted at the Midwest conference held here on March 29 to the United States senate. He explained that the resolution was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Agrees with Resolution.

A letter from Senator Bulkley of Ohio stated:

"I agree with the statement in the resolution that it is necessary to balance the national budget at as early a date as possible and that elimination of unnecessary expenses of government is imperative. Serious and careful consideration is now being given to this question and I am hopeful that constructive results will be accomplished." Other expressions follow:

Senator Robinson of Arkansas.—"Thanks for bringing to my attention the action of your association with reference to balancing the national budget. I am heartily in accord with the views expressed that the strictest economy must be the first step, with additional taxes carefully formed."

Congressman Chiperfield of Illinois.—"I am fully in accord with the resolution adopted at the conference recently held in your city."

Congressman Byrns of Tennessee.—"I agree with you that every effort must be made to reduce the present cost of government and I shall continue to bend every energy toward the reduction of federal expenditures and appropriations."

The Milwaukee Association of Commerce has advised Mr. Rossetter that the resolutions adopted at the Chicago meeting are being sent to leading Milwaukeeans interested in governmental affairs and to Wisconsin congressmen.

Chambers Promise Aid.

The chamber of commerce of Knoxville, Tenn., states that it approves the stand taken by the Midwest tax conference. The Dayton Chamber of Commerce states that the sentiment expressed at the Chicago conference prevails in that Ohio city. The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has written Mr. Rossetter stating that it is in accord with the endeavors to reduce national taxation, "bearing in mind that the national budget must be balanced." It states that the two congressmen from the Cincinnati district have agreed to coöperate.

President Randolph Eide of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has congratulated the Chicago association on its tax campaign. He told of the work his organization is doing in the same direction. Evansville, Minneapolis and Lexington organizations also expressed their sympathy with the movement.

How Modern Women Lose Pounds of Fat Swiftly—Safely!

Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness With Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drug store in the world.

DOES CURRENCY SLUMP HURT U. S. FOREIGN TRADE?

Senate Asked to Study World Conditions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The senate, following a day of tariff discussion, today referred to the audit and control committee a resolution of Senator David Reed [Rep., Pa.], calling for a tariff commission investigation of the effect of depreciated world currencies on the foreign trade of the United States.

SENATOR D. A. REED. [(C.) H. & E.]

Before its final action, however, the membership voted favorably on an amendment to the resolution offered by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] creating a select committee of seven senators to make the investigation through the tariff commission. It was necessary to refer the resolution to the audit and control committee so funds necessary to carry on the inquiry might be authorized.

Introduction of the Reed resolution brought forth a series of tariff speeches which Senator Joseph Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, late in the day declared had "beclouded the issue."

The real question, he said, was not concerned with the relative merits and effects of tariff walls, but whether or not the investigation proposed was necessary and practicable.

Opposition to Senator Reed's proposal, mostly from the Democratic side, was based principally upon the belief that such an investigation would prove a step toward higher tariff rates.

According to Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] the present high tariff rates are responsible for the tremendous decline in world trade, and to make them higher, in his opinion, "would be disastrous at this time."

Ends Tonight

Chicago's largest, as well as most artistic spring flower show, which closes at 10 p. m. tonight on Navy pier, was declared yesterday by Mrs. W. L. Karcher, president of the Garden club of Illinois to have equaled and possibly exceeded in attendance that of the previous year.

Mrs. Karcher welcomed as guests yesterday Rufus Dawes and a group of World's Fair officials who are considering the possible coöperation with garden clubs in a flower show during the 1933 Century of Progress exposition. Dr. G. Castruccio, Italian consul general for Chicago, was another guest who particularly admired the elaborate floral display of Charles Fiori, Highwood, Ill., landscape gardener, a native of Italy.

MR. HYDE'S APOLOGIA.

A letter from the secretary of agriculture was published on this page on April 7. Mr. Hyde called attention to the fact that THE TRIBUNE had published a chart showing that department of agriculture expenditures had increased from $30,000,000 in 1917 to nearly $300,000,000 in 1931. Mr. Hyde felt that the chart did an injustice to his department because it failed to discriminate between expenditures for agriculture, properly speaking, and expenditures for other purposes which congress had thrust upon the department without consulting the secretary.

A true comparison, he says, would show that $11,000,000 of the $30,000,000 appropriated in 1917 went for purely agricultural purposes, while no more than $23,000,000 of the $300,000,000 appropriated in 1931 was similarly employed. The increase, if his reasoning is accepted, is therefore not $170,000,000 but only $12,000,000.

In support of this argument Mr. Hyde has itemized what he might be disposed to call the irrelevant expenditures, the hundreds of millions appropriated for roads, for drought relief, and the rest. He seems to assume that if only the outlay is carefully itemized all complaints will be silenced. That doctrine will be read with interest by all those who have occasion to submit expense accounts. The secretary seems to say that $3 breakfasts and hotel rooms at $14 a day are all right provided the items add up correctly.

Itemizing the expenditures, far from justifying them or the total bill, serves merely to accentuate the outrage. To the taxpayers it makes not the slightest difference whether Mr. Hyde or congress is to blame. The chart was published not to adjudicate the precise degree of responsibility, as between congress and the department head, but only to show the scandalous rate at which government costs have mounted.

Mr. Hyde's items throw a powerful light on this aspect of the matter. They show, for example, $174,000,000 appropriated to the states to help them build roads. It is a singular fact that this money comes for much the most part from precisely those states which have spent the largest sums on road building within their own borders, and goes to the mendicant states which have been derelict in road building. The appropriation is a form of organized theft from the progressive states for the benefit of the backward ones. Mr. Hyde says this money "served the general welfare and relieved unemployment," but he fails to note that an altogether disproportionate share of the money was spent in communities where unemployment was least pressing. The unemployment problem is primarily a city problem, and little if any of the $174,000,000 was spent in cities. It should also be observed that the increase in federal road appropriations has been substantially negatived by decreases in state appropriations.

Fifty millions, says Mr. Hyde, went to drought relief in the form of emergency loans. That is a scandal which has not yet been fully exposed. It is already clear, however, that the loans differ from ordinary borrowings in that they are not being repaid. The government is not getting much of the money back and the farmers and country bankers who benefited from these grants have confused the words loan and gift. Farmer Jones and his creditors have been given a present paid for by Taxpayer Brown and his creditors.

Fourteen millions, says Mr. Hyde, went to support state agricultural experiment stations. That is an expense that is difficult to justify. If the stations are worth what they cost, the states which benefit ought to pay the bill. Six millions for eradicating bovine tuberculosis is another expense that ought to be met by the states or not at all. Two millions for wild life conservation at a time when human beings are confronted with bankruptcy seems an unnecessary charge.

Mr. Hyde does not go into the expenses which can properly be classified as agricultural, but they, too, are not above criticism. What are the people of the United States getting for the additional $12,000,000 of which he writes as if it were negligible? What purpose is served by finding ways of increasing farm yields at this time when the major problem of agriculture is said to be crop surpluses?

Mr. Hyde is no doubt an able administrator, but he and all others in Washington who attempt to explain away or justify the crushing burden placed upon the taxpayers are a menace to the nation. Mr. Hyde's letter is the itemized account of ruin.

LIGHTENING THE LOAD.

In March a year ago the city government paid out $5,150,949. In March this year it paid out $3,615,935.

That represents a reduction of $1,535,014, or about 30 per cent, a saving which the taxpayers—that is, the citizens of Chicago—will appreciate and Mayor Cermak may well be proud of. Last March we were finishing a campaign for the mayoralty. This March we are in a campaign for gubernatorial, congressional, judicial, and other important offices. The comparison of city expenditures for these two months is especially significant. Mayor Cermak has saved 30 per cent for the taxpayer—that is, the citizen—in political circumstances which have seldom if ever before encouraged officials to retrench. Pay rolls usually go up before primaries and elections.

PRIMARY RECOMMENDATIONS TOMORROW.

THE TRIBUNE tomorrow will publish its recommendations on candidates at the Tuesday primary. It offers them without pretense to infallibility. There are nineteen hundred candidates seeking nomination at this primary on the county ticket, and to do exact justice to each is an impossible task. All THE TRIBUNE can say for its suggestions is that they are based on all the information it could acquire and upon the will to be fair and helpful to voters.

Meanwhile, we would repeat what we have said on such occasions before for many years, the task of responsible self-government is made impossible by the multiplicity of elective offices.

A LOT YET TO LOSE.

The Garden show, out on Navy pier, this year can be relied upon as one of the most delightful of urban events on the calendar. It comes early and its horticulture is able to anticipate what the people are to experience later. The gardens on display are well ahead of the outdoor season and people take delight in a foretaste of the later spring.

Gardens imply possession, tranquillity and security. They connote a land holding and home owning class, whether on a small plot or a large acreage. They mean that the possessor and cultivator has a stake in the land and therefore is of the political estate relied upon for durability. The garden is taken as the symbol of a pleasant, wholesome life, sequestered at times for the ripening of the individual but social in its outlook and serene in its prospects.

Gardens imply that people have achieved the realization of many reasonable expectations of life, having acquired a possession which can be spared from elemental uses and devoted to the feeling for beauty and the service of happiness. A hard pressed race works every available foot of land for sustenance and works it hard. Americans have thought that the general escape from such a lot was a reasonable thing in national expectations and they have been fairly successful in their attempts at realization.

Just now they are slowed up. Possession has become more precarious and the struggle is harder. Destitution has been a community problem and a social injury which private good will has endeavored to relieve and considerable political activity has contrived to increase. Nevertheless there are millions of Americans who have much that still can be lost and still can be saved. A visit to the gardens on the pier showed this type of Americans. They do not make any extreme demands of life, but are happy and having a good time within their modest requirements. Their standards are sound and their possessions are within the reasonable average allotment.

Their stake in the country is not large for the individual, but the aggregate is national strength and solidity. The United States has suffered considerably to date, but it has more yet to lose than it has lost. It would seem to be worth a good deal of effort to preserve it.

STRADDLING CANDIDATES.

The Crusaders have done a service to the cause of responsible politics and real self-government in protesting the activities of candidates for ward committeemen who offer themselves as advocates of prohibition repeal while they are working for the candidate for governor supported by the Anti-Saloon league, Mr. Custer.

Mr. Custer says he can't do anything about prohibition reform, but the Anti-Saloon league doesn't feel that way about it apparently. They know Mr. Custer, if elected governor, at least can do what his sponsor, Gov. Emmerson, did, and the ward committeeman candidates know it. They are depending upon voters overlooking their responsibilities. Voters should disappoint them. Candidates working for Mr. Custer are backing the Anti-Saloon league.

The selection of ward committeemen next Tuesday is one of the most important duties of the voters. They will choose the delegates to the party conventions and therefore help to fix the party policies in state and nation. The Democratic delegation will be emphatically for prohibition and Volstead repeal. Republican voters should see that the Illinois delegation at Chicago is as wholeheartedly for this reform and no candidate for ward committeeman who is working for a candidate indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league can be relied upon to bring that about. He is straddling now, and he will straddle then.

ANYHOW HE GOT MAD.

[N. Y. Herald-Tribune.]

Our amiable neighbor the Times uncorked a large vial of its best eloquence not so many days ago and called upon Gov. Roosevelt for "indignation." It was only fair to the governor, the editorial conceded, to suppose that he was "holding his natural and instinctive repulsion in check." He could not be "so different from his fellow citizens" as not to have felt "his gorge rise" at the disclosures "of our civic shame made by Judge Seabury":

> "So it is probable that he is only waiting for a fit occasion officially and publicly to uncork the vials of his wrath."

Well, the "fit occasion" at last arrived. After repressing his natural indignation many weary months, the governor emptied all the vials of his wrath in one grand gesture. Unfortunately, however, that was the extent to which he took the advice of the Times. For he emptied them not upon the "betrayers and scoundrels" of Tammany, but upon two anti-Tammany clergymen who were asking for not much more than the Times had asked for two weeks before. A little more action, yes. But principally "indignation."

So far the plot is clear, if amazing. At this point, however, it becomes hopelessly confusing. For the Times promptly threw its bonnet in the air and cheered the governor loudly for excoriating the two clergymen! They heard again the "voice of the Franklin Roosevelt" who was once an anti-Tammany senator. What were the ringing words anent Tammany which our neighbor now described as a "second barrel" let loose "full in the face of Tammany Hall"? Here they are, shot by shot:

> "In New York City and other communities of the state there are altogether too many public officials who are using the offices for private gain, even though such use may not be a legally criminal offense."

These terrific words, equally applicable to Tammany New York or to any Republican city upstate, appeared to our neighbor as "courageous and heartening," a "deliverance without paltering or fear," "a declaration of war upon the baser elements in Tammany" and "a bold and fine contribution to honest and honorable thinking about politics in this city."

Reason totters at the thought of what eloquence the Times might have uncorked if the governor had actually discharged anything in the face of Tammany except a noble sounding bit of blah.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

R. H. L.

THE DEMOCRATIC KEYNOTE SPEECH.

There is much talk now about what Sen. Barkley is going to say in his keynote speech to the Jefferson lads when they hold their convention in Chicago in June. Mr. Barkley is said to be flying around conferring with this great man and that and hunting up source material in the Library of Congress and otherwise being busier than a one-armed paperhanger with the hives in fly season time. We don't think Senator Barkley ought to get himself all het up like that. It isn't necessary. We simply can't imagine a softer job than writing the Democratic keynote speech for this coming convention. There isn't the slightest necessity for viewing with alarm, pointing with pride, or calling attention to the fact that the very corner stone of the republic is crumbling into small pieces. Anything and everything that the keynoter of the Democrats says to the smiling, radiant, happy throng that crowds into the convention is going to be received with cheers that will be heard from Evanston to South Chicago.

He can read the Chicago telephone directory and before he gets as far as Abbott, A. A., in the first column the delegates will be applauding madly. When he gets over to Aaron, Herman, on the second page the delegates, alternates, and gallery will be cheering, and by the time he gets to Abernathy, J. O., the convention will be in a turmoil, standing on the chairs, shrieking "Pour it on 'em, Barkley," and "Attaboy; hittem again." By the time the keynoter has read the city directory as far as Aero Club of Ill. Flying Field, 4300 W. 83 PROspot 0151 the convention will be marching around the hall, the delegates carrying their state banners, and the bands playing "Life Is Just a Bowl of Raspberries."

Yes, the keynote speech for the Democrats ought to be easy this year. And if Senator Barkley doesn't want to read the telephone directory he can recite "Mary Had a Little Lamb" or "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck" and he will start a demonstration that will last forty-five minutes by the watch and be congratulated afterwards for having made the greatest speech since Cicero bawled out Carthage in the forum in ancient Rome.

SPRING CLEANING.

April has no ear for jaded tunes,
No eye for mustiness and ruins.
She makes demands
For virgin lands.

And with a fresh young wind behind her broom
She sweeps a path to make more room,
And leaves her laughter
Floating after.

She scours and scrubs and gathers in a heap
The frayed outgrown things we keep;
They have no worth
In this new birth.

And we can see the smoke of her bonfire
With all our old dreams curling higher . . .
What's sad and slow
Must go.

FERRY ADAMS.

LEN SMALL is making his campaign for governor on a platform with one plank, "Prosperity." And they say that when Len thunders that word at his Republican audiences children scream, women faint, and even strong men grow pale and tremble. And those who remember four years ago when that word was the synonym for two cars in every garage, a chicken in every pot, simply turn around and jump right through the window, glass and all. Why, Len! haven't you heard?

SEZ UNCLE ANDY MELLON as he arrives with his suitcase at St. James's: "I did not come to Europe to solve reparation and war debt problems." We'll bite, Andy, what did you go to Europe for?

IN VIEW of the rather unpleasant way the stock market acted yesterday the political campaign is a great relief. And we used to think there was nothing quite so boring. But now the frenzied speeches and the wild charges and counter charges, the megaphones and the radio addresses serve to divert us from the news of the ticker. Louder, candidates, louder and funnier!

AND SINCE the income tax and inheritance tax on fortunes have been going on for some time now, those among us against whom congress has raised the "Soak the Rich" campaign can make reply: "There isn't any more; that's all there is, that's all there is."

A LADY PRESIDENT of a political club who started to read an address of welcome from the President stumbled along for a while and then said frankly she couldn't read Mr. Hoover's writing. The greatest trouble they have down in administration circles in Washington is not that they can't read Mr. Hoover's writing but they are entirely unable to read the writing on the wall.

SONG IN SEASON.

Ho, time to fish again! And I shall go
Where attic coffers yield an overflow
Of boots and creels, old clothes and books of flies,
And thoughts of snow fed streams; the bluest skies
And alder thickets bursting leaves; the feel
Of tugging speckled beauties on the reel . . .
Untangling last year's lines, left all awry,
I crisscross them from beam to beam, to dry—
Glad, glad to fish again with blossomed spring
And dreams—a thousand ice-loosed dreams! I smile
And say, "With fishing good, outdoors will bring Forgetfulness and peace." And all the while
There is much more. When I unjoint my rod
My soul has caught a rapturous glimpse of God.

DRINK MORE WATER.

"THE dietetic error that has killed more patients than any other is the neglect of administering enough water." This statement, written by Dr. E. F. Dubois, is quoted in an editorial of the Journal of the American Medical Association, based on a bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Physicians learned, generations ago, that when in taking care of a case of acute, severe illness, such as pneumonia and typhoid fever, they must never let the patient's tongue get dry and red edged. If this symptom developed trouble was brewing. Most of them knew that a way out was to have the sick one get more water, in one way and another.

Dr. Dubois goes a step further and says the urine must not be allowed to become concentrated and heavy. That, too, is a bad sign, and calls for more water. If, for instance, a person who had an acute rheumatic fever excretes urine that is dark, thick, concentrated, scant, and highly acid, a wide awake physician will insist that the sick one get more water. If he will meet this earlier symptom promptly and effectively, brown, dry tongue with red edges will not follow.

He has one more suggestion for physicians and their patients. It is that whenever the food intake is materially decreased the water intake should be increased enough to compensate. A person resting quietly needs about two and a half quarts of water a day. If he is doing moderate work he requires nearly four quarts.

Exercising violently in very dry, hot air, the requirement may mount to ten quarts. If working fairly hard he will need about five quarts. About three-fourths of a quart is lost from the body by perspiration that is merely sufficient to keep the skin comfortably moist. If hard work is being done, the amount that rolls off may reach as much as a gallon. Much water is lost with the breath. The excretions account for the remainder.

When the body is throwing off five quarts of water a day and keeping in water balance, two quarts are consumed as drink and three as an ingredient of the food.

All foods are rich in water, even those we call solid. Nearly 90 per cent of milk is water. Butter contains all the water the law permits. Nine-tenths of fruits and vegetables is water. Even drier foods, such as meat and bread, have a large water content.

In the utilization of foods by the tissues considerable water results from the required chemical action. We know that ing burning coal in a grate gases are made and watery vapor, as well as carbonic acid, is a constituent part of these. The air we expel from the lungs contains both water and carbonic acid made in this way.

The editorial says when the body burns sugar it makes one-half an ounce of water for every ounce of sugar used.

WATCHING AN OPERATION.

Student writes: A short while ago I was given an opportunity to witness a major operation. When I saw the incision I fainted. When I came to I braced up, went back to the operation room, and sat through the proceedings for an hour without further trouble.

REPLY.

You were shocked by the sight of the body being cut. As a result of mental shock your blood pressure dropped suddenly from about 120 to about 70. Your brain was suffering for blood. In order to protect these important structures your consciousness center shut off the power to the nerves and muscles which held your head and body upright. You fell prone. Your brain got its share of the blood and your balance was restored. You came to as soon as you got over your "wooziness" and your pressure became normal. You went back to the operating room. You were now case-hardened and blasé, and what you saw did not shock you.

NOSE BLEED IN YOUTH.

Mrs. J. C. F. writes:

1. My 6 year old boy suffers frequent nose bleeds. The last one he had the blood came out of his mouth. Is this anything to be alarmed about?

2. I have quite a lot of hair on my face. Can this be removed permanently by electricity? Is it painful?

REPLY.

1. Children have nose bleed frequently. It occasions more alarm than is justified and it is not significant. In some cases there are adenoids that may require removal. There is sometimes a bleeding point to be cauterized. Usually repeated nose bleed in young people means nothing more than that in the rapid growth the plans and specifications are not being exactly followed. Some parts are a little ahead of the procession, and others a little behind.

2. Yes. It is not pleasant. If there is a great excess the job is not worth while.

RENEWAL BY IMPLICATION.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I read your many helpful advices and wonder if you could help me. My lease expired Jan. 1. The landlord did not say anything, nor did I, about a new lease. I want to know whether this old lease became automatically legal and binding to the tenant or must there be a new lease made. The lease is on a store. Is it binding in any way on landlord or tenant? A. K. A.

Where a tenant under a lease for a definite term holds over beyond the term and the landlord accepts additional rent, these circumstances, in the absence of other circumstances showing a contrary intent on the part of the landlord, result in a renewal by implication so that neither party can terminate the tenancy nor increase the rent during such renewal.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHECK CASHING DELAYED.

Pekin, Ill., April 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I gave a check to a person on Jan. 1 and this person on Jan. 3 gave the same check to another person who on Jan. 7 took check to another bank than the one it was drawn on and got his money. On Jan. 8 the bank the check was drawn on failed to open, so the person that cashed the check gave the bank the money he had received for the check. How will this have to be straightened out? O. J. A.

We are of the opinion that the holder who delayed from Jan. 3 to Jan. 7 must stand the loss.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DIVERSEY AVENUE EXTENSION.

Chicago, April 5.—[Friend of the People.]—We understand that the Surface Lines are to operate a bus on Diversey between Milwaukee and Western avenues. As that would be about the only way that we could make connections with stores, etc., it certainly would be convenient for us. Please advise if our information is correct. A. B.

The ordinance providing for a unified transportation system, and approved at a special election July 1, 1930, provides for the extension of Diversey avenue from Milwaukee to Elston avenue. However, proceedings testing the validity of this ordinance are now pending in the Supreme court of Illinois, and we cannot say when the decision may be expected. It appears very unlikely that any action will be taken on this extension until the legal obstacles have been cleared away and the new transportation company has been enabled to accept the ordinance. JEFFREY A. O'CONNOR, Commissioner of Public Service.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 11.—The Second Japanese army, sent to attack Fuchow, has met with no resistance so far. It is reported the Chinese are concentrating at Newchwang. A detachment of the First army is advancing on Haiching.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Globe prints a letter from a British citizen in China who occupies an important position which brings him in touch with the mandarins and masses, in which he says: "A tragedy may occur any day and when the Japanese come within sight of Peking I feel certain that every foreigner will be massacred."

SHANGHAI, Dec. 12.—Since the capture of Port Arthur Li Hung Chang has secretly reported to the government of Peking his inability to check the advance of the Japanese armies. In his report he deplores the want of railroads more than the lack of troops.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 12.—The Japanese legation issued a statement in part as follows: "The Japanese minister expresses the strongest disbelief in the reports of the atrocities alleged to have been committed by the Japanese troops at Port Arthur. He does not hesitate to denounce as unqualifiedly false the statement contained in one account telegraphed from Yokohama that there was an unrestrained reign of murder at Port Arthur for three days after its capture and that practically all of its inhabitants were butchered in cold blood."

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14. — A dispatch from Newchwang says a force of Japanese commanded by Field Marshal Oyama has arrived within sixteen miles of that place.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 9, 1904.

PARIS.—A St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says that Admiral Makaroff with his fleet went out from Port Arthur this morning, a Japanese squadron having been signaled in the offing. The correspondent adds that it is rumored that a sea fight took place, but nothing concerning it was officially known.

LONDON.—There is nothing to confirm the rumor of a Russian reverse on the Yalu river. A Tokio correspondent transmits the rumor that a battle has occurred near Kiuliengcheng, but no details are given. The Russians have withdrawn across the Tumen river as well as across the Yalu, not opposing the Japanese advance. A dispatch from Newchwang says reports continue to arrive there of incessant Japanese activity at the mouth of the Yalu river. This is believed to be intended to distract attention from an attack much nearer Port Arthur. A demonstration by the Japanese fleet either at Port Arthur or Newchwang is expected tomorrow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The forces backing Alton B. Parker for the Democratic nomination for President won an overwhelming victory in the primaries here. The returns show that William Randolph Hearst did not capture a single delegate and did not even carry a ward in the city. Thomas Taggart controlled the election machinery and with the police force at his back his position was impregnable. A. N. Lawrence, western manager for Hearst, in a statement, charged that the primary was a "criminal outrage" and puts the blame for alleged theft of ballots on Taggart.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 9, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Germany's disclaimer of responsibility for the destruction of the channel liner Sussex surrounds the position of the United States in the present submarine controversy with further difficulties and may turn action, if any be taken, from the Sussex case itself to the accumulation of ships destroyed without warning since Germany gave assurances governing the submarine campaign.

EL PASO.—A desperate effort is being made by the American expedition into Mexico to capture or kill Villa quickly. Danger of Carranza being unable much longer to control some of his generals who oppose the presence of United States troops on Mexican soil has given the American pursuit an impetus which has thrown the border into tense excitement over the prospect of Gen. Pershing's immediate success. Brig. Gen. George Bell Jr. was advised at Fort Bliss that ten troops of the Sixteenth cavalry under Col. Herbert J. Slocum are in close pursuit of Villa southeast of Satevo.

LONDON.—German troops have captured French positions for the width of more than a mile on the ridge of Termiton hill south of Haucourt and northeast of Verdun, the Berlin war office announced. This advance places in greater peril the French troops which are holding the salient at Bethincourt, which is only eight miles northwest of Verdun proper. The French had the better of grenade fighting to the southeast of Verdun.

VIENNA.—The Italians are expected to begin a big offensive before May 1. The move is said to have been planned by the allies' conference at Paris. Sharp skirmishes in the Tyrol and tuning up of artillery on the Isonzo front presage the beginning of heavy fighting along the Austro-Italian frontier soon.

IN MADISON COUNTY.

Edwardsville, Ill., April 2.—Your editorial or statement as to Malone, Brundage and Carlstrom in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE is a true one. Permit me to give you conditions in this county [Madison] as they are today in reference to the campaign for governor.

Every state employé is home working night and day for Custer. They have money and they are spending it.

All former state employés under Gov. Small are out working for Small.

All Republicans who want to see a Republican governor elected next fall and the county and legislative ticket successful in November are for Oscar E. Carlstrom.

I have been in every campaign since the McKinley campaign of 1900. On election night, 1930, I heard precinct after precinct come in until the final returns showed Lewis had carried the Republican county of Madison by over 16,000 majority, and he carried with him the entire Democratic county ticket.

I have been over this county in the last few weeks. I have not met a man or woman who is for Malone or Brundage.

The Carlstrom meetings at Belleville and East St. Louis were the largest and most enthusiastic meetings I have attended in years.

JOHN B. COPPINGER.

A COLORLESS CANDIDATE.

Oak Park, Ill., April 6.—I was quite amazed to read your editorial today saying Oscar E. Carlstrom should be supported for governor. As attorney general his record of accomplishment is in compromising the big suits which his predecessor had brought to a successful conclusion. Len Small was let off with 50 per cent of the money he owed and the Illinois Central railroad decree which had been won after ten years of fighting was stipulated aside and the old basis of accounting returned to. Nothing else can Mr. Carlstrom point to except the routine opinions of the office. Nothing constructive and nothing showing administrative capacity in his public career. Surely THE TRIBUNE could not have made a more colorless recommendation. ROLLIN I. READ.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR GOVERNOR.

Chicago, Ill., April 6.—THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated on its editorial of April 6 in which it recommends a candidate for governor whose experience will keep him from being a stranger to state affairs should he be elected. I think this is a very important qualification in a candidate, that is, if we are to have immediate relief, and that is what we are most interested in. If we send a stranger to Springfield this year we cannot expect him to pick up the reins in a controlling manner for at least a year, and by that time who the hell will care what happens? THOMAS V. TALTY.

RAILROAD RATES WESTWARD.

Chicago, April 1.—I have read with a great deal of interest your editorial in THE TRIBUNE of Friday, April 1, concerning "A Rule that Doesn't Work Both Ways," having reference to the denial of the application of the Southern Pacific railway for permission to meet Panama canal competition.

There is one feature that is usually overlooked in connection with the westbound all rail rates or water and rail rates, and that is that the railroads, in accordance with a report submitted to the interstate commerce commission, showed that the carriers hauled empty cars westbound, from 45 to 60 per cent, in order to supply the equipment for eastbound loading.

If the railroads were able to secure loads westbound at one-half the rates eastbound, it would more than pay for the westbound movements and materially increase the earnings, for the reason that the eastbound loaded movement must, at the present time, absorb expense of the empty haul westbound.

C. E. CHRISTOPHER.

GARDENS WANTED.

Chicago, April 6.—For a long time a vacant block on Sheridan road between Sherwin and Jarvis avenues has been a veritable dumping ground. Might not the area be made available for gardening by neighborhood unemployed and children? Scattered all over our so-called Garden city are other hundreds and thousands of pieces of messy vacant, in need of tidying and willing to sprout grasses, flowers and vegetables if human hearts and hands will do their bit. To cultivate and beautify spaces may help to balance not only household budgets but young and old minds as well. C. B.

IN DEFENSE OF JUDGE SWANSON.

Chicago, April 6.—The primary campaign is in progress. Charges and counter charges, inherent in all political campaigns in Chicago, are being hurled right and left. Now it is State's Attorney Swanson who appears to be bearing the brunt of the criticism. Among the accusations which have been made is the allegation that he has permitted Capone to establish 10,000 speakeasies "under his very nose" in the city of Chicago. [It is to be assumed, of course, that speakeasies were unknown in Chicago previous to Mr. Swanson's occupancy.]

It is not quite fair to the state's attorney to censure him for his alleged policy of noninterference with bootleggers and associated criminals, since, in failing to deal effectively with this element, he is merely attempting to execute the will of a majority of our citizens.

It may be recalled that, in a state referendum on the prohibition issue, a considerable majority of the voters of Illinois expressed themselves as being in favor of the repeal of the state dry law enforcement act. In other words, they voted their approval of the speakeasies, since, as long as the federal law is in effect, liquor cannot be sold legally in Illinois, whether we have a state enforcement act or not, and must therefore be sold, illegally, through the speakeasy.

It should be apparent to every intelligent person that the prohibition question, in its present status, is a national, not a state, issue.

WILLIAM G. ENGLAND.

GANGS.

Chicago, March 31.—I believe that there should be some concerted action by the police, Juvenile court and the public school officials to rid our neighborhood of a gang of young hoodlums who, if they are allowed to run loose much longer, will be far more dangerous and better organized than the notorious "42" gang. They have grown so bold that our children are afraid to go alone into the washrooms of our public schools. There the gangs of young toughs lie in wait for them and inflict all sorts of indignities on our children's persons.

The most notorious of all gangs in this neighborhood is the Holstein park gang that terrorizes all who wish to use the Holstein park community house during the winter or the park swimming pool or recreation park during the summer.

Our children are afraid to take advantage of these play spots built by us taxpayers; our children are afraid to go to the store at night. I hear of young girls being raped by this gang. This Holstein park gang is the best known, but the Montana street gang is just as well known. MRS. ROBERT R. RAPP.

THE THING TO DO.

Chicago, April 1.—It may be partly true that some folks attend the symphony concerts because it is the "thing to do." But if "Depraved but Honest" would attend some of the "pop" concerts and see the people coming a half hour ahead of time to get the better seats in the balcony just for a chance to enjoy good music he would be convinced they were not attending because it was the "thing to do." Also, he would note that the house was always filled to the last seat on the "pop" nights.

I am not a musician—not even a music student—but I am going to miss the concerts a great deal next season if they are discontinued. Had "Depraved but Honest" attended the concert on Thursday night of Holy week and heard the continuous applause at the close of the concert, which lasted at least five minutes, he would realize that the people were not there just because it was the "thing to do," but for the enjoyment of the music. Where can you find an audience standing at the close of a performance applauding for five minutes?

A HUMBLE CONCERT LOVER.

A VALUABLE LIST.

Chicago, April 2.—This note is written to thank you for the information published on page six of this morning's TRIBUNE.

I wish to suggest that every voter in the U. S. A. preserve a copy of the list of names of those members of congress who voted for the tax bill which passed the house of representatives yesterday, and when election day arrives provide for 327 strange faces in the house on the 4th of March, 1933.

If the present members of congress are unable to reduce government expenses, it is time for the voters to reduce the present members of congress. C. B.

IN CASH PRIZES FOR BEST ANSWERS!

People everywhere are asking the question: Who will be the next President of the United States?

This new game, which started in the Picture Section of last Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune, will acquaint you with the prominent Americans who have been mentioned for the next Presidency.

Can you cut apart the set of composite pictures printed above, put them together properly and name them? You will find it interesting amusement.

These pictures are reprinted here for the benefit of those who did not start this fascinating new game last Sunday. You can start with these. Then get Set No. 2 in the Picture Section of tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

Continue each Sunday until you have the ten sets of pictures which comprise the entire game. Then send them in with a letter telling which of these men you would like to see President and why.

That's all you have to do. No subscriptions to solicit. No tie-breakers. No hard work. Just a little pleasant pastime for readers of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in cash prizes for the best answers submitted. This offer is open to every man, woman, boy and girl everywhere.

THE RULES:

1. Each Sunday for 10 consecutive Sundays a Set of 3 Composite Pictures of persons who have been mentioned for the Presidency of the United States, will be printed in the Picture Section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune. Each set of pictures, when cut apart and assembled properly, will make complete portraits.

   You are invited to put the pictures together and name them and tell in a letter of 50 words or less which of the 30 persons you would like to see President of the United States and why. Clues will be printed beneath each Composite Picture to help you.

   The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the best answers. See Prize List at right.

2. The Composite Pictures must be cut out, assembled and pasted together. Below each picture must be written the name of the person pictured. A total of 30 pictures will be printed—3 each Sunday for 10 Sundays. NOTICE: Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 30. Then send them to "Presidents," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. No entries will be returned.

3. This game is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It does not matter where you live. You pay nothing.

4. All pictures must be in by midnight 21 days after Set No. 10 is published. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

5. Make your entry simple. Elaborate entries will receive no greater consideration than simple ones. The judging will be based upon the following:

   Second: Merit of the accompanying letter.

6. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

OLIVER ABSENT WHEN CONVICTS START TO PRISON

Bond in Peril Unless He Shows Up Today.

Unless Gene G. Oliver appears at the Leavenworth penitentiary today to start serving his sentence of eighteen months for evading income tax payment, steps will be taken at once to forfeit his bonds of $17,500, according to an announcement made last night by District Attorney Johnson and United States Marshall Laubenheimer.

GENE OLIVER.

Oliver, who is a former member of the board of assessors, was ordered to join a consignment of federal prisoners that left Chicago last night for the prison in Kansas. He failed to appear, but sent a message that he was in Hannibal, Mo., and would join the party at Kansas City. The train doesn't pass through Kansas City. However, Oliver's commitment papers were forwarded with those of the other prisoners and it was indicated no action would be taken against him if he reports at Leavenworth today.

Jack Guzik Enters Prison.

Jack Guzik, former business manager of the Capone gang, arrived in Leavenworth yesterday under guard of two deputy marshals. He also was an income tax dodger, as was Ralph Capone, who is serving a three year term in another federal prison. Alphonse Capone, the leader of the organization, is still in the county jail, hoping the Supreme court will save him from his eleven year sentence.

Machine Gun Jack McGurn, reputedly the Capones' chief gunman, has been convicted of white slavery and sentenced to two years in the federal prison. He is striving to have the Supreme court reverse the conviction.

Other gangsters already in prison, sentenced for income tax offenses, are Frank Lake, whose term is eighteen months, and Terry Druggan, who must remain for two years and a half.

Free D'Andrea Monday.

Two members of the Capone outfit who have paid the prison penalty for income tax fraud are Frank Nitti and Sam Guzik, released from Leavenworth within the last two weeks. On Monday Philip D'Andrea, Al Capone's bodyguard, will be released from the county jail after serving five months of a six months' sentence for contempt of court, assessed when he carried a pistol into Judge Wilkerson's court. He was given the thirty day reduction for good behavior.

District Attorney Johnson does not believe the freedom of the trio means they will continue to be important in gang circles. "The history of gangland, from the time Dapper Dan McCarthy and John Torrio were given six months' sentences in 1925, has shown that after serving a sentence the ganster does not reassume a conspicuous rôle," he said.

SEIZE 5 SUSPECTS FOLLOWING $2,500 MARKET HOLDUP

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas Kopicka, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Will Jones, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

Five men were arrested yesterday shortly after they are alleged to have robbed the Market Wholesale Grocers, 918 West Randolph street, of between $2,500 and $3,000. Fifty persons, half of them patrons, were terrorized by the bandits. The money was taken from Mrs. Helen Blum, 3235 Dickens street, the cashier.

John Serno, 22 years old, 2117 Taylor street, was seized as a suspect by policemen a short distance from the scene. The other four were arrested by Sergt. Lee Connelly and his squad in an automobile in the 1200 block in South Ashland avenue. They identified themselves as Anthony Finino, 18 years old, 1503 Taylor street; Sam Clement, 27, of 1246 South Ashland avenue; Tony Lococo, 21, of 1248 South Maplewood avenue, and Fred Umbasec, 20, of 2729 South Springfield avenue.

J. P. ABANDONS PLANS TO WED AFTER 250 OFFERS

Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison of Evanston, a great-grandfather, who announced recently that he was willing to enter matrimony if he could find a red haired wife—one not too old—decided last night that he had better remain single.

"I have got about 250 letters," said the justice, who is 79 years old, "and there are so many wonderful women that I don't see how I could make a choice. Also, I've seen some of the girls, and they were fine.

"But I think I'll just go on writing letters to all of them and not march up to the altar. How would it be if I was just a correspondence school husband to all of them?"

SPIKE O'DONNELL KICKS AT RIDING ON STREET CAR

But Goes with Cops and Pays Own Fare.

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, who has just been eliminated as a beer baron on the south side, was taken for a ride yesterday. It was only a short ride and on a street car, but Spike had to pay his own fare and that, added to all his other troubles, made him bitter toward Lieut. Edward Kelly and his squad, who had arrested him in the lobby of the Hotel Sherman.

SPIKE O'DONNELL.

"I can't even come out to get a little fresh air any more," he growled. "You put me on a street car and take me to the detective bureau, make me pay the 7 cents and then want to make a clown out of me at your showup. What kind of a town is this? I'd like to tell Cermak what I think."

His remarks were unavailing and he and three of his henchmen, Sanford [Gimp] Rosenbaum, Edgar McDonald, and Fred Stronger, with whom he was discussing politics when the police found him, were taken to the lockup.

All were released after they had been passed through the bureau of identification, O'Donnell being saved the humiliation of the showup.

Drys Raid South Side Bars.

While he was behind the bars federal prohibition agents acting under Administrator M. L. Harney raided a number of south side resorts. One at 4742 South Halsted street reputedly is headquarters for Danny Stanton, who has taken over a large slice of south side territory on behalf of the syndicate built up by Alphonse Capone and managed by Joe Fusco at present.

Other places raided included saloons at 1912 South Crawford avenue, 1123 West 47th street and 6758 South Halsted street. Fourteen prisoners were taken by the government men.

The final defeat of the O'Donnell gang, which had been reduced by the syndicate inroads to the Gresham territory—from 75th street to 95th street and State street to Western avenue—came less than a week ago with the death from bullet wounds of Spike's brother, Charles.

Their organization formerly also had the Lawndale territory, but Dan McGeoghegan and Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, muscle men with long records and among the toughest in Chicago, had forced them out there. They had been conducting a campaign of terrorism in Gresham, too, tossing brickbats into the saloons of those who bought their beer from the O'Donnells and occasionally going inside, armed, to smash the barrels.

Passing of the O'Donnells.

With the death of Charles, who was said to be the best fighter in the O'Donnell forces, Spike was reported to have obeyed unwillingly the order to get out of the business and stay out. His passing leaves Joe Saltis, in the New City police district, the only independent beer baron competing with the syndicate.

Stanton, McGeoghegan and Quinlan are sales agents for the syndicate. Their price is $55 a barrel. Many of the saloonkeepers have pointed out that economic conditions require a lower price than 25 cents a glass, but the syndicate in reply points to high overhead charges and compels them to keep prices up.

Shoots Herself to Death in Home of Her Daughter

Mrs. Delia Horan, 49 years old, shot and killed herself last night in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Mertes, 5929 North Maplewood avenue, with whom she lived. Her body was found on a bed, a revolver near her hand, by her granddaughter, Edith Mertes, 7 years old, who was attracted to the bedroom by the ringing of an alarm clock.

Ireland Notifies Dominions Oath to the King Must Go

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, April 8.—The Free State government tonight made public the text of replies sent in acknowledgement of messages from Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa regarding the announced intention of President Eamon de Valera to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British king.

The messages of these three dominions expressed in a friendly manner the hope that differences with Great Britain might be approached in a spirit of good will so, as Prime Minister Hertzog of South Africa put it, that "relations between the two oldest sister states of the commonwealth might not be disturbed."

Insists Oath Must Go.

The Irish replies are separate, but each stresses the existence of a "conscience test" in the oath of allegiance and President de Valera's intention, following the mandate given him by the people, to remove it at the earliest possible moment.

To Hertzog De Valera said:

"We refuse to acknowledge that Great Britain or any other country has a right to insist on the imposition of the conscience test on the members of our parliament. Such impositions are opposed to the fundamental rights of Ireland, as a distinct nation from Great Britain. The imposition was unjust from the beginning and was forced on an unwilling people by the threat of an immediate and terrible war. The people have declared their will and it is my duty to secure the instant removal of the oath."

To New Zealand, De Valera cabled: "We do not consider that the government of Great Britain has a right to regard our intended action as a cause for quarrel. On the contrary, the removal of this and other barriers to friendship created by Great Britain must result in the establishment of those good relations which you desire, as we do, to see established between the two islands."

Says Britain Created Obstacle.

To the Australian premier De Valera said: "I should make it clear that the obstacle in the way of friendship was not created by us. We have a definite mandate and intend to secure the immediate elimination of the conscience test according to the fully recognized right to change our constitution as the people desire.

"We wish for friendly relations with Great Britain, and I have no doubt that we shall establish relations of real friendship as soon as Great Britain realizes that an equality of right and not of one-sided imposition of tests and unjust burdens is the only possible basis of friendship between us."

Hertzog, in acknowledging De Valera's reply, said that his original message was prompted solely by a sincere wish to promote the chances of a satisfactory solution of the dispute, a matter of interest to all, by creating an atmosphere of mutual good will and understanding. He did not, he declared, intend any expression of opinion on the merits of the case or the propriety of raising the issue.

DESERTS DIRTY DISHES TO TAKE OVER A MILLION

Pekin, Ill., April 8.—[Special.]—Herman A. Bailey, 24, was rubbing a greasy dish in a Court street restaurant today when a good genii appeared, clad in the uniform of the United States mail.

He handed Bailey a letter from his mother, Mrs. Pearl Honea, Dangerfield, Tex., containing a certified copy of the will of Bailey's granduncle, William Hughes, Los Angeles, Cal., miner, who died a few weeks ago.

"Second," the will read, "I hereby give, devise and bequeath to Herman Albert Bailey, grandnephew of mine, the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000)."

Bailey is a nephew of the late Joe Bailey, United States senator from Texas for 20 years and national political leader.

Hughes' will provides that the residue of his estate shall go to his brother, Alfred Hughes. The testament is dated May 31, 1913. The Bank of Italy, Los Angeles, is named executor.

Mother Hunts Son Taken Shopping by His Father

Mrs. Clara Britten, 6244 Blackstone avenue, asked police yesterday to search for her 9 year old son, Dale, whom she believes was taken to Cincinnati by her estranged husband, John Stanley Britten. The father came to her apartment yesterday and took the boy out, supposedly to buy him a pair of shoes, she said. They did not return, and she learned on inquiring at the Illinois Central railroad station that a man and a boy answering their description had taken a train for Cincinnati.

Confesses Killing Owner of Poolroom in Quarrel

Enrico Garcia, 19 years old, 813 North La Salle street, confessed last night to Sergt. Hugh Smith of the Chicago avenue police that he shot and killed Benito Abobo, 40 years old, during a quarrel in the latter's poolroom and restaurant at 642 North State street early Thursday. Both are Filipinos and Abobo was commender of the Tomas Claudio post of the American Legion.

SLAYS PARTNER, FLEES, AND THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Boonville, Mo., April 8.—[Special.]—His chest pierced several times by bullets, the body of Leo Meistrell, 42, investment banker, was found in the vault of his business office here today after an all night search by police for Meistrell and his partner, William W. Kingsbury, 55. Both had created alarm by their absence from home since late last night.

An hour and a half later Kingsbury was found, dead of self-inflicted wounds, in the Valhalla cemetery near St. Louis.

Boonville authorities said Kingsbury presumably killed Meistrell during a quarrel. A bullet wound in the right temple, Kingsbury's body was found with a revolver containing two discharged cartridges at its side. In a pocket was a note identifying him, but with no other information.

Meistrell's body was found this morning after police drilled into a locked vault in his office. Meistrell's hat was found on his office floor. Learning that Kingsbury had been seen leaving the building alone the night before, police ordered the vault forced open. Until discovery of Meistrell's body police had been working on the theory of a double kidnaping.

Meistrell and Kingsbury, according to T. C. Beckett, Cooper county coroner investigating the slaying, had been partners for fifteen years until last August, when the partnership was dissolved after a quarrel between the two. Six weeks ago, Beckett asserted, the pair had a violent dispute.

SEIZE SUSPECT IN HOLDUP.

Morris Macaluso, 21 years old, 3049 Franklin boulevard, was seized as a suspect yesterday afternoon shortly after Leo Pam, messenger for Davis Rosenthal, commission merchant at 838 West Randolph street, had been held up and robbed of $936.

Some Advantages of Weekly Passes

Passes entitle the holder to as many rides as he desires—within the zone and during the week for which pass is issued.

When the purchaser is not using it, it can be loaned to a member of the family, a friend or an employe.

A money saver for families

Buy an "L" Pass for family use. The housewife will find it economical in taking her shopping all over the city! Children can use it for educational and school trips. It is convenient for everyone for every travel purpose.

The only "L" Pass Limitation: the pass must not be transferred before completion of the particular trip for which it was presented.

BY increasing the ease with which the worker, business man, salesman, shopper, theatre-goer or sightseer can get about—to make money or spend money—we are hopeful of contributing toward improving conditions. The Rapid Transit Lines are trying this 2-Zone Weekly Pass Plan in an effort to stimulate business (and employment) throughout the community.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

RETURNING TO AN OLD LOVE.

Hours went by like this. A perfectly painted, perfectly arranged picture of a woman lay on the cushions of the boudoir divan, in the soft shining of the firelight which tinged the dusky gray of the winter afternoon. She had again her new gown of yesterday, her ruby earrings hanging against her whitened neck, her ruby rings upon the forefinger of her whitened hand. She was all allure—but studied, careful, painful allure.

Mary Chevronne turned her head on the pomegranate pillows to see herself in the long mirror on the wall opposite the divan. Yes, she was marvelous. But when she saw the girl moving near her, reflected also in the mirror, she knew the difference between them. Youth could not return. Nothing comes back. Only now she did not care. The long white night, when not even her trusted drugs had brought her oblivion, had been free and merciless with its hours of teaching. She had reached her conclusions. At last they were unalterable, and she was at the mercy of life no more. Again, as in her youth, she mastered life, ordering it as she waited for the curtain to go up on her play.

She looked so strangely young, so radiant and so rested that Faire Chapelle and the lady's maid were each puzzled, wondering.

"You can go, Fernande," the mistress said to the maid.

She asked presently, in the queer silence of the room:

"What is the time, Faire?"

"Three minutes to three. May I go?"

"May I go?" she cried again, sharply, so that for an instant Mary Chevronne's eyes rested on her in a faint kind mockery. But the brain behind the eyes was filled with so many other thoughts that the interest was brief. It took its place merely with other things that were vibrant in her mind. She nearly asked: "Does he know you love him, and does he love you?" But her mind was busy on its own course, and she did not care enough for what should happen afterwards. Afterwards——? She drew a breath sharply and said:

"Yes, go, Faire. Thank you. Faire, I really look my old self, lying here. That's how I want him to see me, my old self. The Mary he has been thinking of the last five years. I won't move now. I'll just stay here, and he will come in."

Just as it had done yesterday, most punctually a taxicab drew up outside; the doorbell pealed below.

Without haste, and yet with a soft overwhelming urgency more than haste, Mary said:

"Go, Faire. And good-by."

The girl looked back a moment, startled: "'Good-by'?"

"Good-by."

Then Faire was out of the room swiftly, flying to the small dressing room

She never wanted to see him again. There had been last night—and finish.

where her outdoor things were laid, shutting the door of that in mad haste, not wanting to see Persian coming up the staircase at last to Mary Chevronne. No. She wanted never to see him again, nor feel his touch, nor hear his voice. There had been last night . . . and finish!

And behind the shut door she dropped to her knees and put her head down on a chair and wept, but within a fierce minute or so rose again, and dried her eyes, drew on her hat and coat.

She heard the steps of two men ascending, going past the door, the butler and Philip Persian.

"Sir Philip Persian," the butler announced, opening the door. And he closed it again quickly, silently, without a look at his mistress lovely and smiling on the couch with the pomegranate cushions. All the staff knew the gossip. He himself had been with the Chevronnes during the old scandal, during the rest of their vindictive married life, during her widowhood. He had seen her great beauty and its fall. And now, here was happening what did not often happen in such a case. The young lover came again steadfastly to renew his faith. So the servant saw it.

Persian stood an instant just inside the door. The afternoon was very gray, the windows shrouded in net behind the silk curtains. The room swam in a subdued light. But the gleam of the fire fell on Mary Chevronne's lovely face, with the half smile on it, the eyes so dark and soft. The half smile—he remembered it; the soft eyes—he remembered that way of looking, and by God! the carven line of her chin and cheek—she was beautiful! Beautiful! Only not to him.

Her body looked long and very easy, wonderfully svelte and gracious, as she rose slowly, put out her two very white hands to him.

He pulled himself sharply together.

"Mary."

But she did not answer at once. That he could not remember—that she should not answer! For her answers had been so quick and warm. He came slowly across the room, and took her hands. There was a pause, he bent and kissed them.

"Well, Philip," she said in a light, sweet, regretful voice, "after all this long time . . . my dear!"

"It has been a very long time, Mary," he answered, and looked into her eyes.

She looked back gallantly, with a look light, sweet and regretful as her voice had been.

"It's wonderful of you, Philip, to come so quickly."

"But of course I come as quickly as I can!"

She drew her hands away: "Sit down." She sat on the couch again, and he took a chair near her.

"It's good to see you," she said.

And she looked at him now more bravely. She was quite brave. She feared her part no longer, had no uncertainty of her lines. For she saw his eyes, gallant and yet empty of love, and the strain about his grimly smiling mouth, and the tautness with which his hands locked together between his knees. She knew the bitter thing that she had dreaded was true. All her friends and her enemies had known it to be true. She was only blindly, deliriously thankful that at least she had her part ready, every word learned perfectly in that last white night.

"Your letters have been so interesting, Philip."

Countess Tells Her Experiences with Chicago

Irina Skariatina Writes of Middle West.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A World Begins," by Irina Skariatina. [Harrison-Smith.]

ONE of the most surprising sensations possible to a reader is the one he has when he suddenly realizes that the page which has seemed to record facts unassociated with anything that he knows personally is really speaking directly to him of places and people he knows well. I was nearly half way through "A World Begins," by Irina Skariatina, whose "A World Can End" is one of the most memorable human documents of our day—the record of a Russian countess' plumbing of the depths of hunger, poverty and degradation under the soviets—when suddenly the "Dawn" of which she was writing became Aurora, Metropole Chicago, and their streets were populated with persons whom I knew every one knew.

IRINA SKARIATINA.

It was an uncanny feeling for a moment that the story which the author was telling was a story which was well known, that the author herself had been one of us for a while, that, when they read the book, Chicagoans [at least a good many people in Chicago] would recognize themselves as models for the panorama which she draws of American life and customs.

Many readers who have gone through the horrors of the new régime with Russians of the old régime in the books which they have written must have asked, "And then what happened?" Some of the chroniclers have told us what happened to them after they left Russia. Irina Skariatina tells us in "A World Begins." It is the record of hunger and cold and bitterness and despair in England, with ironic pictures of the gatherings of the exiled nobles. To escape that the author accepted a position as a teacher of French to an American woman and came to America. From that moment the book becomes almost comic in its tragedy. For Irina Skariatina found herself with an almost incredible type of American woman, an utter stranger in an utterly strange land. Her picture of that woman and of her adjustments of language and action to the strange situation in which she found herself as well as the inherently surprising life of America make a story which is, however sad, extremely amusing. It is social drama, social criticism, intelligently and gayly set down down by a keen-eyed observer.

For many Chicagoans, however, it is the startling setting down of the facts as seen by some one whose eyes they looked into and whose pen is telling for the first time, perhaps, many things which her lips did not when she was a fellow Chicagoan.

The story of her year in Aurora as "Madame" in the household is a classic. Promised a salary of $150 a month as teacher of French to the wife of the wealthy Auroraite, she was persuaded to take $125, and found when she arrived that she was expected to pay $15 a week for her room and board, was on duty from 8 in the morning until midnight [unless her pupil had a rare evening's engagement], with an hour off at luncheon and at dinner time to walk to her boarding house and back, was allowed no social contact whatever, but, when special guests from Washington and New York were entertained in the house was sent a formal engraved invitation to dine, received at the front door [she usually went in through the kitchen], gurgled over by the mistress of the house, with "Why, countess, this is a pleasure indeed," exactly, she says, like Tchekov's "poor general" who used to be hired for parties so as to impress newcomers.

After a year of that she came to Chicago and made friends here with many well known families. It will be fun for them to discover themselves in her pages. The employés in a department store and in an exclusive dress shop will likewise see themselves portrayed and the real estate business will have its moment of reminiscence in the pages. The author left Chicago in 1926 when she married a young naval man, Victor Blakeslee, and relinquished her Russian title, the Countess Keller.

Chicago will probably run like a rabbit to the nearest bookshop to see itself through the eyes of one of its frank visitors.

Dr. Franz Alexander Urges Value of Psychoanalysis

Dr. Franz Alexander, the first psychoanalyst to hold a chair in an American university, urges in his new book, "The Medical Value of Psychoanalysis [Norton] that doctors and laymen realize the therapeutic value of this science. He says that too inadequate attention has been paid to the value of psychoanalysis in the treatment of mental diseases and that until the doctor and the psychoanalyst unite in their knowledge of mental troubles the "psychological" patient cannot expect the maximum of understanding.

LETTERS OF INDIANS TO PURITAN LEADER GIVEN IN NEW BOOK

A new college press, Dartmouth College Publications, has been established, and the first book is "Letters of Eleazer Wheelock's Indians," edited from the originals by James Dow McCallum, which is an original contribution to Americana. It contains letters written by Indians themselves to Wheelock, a zealous educational and religious missionary of New England and to others, revealing their reactions to the social and religious organization of the Puritans. This is the first time genuine Indian letters have ever been published. These letters, preserved in the Dartmouth college archives, are more than 150 years old and are fascinating revelations of the aboriginal mind.

BY JOHN ERSKINE.

"Ellen Terry and Her Secret Self," by Edward Gordon Craig. [Dutton.]

Are there any books which should not be written? People with a censorious temperament would say yes. The majority of writers would also say yes, but the books which they would suppress would probably not be those which the censor would condemn.

GORDON CRAIG.

The person who goes in for censorship is likely to object to the mention of certain parts of experience on the ground that reading about such things will do us harm. It's the reader he wishes to protect. But the writer would protect his fellow author. He regrets the book which is bad for any one to write, just as in ordinary life he is sorry to hear a friend make a negative or self-destructive remark. To this extent he believes that writing should be governed by the same prudence which guides behavior in private life.

Here is a book by a well known and brilliant writer, entirely free from anything the ordinary censor could object to, yet of the kind which a writer is sorry to see. Its purpose is to correct what the author considers an injustice, and it promises intimate revelations about a great actress. Here is an appeal to our curiosity which the publishing world rarely resists.

Edward Gordon Craig's book about Ellen Terry would be completely absurd if he did not take it so seriously. He makes us feel sorry for him, though we can't discover what his trouble is. He thinks Bernard Shaw did Ellen Terry injustice by permitting her letters and his to be published together and by writing a preface to the collection. Those of us who have enjoyed the splendid letters and who think that Shaw's preface is one of the most friendly and human things he has written cannot understand Edward Gordon Craig's distress. Still less do we understand his method of righting the supposed wrong. In a prefatory note he says that Bernard Shaw knew only Ellen Terry the actress, and that Ellen Terry the woman, Ellen Terry his mother, Ellen Terry the presiding spirit of his happy childhood is much more worth reading about than Ellen Terry the actress.

Granted. Shaw knew the actress, Craig knew the woman, and Craig likes the woman better than the actress. Very creditable to him, since the woman was his mother. But what of it? Is this a matter to write a book about? Edward Gordon Craig tells us nothing of the domestic and intimate Ellen Terry. He tells us nothing of her secret self. He makes frequent use of the personal pronoun, and talks a great deal about Edward Gordon Craig. He leaves the unsavory impression that he is trying to break into a picture from which for one reason or another he had been left out.

Mother Goose Gets New Dress for Children

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

"Old Mother Goose in a New Dress," by Adah F. Whitcomb. [Laidlaw.]

"Young Fu of the Upper Yangtze," by Elizabeth F. Lewis. [Winston.]

A new edition of Mother Goose is always of interest to lovers of children's books, and when the book is the work of two Chicagoans, each a leader in his respective field, the sphere of interest is considerably broadened. "Old Mother Goose in a New Dress" is the inviting title which Miss Adah F. Whitcomb and Douglas Hall have given to their very colorful and delightful version of the famous old classic, and worthy is it, indeed, with its bright orange cover, its "just right" size for little hands and very clear lettering, of a place on the littlest one's first bookshelf.

The text was Miss Whitcomb's responsibility, and, drawing upon a long and intimate experience with children's first hand reactions to books and pictures, she has made a selection of rhymes most familiar and best loved by the children themselves. She has included just enough of them to permit the little child to learn them all, and to allow for that repetition of the familiar which is always the demand of young readers. Needless to say, there has been no tampering with the original text, the modernizing being entirely confined to Mr. Hall's drawings. These are not only bright and humorous, but are also marked by a simplicity and a definite indication of action which will make them particularly appealing to the modern child.

Mr. Hall is an artist connected with the Art Institute of Chicago, and Miss Whitcomb is the head of Thomas Hughes Room for Young People and supervisor of Work with Schools in the Chicago public library.

Another book of unusual interest, both for its background and theme treatment, is Elizabeth F. Lewis' "Young Fu of the Upper Yangtze," a realistic story of present day China for young people of high school age. The story is that of a young lad who goes with his widowed mother to Chungking to serve an apprenticeship with the coppersmith, Tang, and eventually master a trade which will enable him to support her. The story of those three years in the strange city with the hardships and discouragements which were part of them is an extremely realistic one, developing the character of the country boy and leaving him at eighteen years courageously facing life and its responsibilities.

Meetings and Lectures

This afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Saints and Sinners corner in Kroch's Book shop, Dr. Garry August, author of "God's Gentleman," will give a short talk and autograph copies of his book.

At the meeting of the Friends of American Writers on Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co., Mrs. Clifford Ward, author of "Stormy Fires," will give an informal talk.

Among the New Books

FICTION.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

I, James Lewis, by Gilbert W. Gabriel [Doubleday-Doran], reads like a novel but is based on the life of one of the most interesting and obscure American adventurers.

Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed, by Charles Ten Brocke Goodspeed [University of Chicago Press], is an informal biography of one of the spirits behind the founding of the university.

The Memoirs of Gluckel of Hameln, translated and annotated by Marvin Lowenthal [Harpers], discloses the personality of an interesting woman who lived in the late seventeenth century.

ABOUT PLACES.

POETRY.

NONFICTION.

The World's Danger Zone, by Sherwood Eddy [Farrar & Rinehart], regards Manchuria as the crux of a world situation.

Can Man Be Civilized, by Harry Elmer Barnes [Brentanos], examines ways and means to find permanent happiness in life.

Hugh Edwards Offers Curious Travel Novel

"Sangoree" Tells Adventures of Merchant.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, April 8.—Although it has not yet made any wide appeal to the general public, Hugh Edwards' curious novel, "Sangoree," is being talked about. It is like no other book. It has a rich charm, but only for the right reader. The title is derived from the name of a West India drink, and the book is a first novel. It opens about a hundred years ago, when the hero is an elderly retired merchant, standing upon a quayside in Cork, recalling the incidents of his life. These incidents are then related; and very strange some of them are. They include the hero's landing in North Carolina and his subsequent adventures in Dutch Guiana, from which his riches all spring.

JAMES HANLEY.

The author is the son of a British naval officer. He was born at Gibraltar, and as a soldier had twelve years of military service in the West Indies and West Africa. He was in Barbados at the time of the eruption of Mont Pelee, when the island one day was plunged into total darkness by volcanic ash. While he was in Jamaica the city was destroyed by earthquake, and Mr. Edwards was buried under the ruins of the barracks. He has traveled extensively and now lives in the west of England. He explains that "Sangoree" is partly based upon the old family records and partly upon his own experience. This is what gives it a true archaic flavor and keeps the descriptions of scene so brilliantly vivid.

Siegfried Sassoon has been invisible to his friends for some time. They have been hoping that his invisibility was due to the hatching of another "Fox Hunting Man," but are doomed to disappointment. Mr. Sassoon says he will not begin his next book until his fiftieth birthday, which sounds as though he meditated a very long rest. He advises his friends to take similar rests. And during his retirement from the world he is rusticating in a Wiltshire cottage.

One of the newest English—or rather, Irish—authors to be collected is Mr. James Hanley, whose novel, "Boy," was published with a commendation from Col. Lawrence of Arabia. Mr. Hanley's first book was called "Drift," and was the melancholy tale of a young Irishman in Liverpool, but it was "Boy" which attracted most popular attention to his work. He is a member of a large family, all of whom have been either sailors or journalists, and at an early age went to sea. Some of his adventures at sea are related in "Boy." He has now abandoned the sea and lives in England, having married an English girl. His new novel, I hear, is to be a most remarkable story about a young Irish girl who comes to England as a domestic servant. She is very innocent and very religious; and her innocence causes the ultimate tragedy of her life to be very pathetic.

The Editorial Board of the Book-of-the-Month Club

—if you join the Book-of-the-Month Club now. It costs you nothing to belong . . .

A great many people (we know) have been inclined to join the Book-of-the-Month Club, but have neglected to do so largely through oversight. This special offer is made, frankly, to overcome this procrastination by making it worth while for you not to delay longer. We suggest, simply, that you get full information now about what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for you, and then decide once for all whether you want to join. The fact that close to 100,000 judicious readers belong to the organization—that they include many of the most prominent people in the country, in every profession and every walk of life—that not a single one was induced to join by a salesman, but did so after simply reading the facts about what the Club now does for book readers—all these are indications that it is worth your while at least to get the facts about the Book-of-the-Month Club as quickly as possible, and then (if you want to) join. Many people do not realize, for instance, that they may receive the various advantages of being a member, and yet buy as few as four books a year, if they find no more they want out of from 200 to 250 reported upon by the judges. Surely, within the next year, the judges shown here will recommend at least a few new books you will be very anxious not to miss. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure of getting these, get the many other advantages the organization gives book-readers, such as book-dividends, and also get this two-volume Sherlock Holmes, free? Send the coupon below at once, for full details as to how the Club operates.

VOLUME ONE

New Materials Are Great Joy to Dressmaker

Come in Dots, Stripes and Checks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SOMETHING new . . . new clothes especially, are the things you shop for and then rave and write home about. All good, well trained shopping hounds have, of a necessity, large polished bumps of adventure and curiosity, not forgetting to mention amiable feet that understandingly know their way about! A shopper's curiosity is never casual, the slightest clew is carefully tracked down and the results you'll have to admit are breezily spectacular!

Any shopping expedition is a brilliant success when you bag from two to four brand new gadgets . . . hats, gloves, and other costume accessories! And the thrill that usually comes once in every shopping trip is when you find something so new and different and smart that the tissue paper packings are still clinging to it, or the new things you accidentally blunder into seeing, the stuff so new that the price tags haven't caught up with them yet. But the things you discover and buy and place the red star of feminine fashion approval on are the things you have read about, listened to vague rumors concerning them, and then found after hours of careful snooping.

New Materials Star Performers.

For instance, new materials . . . since the dressmaker is returning to fill her fashion engagements for spring and summer wardrobes . . . are star performers. New sheers await the new patterns and sharp scissors . . . this season the designs are small and rather geometric in outline . . . dots deluge every fabric section in every shop . . . dots so small they look like freckles, dots the size of dimes, and dots that must have been dollars in some before-the-depression era.

Stripes are smart and out from behind bars of former suppression . . . and stripes will get around your entire wardrobe unless you strenuously decline their company. Checks are just as welcome as a check from home . . . the new thin woolen fabrics exploit them more than the silks, however, as they seem particularly ideal for sports frocks, suits, and coats.

Another fashion find is the new adjustable mesh hosiery . . . it's an old story with plain hose but a scoop on the mesh situation. These stockings have reinforced tops with rows of horizontal hemstitchings about an inch and a quarter apart. If you know the joys of being able to adapt these adjustables to your own particular short or long streamlines you'll probably buy a large portion of this rolling stock.

News Sports Bracelets.

Bracelet buyers will sooner or later barge into these new sports bracelets that are perfect to wear with tweeds, knit dresses, and sweaters . . . they are of polished wood with half inch strips of stained leather inlaid around them. Other sports bracelets are available in brightly colored wood, prystal, and of course the bronze, silver, and able in brightly colored wood, crystal, will clank wherever the smartly dressed crowds are thickest.

These new flapjack compacts are, without a doubt, the result of some male rebellion against further use of his pockets for parking space for compacts, rouge boxes, and a few other trifles that we always lug along. With a perspicacity that fairly stuns you these rebels designed such gorgeously colored and such startling large wafer thin circles that their parking troubles are over . . . even a clinging vine will fight to carry her own. You can choose any colored enamel, including black, for a very reasonable price; the silver and novelty combinations are marked a bit higher.

Women's Federation Praises Mayor's Ban on Political Posters

A resolution pledging support to Mayor Cermak's order to the police and street departments to keep poles stripped of political posters and arrest any one caught putting up posters was adopted yesterday by the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations. The federation met in its fourteenth annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

The resolution described the movement as one for which the federation has been working for many years.

Mrs. Henry W. Hardy was reelected president for her third two year term. Other officers elected were: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Gordon Martin; third vice president, Mrs. James F. Hurley; treasurer, Mrs. Edward O. Brooks. Mrs. Clarence L. Holtzman was reelected first vice president and Mrs. Louis G. Wetzel second vice president.

New directors elected were Mrs. F. C. Justice, Mrs. J. P. Wahlman, Mrs. Charles Elson, Mrs. Silvester Schiele, Mrs. Nicholas D. Marty, Mrs. Guy M. Wilcox, Miss Marie Becker, and Mrs. W. H. Vallette.

Nora Gregor Proves She's a Movie Star

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Jack Conway.
Presented at the Chicago theater.
THE CAST.

Max	Robert Montgomery
Rosine	Nora Gregor
Lady Joan	Heather Thatcher
Sir George	Edward Everett Horton
Florian	C. Aubrey Smith
Prince Paul	Nils Asther
Duke of Hampshire	Frederick Kerr
Lady Ridgway	Eva Moore
Gooch	Forrester Harvey
Findley	Desmond Roberts

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

There's an actress over on the Chicago's screen this week who will most certainly make Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich look to their laurels! Her name is Nora Gregor.

Miss Gregor, an Austrian by birth, was a member of Max Reinhardt's troupe and she has also made movies in Germany. She's more beautiful (I thought) than either of the favorites mentioned and she has a devastating personal appeal that is all her own. Her foreign accent, much like Miss Dietrich's, is captivating. Though she lacks the sultriness of the other two, she has much warmth, and this is combined with a certain wistful naivete and aliveness that are endearing. Her acting is instinctive and polished. I found her charming. So will you.

—And while on the subject of women who know how, let me call your attention to the beautiful performance and REAL accent of an English girl, Heather Thatcher, who has one of the leading roles.

The scenes of Robert Montgomery's latest starring vehicle, which tells a father and son story of sorts, are laid in England. He appears as Max, the impecunious nonworking son of Florian, an impecunious and nonworking father. Senior and Junior, who belong socially to the creme de la creme, have a common ambition—to marry an heiress . . .

Well, it is not in Dad to let Son wed Lady Joan, who lolls in the lap of plenty the boy encounters Rosine . . .

Well ,it is not in Dad to let Son down, nor does the chip ever for a moment forget the block . . . The ending is happy for all save one for whom, throughout the action, you have wished the best . . .

(Fashion note—Dots are the very latest thing in column punctuation! They lend a certain insouciance—an airy readableness—that is smart . . !)

The narrative is amusingly thrown against tasteful backgrounds. Mr. Montgomery comports himself after the fashion that has landed him high in favor with feminine fans. There are, I must admit, several occasions upon which you yearn to smack him down, but, all in all, you're fond of the slim, dark young fellow.

C. Aubrey Smith as Florian is an interesting character mighty well portrayed and minor rôles are handled skillfully. Old Frederick Kerr is a lamb as Lady Joan's father!

"But the Flesh Is Weak" has dash, color, romance, suspense, and laughs. You'll find it a great blues chaser.

And, don't forget, Vincent Lopez and that marvelous Hotel Ritz orchestra of his are on the stage. Here's music as is music.

It will set your pulses bounding
It will scat away your skeers
It will send your cares a bounding
And will make you feel ten years [Younger].

Here's the Way to Banish That Big Extra Tire

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

More women have interrogated me lately on how to get rid of fat immediately under the bustline than I have heard from before. They tell me that their hip measurement is O. K. Their legs are all right. Their abdomens are flat enough, but that puzzling fat roll near the bustline stumps them. So many report that diet will not take it off. The fat is hard and "set to stay."

I doubt if there is any more of this fat located in the spot referred to than formerly. Women are only becoming more conscious of it. This season's clothes and last have contributed to this consciousness. The silhouette, to be smart, must have a fairly flat line immediately below the bust and between the latter and the waistline. All of the difference between a young silhouette and an oldish one lies in that exact spot.

If you note the really young girl figure with the raised bustline you will see what is meant by the desired incurve between bust and waist. The reason so many dress belts have to be abandoned after their purchase with the frock is found right in this midsector plumpiness.

It's too bad to let it pile on there. If caught in its infancy, in the first feeling of pressure when you bend at the waistline, it is no trick to get the area flattened out. But if you let this wad of fat harden into a thick roll it makes you short breathed and definitely middle aged of figure, no matter what the calendar says.

It often does not respond to diet, as said. For those who can afford professional massage it can be got rid of this way. For most, however, the exercise course is the most readily available. I recommend the rowing movement as ideal for the removal of this fat. You don't need a machine if you will do the movement with as much vim as you would with a machine.

Sit on the floor, extend the arms as far forward as possible. Press the fatted area back as flat as you can and come back with arms continuing the backward movement as far as you comfortably can. Do it not ten or fifteen times, but thirty, fifty or a hundred a day. You have to put a lot of pressure on that fat to make it lose its hold. The rowing movement is not a hard exercise to do.

All Set for a Game or Two

This interesting game table has a checker board of marquetry inlaid in the top, so it always stands ready for chess or checkers.

Game Table Made from English Model

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

An old design, but a new copy—this aristocratic little table pictured today. Its original saw many a long drawn out tussle of chess when the Georges ruled Merrie England. Today an intelligent young Chicagoan has had it copied for the customers of the store by which he is employed and you see the modern version, so like the precious antique that only an expert can tell one from the other. A rich, mellow finish gives the 1932 copy an appearance of age and gentle treatment.

The Sheraton arm chairs accompanying the table are covered in colored veal skin. An Empire lamp with porcelain base and white, star-decked parchment shade harmonizes with the old fashioned handling of the window draperies, which are a gorgeous shade of watermelon pink, trimmed with ball fringe.

Woman's Club Sends $25 Gift to Fund for Hungry Pupils

A $25 gift from the Lake View Woman's club and $4 from the fourth grade of the Bryn Mawr Community church school were added to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday. These with $5 from Eda L. Kackett and $2 from Tena Koener brought the day's total to $36. The total from contributors sent the fund since its beginning last fall is now $44,554.25. Very little of this has not already been spent on free lunches for the needy children in the public schools. Those sending gifts should direct them to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Miss Elizabeth Pennock of Oak Park will reign as queen at the coming May day festivities at Gulf Park college, Gulfport, Miss. She is a member of the graduating class, having done her major work in domestic science. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alger Pennock.

Married Gals Who Flirt Get Rap from Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Barbara wants to know. She is in love with a 26 year old young man who says he loves her, takes her out frequently, pays her marked attention when out—BUT there's a married woman "nigger in the woodpile." And this brings up a subject of the unfairness of these women with husbands to cater to their whims, but who are not content unless they have another man tagging them. The other, in most cases, is an unattached young man who, let out from under the married woman influence, might be a perfectly eligible young man for some single girl.

Barbara asks her young man why, if he cares for her, he continues to see this other woman. He answers that he doesn't love her, but he can't get away from her. She phones him, plans things for him, makes him presents, and so on.

Theoretically, the young man should be dismissed for the gigolo specimen he appears to be. But we know how some of these experienced and usually older married ones operate. And we know that the competition with the single girl is conducted ofttimes on a basis that the single one cannot meet.

Of course, we would like to believe that men are made of such strong stuff that they could easily pull away from these intrigues with married women. But there they are, being tugged this way and that—and they do not answer our prayer for strong character exhibition. Still, without this other destructive female on their trail they might quite nicely be the answer to the single maiden's prayer for a promising matrimonial risk.

The question is whether you can get married women of the sort to see themselves in the light of destroyers. They are so possessed with the idea that they are conquerors, irresistible ones—and that they are doing the young men a favor in encouraging them. It's a large question whether they have the moral substance in their makeup to recognize that they are doing a wrong. So it is further questionable whether they could see themselves from the viewpoint of the single girl in love.

Ezra Warner Will Marry N.Y. Girl Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVERAL Chicagoans are in New York today for the marriage of Miss Rosamond Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Thomas Moore of that city, and Ezra J. Warner Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner of Lake Forest. The service is being read at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in fashionable St. James' church on Madison avenue, and following it there will be a reception at Pierre's.

Mrs. Moore Erwin is her sister's matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Susan Moore, is honor maid. The bridesmaids are Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley of Chicago, the former Hortense Henry, for whose wedding Miss Moore came west in January; Miss Allaire Crozer of Philadelphia, Miss Nancy Allen of Hartford, the Misses Catherine Marshall, Rosamund Turner and Mabel Whitman of New York.

Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., whose wife is the former Marion Warner, will serve his brother-in-law as best man, and ushering will be another brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Edison Dick, who is married to Jane Warner; Hoyt Smith and John B. Morse of Lake Forest, Gordon P. Kelley, and Thomas Tyler of Chicago, Rhoderic Blackhurst Jr. of Forest Hills, L. I., Douglas MacArthur Jr. of Washington, D. C., and John Brodie of Watertown, Conn. Mr. Warner and his bride will be at home at 1366 North Dearborn street after May 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley, who have been honeymooning in the south since shortly after their marriage on Jan. 16, are expected to return to Chicago the latter part of next week. Mr. and Mrs. Warner Sr. are going south from New York and will not be back in Lake Forest until about the first of May, and Mrs. Dennehy Jr. will be in Chicago only a few hours when she returns Monday morning, for she is leaving that evening for Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Dick will return on Monday, also.

Junior League Activities.

The Chicago and Evanston Junior leaguers will be busy this morning entertaining children because a committee of the Chicago chapter, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, is putting some skits from the children's Chauve Souris on at a near north side shop at 11 o'clock, and the Evanston chapter is giving a puppet performance at 10:30 o'clock in the Georgian hotel in Evanston. "The Three Bears" and "Little Black Sambo" will be given under the direction of Mrs. Louis Tilden.

Next Saturday at the same north side shop the Chicago Junior league will stage a fashion show, but this one will be different from the numerous others that have been given this spring, for the models are to be some of the youngest members of society. Barbara Finlay, daughter of the John J. Finlays; Jeannette Hersey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hersey; Billy Hodgkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, and "Pebo" Brush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray P. Brush Jr., are to be among the very young ladies and gentlemen displaying the latest in spring and summer styles for little children, and Mrs. John W. Valentine (Jean Purcell) and Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell (Margaret Tilt), both of whom look almost too young to be matrons, are to display junior fashions.

Helen Tieken, the efficient and capable director of the Junior League Theater for Children, has just returned from a holiday in Mexico and Yucatan, and already she is busily engaged in plans for the coming season, I'm told.

Sponsor Concert Tomorrow.

No doubt the musically and socially elect will be at the Goodman theater tomorrow afternoon for the concert sponsored by the Chicago chapter of the International Society for Contemporary Music, for, although the society is not trying to "put over" this year's affair in the same big way in which it presented its affair last year, it is a noteworthy musical event and one in which society is greatly interested. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell and Mrs. Waller Borden will be among those entertaining guests at the program, which will start at 4 o'clock.

Tomorrow afternoon in Lake Forest Mrs. Albert D. Farwell will open her residence at 635 West Deerpath for a recital of the Lake Forest Music club, Jean Hannon, soprano; Ann Dvorsky-Long, planiste, and Millicent Christner, accompanist, giving the program, which will commence at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. William S. Monroe of 64 East Elm street has invited an interesting company of women to a dinner on Monday night for Mrs. Frederick Edey, national Girl Scout president, who's to be in Chicago for just one day on her way to New York from the south. The guests will include Mrs. William P. Hodgkins, president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A.; Miss Margaret Conover, member of the Visiting Nurse association; Mrs. William Hefferan of the board of education; Mrs. Holland P. Flagler, president of the Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. William N. MacChesney, president of the Chicago College club; Mrs. Harvey Fox, president of the Chicago Woman's club; Mrs. George Farnsworth of the local Girl Scout council, and Mrs. Walter Cavanaugh of Kenosha, regional Girl Scout director.

Arts Club Exhibit.

The Arts club has cards out for a tea on Sunday, April 17, from half past four to half past seven o'clock, to open the annual exhibition by the professional members of the club. In the same envelope was a card announcing an illustrated lecture by Count Serge Fleury on "Salons: Yesterday and Today," next Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Chester Lloyd Jones is to speak on "The Outlook for South America" at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council of Foreign relations today.

Miss Helen Keane, soloist with the glee club of Rosary college, River Forest. They will appear at the Edgewater Beach hotel tomorrow afternoon under the direction of Le Roy Wetzel.

Hold $50 Luncheon to Raise Funds for Palestine Medicine

Seven hundred persons paid $50 a plate yesterday to attend the annual "Give and Get" luncheon at Hadassah, women's Zionist organization, at the Stevens hotel.

The luncheon was for the benefit of the Hadassah medical organization in Palestine, and the luncheon guests came from all over the middle west. Probate Judge Henry Horner was host and Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York was the principal speaker.

Other speakers were Judge Harry M. Fisher, local chairman of the American Palestine campaign; Jacob M. Braude, president of the Zionist organization; Mrs. Harry Berkman, president of Hadassah; Miss Jeanette Eisenstern, president of Junior Hadassah; Miss Pearl Franklin, national vice president of Hadassah, and Mrs. S. H. Soboroff, chairman of the luncheon.

Japanese Organize a Film Syndicate to Welcome Chaplin

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

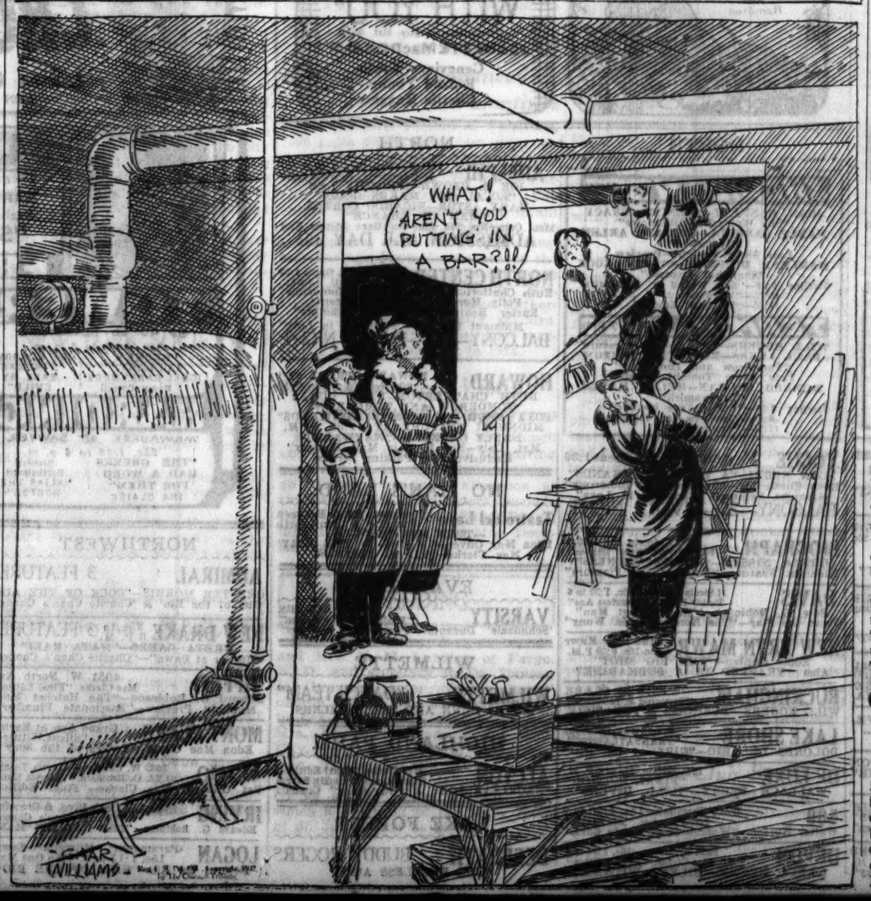
TOKIO, April 8.—Although Charlie Chaplin is coming to Japan for a rest and holiday, the desire to entertain him royally and incidentally to gain some self-advertisement has aroused the Japanese film companies to a frenzy of rivalry that would make a good Hollywood plot.

Mr. Chaplin's Japanese secretary, Toraichi Kono, now in Japan, proposed to leave the arrangements for his welcome up to Kenichiro Kamimori of the Fuji Film company.

This was more than the other producers could bear, so yesterday they formed the Rokkakai—meaning the Six Flowers association—to welcome Mr. Chaplin. Ichiro Hatoyama, the minister of education, has been asked to become chairman of the reception committee.

The Six Flowers threaten that if they are not permitted to share in the glories they will radio to Mr. Chaplin to warn him against the welcome prepared.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS



Madge Evans Makes Good on Early Promise

Star of Childhood Gets Contract as Adult.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 8.—Madge Evans is one child actress to grow up and make good on childhood promise. She's turned out to be one of the best bets among the younger actresses in pictures. MGM has just newed her contract as a leading woman. She was a child actress 15 years ago, but unlike baby Peggy, Wesley Barry and others who lost their popularity on growing up, Madge retained and expanded hers.

The young and good looking widow of the late Charles Emmett Mack, film star who was killed at the height of his career in a 1927 automobile accident, is working in extra rôles. Her name is Marian Lovera.

Lewis Milestone will direct, supervise, and get a cut in the profits on the joint United Artists-MGM production of "Rain," which, so far as it is known is the only joint production venture ever engaged in by two major studios. Joe Schenck of United Artists provided the talkie rights to the story, and the production staff, including Milestone. MGM provides Miss Crawford, for whom they were unsuccessful in buying the story outright from Schenck. Maxwell Anderson is now preparing the talkie version which may differ slightly from Gloria Swanson's former portrayal of the same story in silent form, under the name of "Sadie Thompson."

The Olympic games, which are to be held in Los Angeles in July and August, gave the movies a hunch. In fact, three different major studios had the same hunch, which moved them to prepare contracts for athletic stars who win in the games. In fact, some of the expected winners have already been approached, but have declined to accept offers for fear of forfeiting amateur standing in advance of the big meet.

Frank Wyckoff, the Pacific coast sprinter, is one of those who has been offered a film contract. Wyckoff turned it down. He is track captain at the University of Southern California and would not jeopardize his chance to sprint in the championship meets of the spring and summer, although after the Olympics, if the films beckon again, his attitude probably will be different.

Georgia Coleman, American aquatic champion, and some of the Finnish and British athletes have been approached by the studios also.

Tablets Disclose 5 Day Week Calendar of 40 Centuries Ago

Soviet Russia, in establishing a five day week, merely adopted a calendar which was in use more than 40 centuries ago among the ancient Hittites and Assyrians, Dr. I. J. Gelb of the oriental institute at the University of Chicago, has discovered. Dr. Gelb is engaged in deciphering some clay tablets found at Alishar in Asia Minor by the Hittite expedition of the institute.

The tablets contain the business correspondence of some Assyrian merchants who went to trade in the Hittite city about 2200 B. C. Their messages were inscribed on clay tablets, which were then baked into brick. The tablets disclose that the credit ratings of the Hittites were none too good with the Assyrian visitors. The visiting merchants charged the local business men from 50 to 60 per cent for loans, and one Assyrian lender got 180 per cent and a bonus in honey. The terms never exceeded six months, and there was no difficulty in enforcing a judgment. If the borrower didn't pay, he became the slave of his creditor. Between themselves, the Assyrians loaned money at from 20 to 30 per cent.

The borrowers were not without legal protection, however, it was disclosed by one tablet deciphered by Dr. Gelb. "I am returning herewith the half mina of silver which I owe you," the debtor wrote, "and if you again request payment, I have the right to kill you."

Pastor's Love Gives Knitting Trade a Start

That's Why First Machine Was Built.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

THERE is a pretty story told about that reverend Englishman, William Lee of St. John's college, Cambridge, whom we credit with the first attempt to knit stockings by machine. Away back in the beginning of the 17th century he wooed a lovely lass who insisted on devoting more attention to her knitting than her suitor. Piqued by this indiscretion, the tale runs, the Rev. Mr. Lee set himself to invent a machine that would make hand knitting a profitless employment.

A splendid idea three centuries back, perhaps, but not so valuable today when factories are turning out everything from socks to baby blankets by the million and young women are reviving hand knitting as a thrifty and pleasant pastime. Never since war days have the needles clicked so merrily.

One group that is taking its knitting seriously is the Friday morning bee, formed only recently at the Chicago College club up on Delaware place. Yesterday there were about 20 young women present, all comparing notes on the progress made with a sweater or bouclé suit during the week.

Double Purpose Knitting Bee.

As Mrs. Mary E. Foster pointed out, the group really serves a double purpose, for the members keep up on everything in current events from the latest art exhibit to ways and means of balancing the budget. "We started about a month ago at the suggestion of Mrs. Harrison T. Yeaton, who presides over the membership committee," Mrs. Foster explained. "She had frequently noticed members bringing their knitting to board and committee meetings. This suggested the idea of forming a bee as a means of acquainting some of the new members with the old."

Still another purpose, so the group becomes threefold in its object! And Mrs. Yeaton, who declares she never knit a stitch before in her life, is well along on the bouclé suit. In fact, you may expect to see a number of College club members blossoming out in bouclé sweater outfits this spring, for the majority of the "knitters" have chosen this piece to start on, among them Mrs. Edwin O. Griffenhagen and her daughter, Miss Ruth Griffenhagen, Miss Emily Goest, and Mrs. B. W. McEeachern. Mrs. H. W. Clausen is beginning modestly with a purse and Miss Alice Hausler has gone far afield with a hooked rug.

Back in war times, before the club acquired its near north side clubhouse, the members gathered day after day in the Stevens building to knit sweaters and blankets and helmets for the soldiers. So to many who have signed up for this class or drop in of an occasional Friday morning knitting is an old art.

Queen Fears Unemployment.

Now, another word about the Rev. Mr. Lee and the little machine he invented in order that he might have more attention from the lady of his choice! He taught his relatives to work under him and soon had a considerable business at Calverton, England. Then Oliver Cromwell investigated the machine wrought hosiery trade and granted it a charter June 13, 1657.

It is said that Lee's invention was brought to the attention of Queen Elizabeth who, while she expressed her admiration for the ingenuity of the inventor, was much disappointed because instead of the fine silk hose she had expected the output was coarse worsted stockings. A patent was sought for Lee from Queen Elizabeth by her kinsman, Lord Hunsdon, but, in refusing the request, she said:

"My lord, I have too much love for my poor people who obtain their bread by the employment of knitting to give my money to forward an invention that will tend to lead to their ruin by depriving them of employment and thus make them beggars. Had Mr. Lee devised a machine that would have made silk stockings I should have been somewhat justified in granting him a patent, for that monopoly would have affected only a small number of my subjects."

Makes Machine for Silk Hose.

And no patent was ever granted Lee. Spurred by the queen's remarks, however, he set about constructing a machine for making silk stockings and, aided by his brother, James, succeeded in 1598 in knitting a pair which he presented to Queen Elizabeth. It remained, however, for Jedediah Strutt, a farmer at Blackwell, who married the sister of a hosier, to perfect the knitting frame and patent it in 1758. Later Strutt removed to Derby, where in 1797 he died, having built up the greatest knitting mills in Britain.

Knowing as we do that England produced the knitting machine, it follows that there was interest before the 17th century in hand knitting. And very true! Although knitting was probably known to the ancients there is no direct evidence, the first historic mention being about the time of Henry IV. of England—that is, the late 14th century. Stockings and caps were the articles made. Away back in very early times we know that the legs were uncovered and that the first stockings were cut from linen, wool, or silk and seamed together. By 1530 "knit" was a common term in England and knitting a domestic employment.

Bouillabaisse, Favorite Dish of Famous, on Monday Menu

BY MARY MEADE.

Monday's menu features a dish that has had lots written and said about it by famous people, for hundreds of years. The last person in the public eye who said it was her favorite dish was an orchid of the silver screen, who looked almost too ethereally lovely to eat anything short of roast humming bird tongues, yet she wanted to know if there was a place in Chicago where she could satisfy her craving for bouillabaisse. If I had heard about it I would have been glad to stir her up a dandy one. Here is how to do it.

Two medium sized onions are chopped fine, together with a suspicion of garlic; the cooking of the bouillabaisse takes place in a deep pot—an iron one, if you have it, or any vessel with thick sides to hold heat, because the flame must be hot—and into it is put half a cup of olive oil. Brown the onions and garlic in it, then add to them two tomatoes, peeled, seeded, and cut fine. When they are cooked, add the firm fleshed fish. Now since this bouillabaisse originated where sea food was plentiful, the fish were salt water ones, but fresh water ones will do as well. Three pounds are needed, and the more kinds the better. Also, the meat from a small chicken lobster adds piquancy.

When the fish with the firmer flesh have cooked a few minutes, add a half cup of white grape juice. Be sure the fish are covered with boiling water. Season with thyme, a bayleaf of two, chopped parsley, salt, cayenne pepper, and a pinch of saffron. Boil hard for ten minutes. Add the pieces of fish [all the fish should be cut in pieces about two inches long] that are softer and boil for another ten minutes.

To serve, pile the fish on a platter. Strain the broth. Put a thick slice of toasted French bread into each soup dish and pour the broth over it. This serves six generously. In Marseilles, whose residents claim this dish for their own, the fish is served in the soup plates when they have been emptied. If you intend to make a meal of fish that's a good plan, but serving the soup first, and the fish with the main course, is more in accord with our provisions for a well balanced meal.

To go with the fish, what could be better than a hot, spicy chutney? This recipe calls for rather a lot of garlic, so if you don't like the flavor you might leave it out entirely, or put in a few more onions.

Monday's Menu

MORNING
Orange Slices

NIGHT
Bouillabaisse
Boiled New Potatoes
Brussels Sprouts
Rhubarb Tarts
Milk Coffee

BENGAL CHUTNEY.

½ pound salt.
¼ pound garlic.
¼ pound onions.
½ pound powdered ginger.
½ pound bruised mustard seed.
½ pound raisins, chopped fine.
½ ounce cayenne pepper.
3 pints vinegar.
15 very large, sour apples, or an equal bulk of crabapples.

Wash the mustard seed and dry it before the fire or in the sun; chop the garlic and onions very fine. Pare the apples and core, then boil them in the vinegar and bruise them, reducing them to small bits. When the apple mixture is cold mix it thoroughly with the other ingredients. Store in wide mouthed bottles and seal.

This chutney is another relish to add to the list of things that go well with fish. You might as well make your own, because the compositions and blendings of new chutneys seem, if one may judge by the number of them, to be one of the major sports among the British army officers in India. And if it's fun in India, why not here?

SIMPLE CHOP SUEY.

1 tablespoon oil.
3 medium sized onions.
1 cup diced celery.
2 tablespoons soy sauce.

Cut the pork into pieces an inch long, half an inch wide and a quarter of an inch thick. Fry in the oil. In another pan, cook in a little fat the onions and celery. Combine the two, add the soy sauce, and let simmer a few minutes. Serve with boiled rice.

Ezra Warner Will Marry N.Y. Girl Today

Chicagoans in East to Attend Ceremony.

12:30 o'clock at the Palmer house. Mrs. William G. Hibbard, vice president of the council, will preside. Others at the speakers' table will be Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, George A. Richardson, and Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lichtenstein. Reservations have been made by Miss Clara Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Packard, Charles L. Strobel, Mrs. Ethel Richardson Dunham, Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, and Yoshio Muto, the Japanese consul.

Benjamin March, curator of Asiatic art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Forbidden City" in Fullerton hall of the Art institute this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock under the joint auspices of the Orientals and the American Friends of China.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed will return on Monday from a trip to Arizona and California. Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, who accompanied them west, returned early this week and left almost immediately with President Hutchins for a ten day visit at Yoeman's hall, Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. George R. Richardson, who spent Easter at the Virginia Hot Springs, has left for a trip to California.

News Notes of Travelers.

Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. has returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, at Chandler, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Rochester B. Slaughter have returned from Pebble Beach, Cal., and will be at the Drake for a month before going to their summer estate at Land o' Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Carry of 2340 Commonwealth avenue are leaving today to motor to Georgia and then to Baltimore in time for the Maryland Hunt cup race.

Mrs. Kent S. Clow of Lake Forest arrived home yesterday from St. Louis, where she was called by the death of her brother, Breckinridge Jones Jr.

Mrs. Edward C. Crossett and Miss Ruth Crossett will return on Monday from a brief eastern trip which they made to take the "baby" of the family, Caroline, back to the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr, Pa., after her spring vacation. Mr. Crossett and Miss Betty Crossett are expected to arrive home from California the last of next week.

Wild Flower Society Meeting.

The Illinois chapter of the Wild Flower Preservation society will hold its annual spring meeting and luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock at the College club. Mrs. Theron Colton is to talk on "Living Flowers" at the luncheon, and she also is to be hostess today at the society's booth in the flower show on the Navy pier.

Assisting her at the show will be the young people whom she has been training in nature study work for camps and settlements. Quite an interesting story is bound around these young people: Mrs. Colton, sponsored by Mrs. James H. Douglas, during the last winter and summer has been teaching these girls, all outstanding girls from the camps at Arden Shore and Lake Bluff, and training them in the teaching of nature study. Last summer these girls were in ten different camps spreading a knowledge of flowers and trees among the city waifs there, and incidentally earning their own keep in the camps. This last winter these girls have been in ten different churches, hospitals and settlements.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Kemper of Winnetka returned on Thursday from a two months' vacation in California and Hawaii.

Gladioli Beds Offer Blooms All Summer

Require Proper Choice of Varieties.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Many Chicagoland gardeners who have been getting acquainted with some of the newer developments in gladiolus culture are reporting success with selection of varieties which can be planted from late April up to as late as Independence day, with a view to obtaining a succession of bloom throughout the season.

"If one is anxious to secure a succession of bloom from late in June to the time when frost comes," says Mrs. Fred A. Record of the Barrington Garden club, "study carefully the blooming dates of the various sorts of gladioli. Some of the earliest kinds will blossom in a little more than two months. Midseason varieties have a period of 70 to 90 days before blooming while the late flowering develop in 100 to 110 days or more.

"By careful study of blooming dates, therefore, a long succession of bloom may be secured from bulbs all planted at the same time. For those who wish to have a steady bloom, it is best to have several plantings, from late April to early May. Then another planting may be possible just before Decoration day and still another the latter part of June or even first of July."

Mrs. Record is among those who give preference to a loam or clay loam soil for gladioli. However, nearly any soil built up in fertility and with good drainage will produce fine blooms, although too rich a soil may tend to produce weak stalks.

The ground should be thoroughly spaded and mellowed, and responds to "special care," she says. The gladiolus corm should be set deep enough to prevent the stalk from tipping, yet not too deep to prevent early growth. Liberal use of plant food and an occasional soaking during warm weather is advised. Glads are troubled little with insects and are almost drough proof if the surface soil is kept loose.

"To pick varieties is a matter of so many opinions," adds Mrs. Record. "We can be safe always with the old favorites, Baron Hulot, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Mrs. Francis King, Evelyn Kirland, Foch, the older ruffled varieties and many of the more or less recent introductions.

"There are so many kinds of fine pinks, such a riot of glowing reds, beautiful whites, charming lavender and blue shades that it would be hard to enumerate all. Albatross is one of the new whites. Chicago white is a favorite, Mammoth and Joerge white are fine, while White Knight with a bright purple blotch is popular. Others include Purple Progress, Purple Glory, Blue Danube, Grace Kimball, and Jap Lady."

OFFICIAL CONTRACT

BY CHARLES TRUE ADAMS.

[International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight."]

It is a generally accepted thought that if you repeat something often enough people are bound to become familiar with it. If this is true, any player who reads these columns frequently should be a fairly accomplished squeeze player. At least 25 per cent of all hands given in this paper have been of the squeeze type. This constant emphasis on this particular play is not only due to the interest and fascination of the play itself, but also because it occurs more frequently than any other type of end play. Yesterday's play-a-problem was another. This was the hand:

NORTH
♠—K,Q,3,2
♥—J,7,6
♦—K,Q,9
♣—K,J,5

WEST	EAST
♠—A,9,6,5	♠—10
♥—K,9,5,3	♥—Q,4,2
♦—4	♦—J,10,6,3,2
♣—7,6,3,2	♣—Q,9,8,4

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—J,8,7,4
♥—A,10,8
♦—A,8,7,5
♣—A,10

South dealt and bid a no-trump. West passed. North bid two spades. East passed. South now bid three spades. West passed and North went to three no-trumps, showing he held no more than four cards in the spade suit. East passed. South decided to let the no-trump ride and also passed, as did West.

West opened the ♥ 3, dummy played the 6, East the Q, and declarer took the trick with the A. Declarer then led back the ♠ 4, which dummy took with the ♠ Q, returning the ♠ 2, on which declarer played the ♠ J and which West took with the ♠ A. To trick four West led the ♥ K, dummy played the J, and declarer the 8. West then led the ♥ 6, which declarer captured with the ♥ 10. Declarer then led the ♠ 8 and, when West covered with the 9, dummy took the trick with the ♠ K. Now see if you can note the squeeze. At trick seven dummy led the ♠ 3 and declarer took with the ♠ 7, East discarding the ♣ 8. Declarer then led the ♦ 5, which dummy took with the ♦ Q. Dummy led back the ♦ K and followed by leading the ♦ 9, which declarer captured with the ♦ A. To the eleventh trick declarer led the ♣ A and to the tenth trick the ♣ 10, which dummy took with the ♣ K and on which the ♣ Q fell. Dummy then took the last trick with the ♣ J. If, at trick seven, East had discarded a diamond instead of a club, declarer would have made his ♦ 8 in place of dummy's ♣ J.

If West leads a small heart at trick four, the play goes about the same, except that East keeps three clubs and declarer leads out three diamonds and throws East in with the fourth diamond after making the ♣ A. Either way South makes five odd—the game and two extra tricks. Here is Monday's play-a-problem:

NORTH (Dealer)
♥—Q,10,9,3,2
♦—A
♣—A,K,10,8,7,5

WEST	EAST
♠—J,10,7,6,3	♠—K,Q,9,8,4
♥—8,7	♥—5,4
♦—10,9,8,7	♦—K,Q
♣—3,2	♣—Q,J,9,4

SOUTH
♠—A,2
♥—A,K,J,6
♦—J,6,5,4,3,2
♣—6

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Norman Hartnell Uses Striped Satin to Fashion Stunning Evening Gown

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—You'll be wanting a printed evening frock this summer. All the world and the world's daughter are going to have at least one such dress. The advance guard—the ultra smart—will have a striped silk evening frock instead of one made of the prettier and more usual florally printed dress.

Striped evening frocks are presented by such distinguished French style creators as Jeanne Lanvin. When I say striped dresses, I do not mean those with one kind of stripe, but with stripes of every width from pencil to oversized stripes of ten inch width. The new silk organdies, organza, and organdia often come in striped patterns, in delicate spring colors like pale green and white, and it is these materials that Lanvin prefers. Other dressmakers use striped silk crêpes to make effective evening frocks.

The dress shown in our sketch is made of a soft crêpe satin striped in black and white. It is designed by Norman Hartnell and is one of the most striking evening frocks to be found in Paris this spring.

The material of this model combines wide bands of black satin with narrow lines placed on a white crêpe ground. The bodice, which has a plain fitted front, is worked diagonally, and the back of the bodice extends over the right arm in a pointed, attached scarf that is draped, as shown, up over the left shoulder. The stripes of the skirt are placed horizontally, and there is a nonflared peplum from the normal waistline to the hipline.

SHAMROCKS WIN LEAGUE TITLE; OUST MANAGER

SCHMELING SHOT SOMETHING WITH HORNS, HE SAYS

Jacobs Thinks It Was a Taxicab.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, April 8. — [Special.] — Max Schmeling sat erect in a straight back chair; Joe Jacobs, his manager, sat on the back of his neck in a fat, soft, underslung chair; the boys, come up to see the heavyweight champion back, reposed in loose attitudes on the lounge and in other chairs. Two of them were off in a corner, whispering, for the prize fight business is very mysterious and there is always whispering when the champion is holding an informal audience.

Fellow—a certain party—with an angle, came in and tossed Schmeling and Jacobs one of those "can I speak to you privately?" nods. So they got up and went into a bedroom for 15 minutes, emerging with mysterious remarks of "Well, then I'll tell him it's okay unless that other thing comes up," and "Yeah," from Jacobs, "tell him it's all right with us only, of course, we got to consider that other angle with that other party."

There Were Two Tables.

Schmeling came back to his straight back chair. Uncle Will McCarney moved in quietly. Uncle Will is the deputy manager, the tub thumper, and trouble shooter, who goes out ahead of Schmeling on his travels to turn on the heat and drops in behind him to soothe away the petty larceny claims that always pursue a heavyweight champion. His car bent the fender on a flivver. Well, if it wasn't his car then the fellow driving it was employed by him as a sparring partner and, therefore, he was legally responsible. Damages, asking price, $25,000; settlement offered, $10; closing price, a new fender and $25 for the ornament to the American bar representing the plaintiff.

There was a long table under a big top table cloth, containing a jumble of nickeled, hotel coffee pots, the rinds of ham-and-Swiss-on-rye, soddon cigaret butts coming apart in the cups, and some butter pats flecked with ash. There was another table, a small one, in the corner, with a half dozen assorted ginger ale and mineral water, a bucket of ice, and a dimpled bottle with a baby ribbon at the throat.

Boys Refused "a Little Shock."

Raising his eyebrows invitingly, "little shock, anybody?" Uncle Will proposed. There were no takers. Ten years ago there might have been takers, but that was when every one thought it best to take one while the chance offered, because pretty soon it would be all gone and there was no telling when a man could get another.

"I wish I could give you some of my venison," Schmeling said. "I shot a stag in Germany with ten-point horns."

"Probably a cow," said Mr. Jacobs. "Cows have got horns. Cows and goats and taxicabs. Maybe it was a taxicab. Deers haven't got horns. Deers have got, whaddye call them things, stick out like this? Antwerps."

"What did you shoot the deer for?"

"I was sore at him," Schmeling said. "He was a dirty bum and I shot him."

"Ten point is only squab deer," said Gallico. "We throw them back under 96 point."

Mr. Jacobs has not enjoyed the prosperity that used to run with the office of manager of the heavyweight champion of the world. Neither has his champion prospered in the old way, though he is an able fighter and would have made his million if he had come into the title, however dubiously, two years earlier.

They've Made Car Fare.

They had one fight, against Willie Stribling, a year ago at a price for which Dempsey, in his physical and commercial prime would not have taken off his clothes. Before that there had been an exhibition tour for trashy money as receipts are measured by the old standard.

Still, Jacobs and Uncle Will were observing the old royal forms and customs like royal yes men keeping court for a fallen king in a Paris rooming house.

Your correspondent had an idea. Schmeling and Jacobs were off in one of the bedrooms again, conferring secretly with another man with an angle—another certain party.

"Why doesn't the little guy take the big guy out and let him tip over a lot of duck pins the way Dempsey did? He's a good enough fighter to take care of himself, and Dempsey was a draw all winter, slapping down bums for 50 per cent of the gross, less tax. He won't draw his breath with those sparring partners of his. They never do. But Dempsey went out body snatching and dug up a lot of stiffs and look at the money he made."

Schmeling Was Thinking.

"I know," said a friend of Mr. Jacobs. "I tell the little guy that, but you try to tell him. The Dutchman can lick better bums than Dempsey licked, but they won't take a chance of accidents with that title. They just figure any bum that can throw one might throw one in and the guy forgets to duck some night in Wheeling or some place and there

THE GUMPS—HIS HAT IN THE RING

BIM IS ALL SHOT UP OVER WHAT MILLIE'S MOTHER SAID ABOUT THE SCORES OF MEN WHO WERE THROWING THEMSELVES AT MILLIE'S FEET—
BEGGING FOR HER HAND—
IT CERTAINLY GOT HIS GOAT—
HE COULDN'T SLEEP ALL NIGHT—
HE IS ABOUT TO LOSE HIS FAITH IN WOMEN AGAIN—
OH—I SUPPOSE SHE IS PESTERED TO DEATH WITH OFFERS OF MARRIAGE—
IT'S ALWAYS MY LUCK WHEN I CARE FOR ANYONE—
I SUPPOSE SHE'S IN LOVE WITH SOMEBODY—
PERHAPS SHE'S ENGAGED—
I WONDER WHO THE COUNT IS THAT SHE'S CRAZY ABOUT—THAT FOR THE COUNT—
COUNT OR NO COUNT—
I'M OUT TO WIN THE HAND OF MILLIE DE STROSS—
AND ANY COUNT THAT STANDS IN MY WAY WILL TAKE THE COUNT BEFORE I GET THROUGH WITH HIM—
HE'LL BE A NO ACCOUNT—
WAIT TILL I START SPENDING MONEY—

Hits—Root, 3 in 5 innings; Osborn, 3 in 6 innings. Bases on balls—Osborn, 1; Smith, 1; Grimes, 2. Struck out—Osborn, 2; Root, 4. Double plays—English to Grimm; English to Herman to H. Taylor. Time—1:50.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—[Special.]—While polishing themselves off for the opening of the baseball race next week the Cubs this afternoon squeezed out a victory over the Kansas City Blues, 4 to 3. The day was a success in every way except hitting. The Chicagoans made only a half dozen hits, but they displayed dazzling speed on the bases to achieve victory.

In the first inning the footwork of young Stanley Hack brought one run. The Cubs were handed a run in the seventh and another in the ninth and tallied a second one in the ninth by executing a double steal, Vince Barton and young Harry Taylor being the perpetrators. As it turned out, the thieving attack produced the victory.

Charley Root and Burleigh Grimes, a pair of aces of the Cubs' pitching staff, did the hurling. Root, who already has been assigned to pitch the opener at Cincinnati on Tuesday, yielded three hits and no runs in five innings.

Grimes Has Trouble.

Grimes worked four innings and had to bear down. Four hits were made off him and all three of the runs, but one was the result of an error.

A crowd of 4,000 was out to watch the show here, but at least half of the number were women, who crashed a free gate.

Woody English probably will not be in the starting lineup against Cincinnati Tuesday. A finger on the shortstop's throwing hand, injured a short time ago, has been fractured, an X-ray examination revealed tonight. He was sent home to be placed under the care of the club physician.

Hack's speed helped the Cubs to a run in the first inning. He led off with a bunt and beat it for a single. Then he stole second and scooted to third on a short passed ball after Herman had fanned. From there he jogged home on Cuyler's single.

After that first inning, Osborn was bearing down on his former teammates and they didn't get another hit until the sixth, when Herman rammed a two bagger just inside of third base. Two were out at the time, and no results came from the hit.

In the seventh inning, Smith was on the mound for Kansas City and Barton greeted him with a line drive to left center for two bases. He advanced on Gudat's out, but stood at third while English died on a bounce to the shortstop. Grimm was safe when Marquardt fumbled his roller, and Barton scored. Harry Taylor immediately took Grimm's place, but the inning ended when Hartnett popped out.

Root Yields 3 Hits.

Root was steady and strong for the five innings he worked, holding the Blues to three hits. He was in some danger in the fifth when two hits put runners on first and second with only one out. In this pinch, Hartnett picked a man off second base. Charley then fanned the batter and went to the showers.

In the sixth Grimes was called on

SERVES NOTICE TO AMBITIOUS BASE RUNNERS

Gabby Hartnett, the oldest member of the Cubs in the point of service, displays the same pep and enthusiasm that won him a regular position in 1922. The gabby Cub catcher demonstrated that his arm retains its old speed and accuracy by picking a runner off second base as the Chicago National league entry defeated Kansas City yesterday, 4 to 3.

Players Start Legal Action for Hockey Pay

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Fourteen players of the St. Louis Hockey club, who claim they were stranded here at the close of the American Hockey league season as a result of receiving only part of their salaries, have retained an attorney to aid them in obtaining their money.

Accompanied by Mayor Victor Miller, the players went to the office of their attorney, John C. Vogel, today, and mapped out a plan of action, but the lawyer declined to make known the plans.

Because of their lack of funds, the hotel where the players are living in St. Louis has refused them further credit and some of the men said they have been without food the last few days. The players say they have received only about 25 per cent of the money due under their contracts.

Harry S. Taber, president of the St. Louis club, has been in Chicago for more than a week seeking financial assistance, but has failed so far, according to reports received here.

Bonds of $500 each were posted for 12 of the players when they came to this country from Canada, and their bonds may be forfeited if they do not return to Canada within 30 days after the close of the playing season.

First Ladies' Day of Cubs' Season Set for April 22

The Chicago Cubs will accept requests Monday for the first ladies' day game of the season, Friday, April 22, at Wrigley field. One ticket will be allotted to each applicant until the limit of 20,000 has been exhausted. Requests should be addressed to "Ladies' Ticket Office, Wrigley Field" and must contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SPEARS DUE AT MADISON TODAY IN SPECIAL CAR

Madison, Wis., April 8.—(AP)—A special Pullman car will bring Dr. Clarence W. Spears, the University of Wisconsin's new football coach, and his family to Madison tomorrow morning.

The train on which he leaves Minneapolis late tonight goes to Milwaukee but the Milwaukee road eliminated this detour by placing a private car at the coach's disposal at Portage.

A locomotive will be dispatched to Portage to haul the special car to Madison, due to arrive here at 8:25 a. m. Although university students are now on a spring vacation, there are enough fans in town to assure the doctor a rousing welcome.

Mrs. Moody Cuts Hair; Likes Her Bob Immensely

San Francisco, Cal., April 8.—[Special.]—Helen Wills Moody finally has cut her long tresses. Friends and admirers of the tennis champion were amazed to learn that the "little girl with pigtails" had bobbed her hair today.

"Well, I don't know what you would call it," said Mrs. Moody when asked to describe the new "bob." "Just a conservative hair trim, I guess. But I like it immensely. Long hair really is such a bother, you know."

MRS. HILL SETS COURSE MARK IN WINNING MEET

Greensboro, N. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City won the annual women's Dogwood golf championship tournament at the Sedgefield Country club for the second consecutive year by defeating Miss Margaret Maddox, 7 and 5, in the final round today.

Mrs. Hill, in defeating Miss Maddox, Georgia state champion, scored a 78 to set a new course record for women. The old mark was 76, established by Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake. The match ended on the 13th green, Mrs. Hill scoring a four while Miss Maddox had a five.

COLD SENDS SOX TO INDIANAPOLIS AHEAD OF TIME

Skip Terre Haute Game; Play Indians Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—The Chicago White Sox, with a few icicles hanging on the bat bag, arrived in this Hoosier seat of activity ahead of schedule, having been frosted out of today's scheduled battle against the Terre Haute Tots of the Three-Eye league.

The day's baseball layoff placed the Sox in a fix where they have to go four days to recall their last victory. And in the same bleak span their foes of tomorrow, the Indianapolis Indians have had the pleasure of defeating the New York Yankees, the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the Cincinnati Reds. They were to have played the Reds today, but the cold wave caused the engagement to be called off.

There is no assurance that it will be much warmer here tomorrow, but tomorrow is Saturday and the hugs hereabouts are pretty well steamed up over the improvement of the Indians through the efforts of one of Indianapolis' main millionaires, Norman Perry.

No Nine Inning Pitchers.

Mr. Perry late last season built a new $300,000 ball park for his outfit, and he didn't put in all those nice new green seats to see them empty. So it probably will have to be pretty brisk to cause a week end cancellation.

The Sox, moreover, have only tomorrow's and Sunday's game to be played before the season opener, and so far only one pitcher has gone more than six innings and none has pitched nine.

Tommy Thomas is the gent who exceeded a half dozen innings. He pitched seven innings in the game in Louisville Wednesday, but whatever satisfaction his stamina may have given him was tempered by the fact that he gave up six runs on six successive hits in the third inning.

Ted Lyons was scheduled to pitch today in Terre Haute and may draw the assignment tomorrow, though Vic Frasier is the more likely choice.

Jones Slips as Starter.

Sam Jones, until yesterday doped as a season starter, lost a bit of prestige when he allowed four runs in the first inning of yesterday's rain soaked affair in Louisville.

The windup of the hunt for next Tuesday's pitcher probably will be the selection of Thomas, for aside from his panicky blowup in one inning his last time out, he indicated that he is in shape to work nine innings.

Jack Hayes, who would have rested a strained leg yesterday and today even if the Sox had played, will be ready to start against the St. Louis Browns Tuesday.

BIG TEN MEDAL FOR SCHOLARSHIP GOES TO RUSSELL

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—Edwin F. Russell of Rochester, N. Y., captain of the Michigan track team, has been awarded the Western conference medal here for proficiency in athletics and scholarship. The award is based on his work throughout his four year college career. Russell, a senior in the college of engineering, earned up to this semester forty-seven hours of "A" grade, forty-two hours of "B," and thirty-two hours of "C." Runner up was Norman Daniels, prospective nine letter man, who captained this year's basketball team. Russell is Big Ten champion in the quarter mile.

Cubs Send Henry Back to Minneapolis Millers

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—[Special.]—Frank (Dutch) Henry again will pitch for the Minneapolis American Association team this season, it was announced today by Vice President G. K. Belden. Henry hurled for the Chicago Cubs in several spring exhibition games. The Cubs notified the Millers that they could not exercise the option on the left hander. Under the two clubs' agreement Henry was to return to the Millers by May 1, if at all.

DEFEAT DULUTH, 4-3; PRELESNIK'S SHOT TRIUMPHS

3 Goal Hornet Rally Forces Overtime.

Duluth, Minn., April 8.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks won the American league championship tonight by defeating the Duluth Hornets, 4 to 3, in an overtime game marked by the most spectacular rally in Duluth hockey history. The victory was the Shamrock's third in four games in the title series.

Trailing 3 to 0 midway through the third period, the Hornets scored three goals to tie the count and necessitate overtime. Preslesnik, rookie Chicago forward, drove in the deciding goal in one minute and 41 seconds of the extra period, terminating the game and series.

The Shamrocks played the game under the direction of Tom Shaughnessy, president of the team, who had fired Manager Babe Dye earlier in the day. Dye's dismissal followed Capt. Gordie Brydson's departure for Toronto, where he is to be married tomorrow. Shaughnessy censured Dye for permiting Brydson to quit the squad on the eve of the championship game and fined Brydson $1,000.

Five Men Attack.

Five attacking forwards enabled the Hornets to stage their remarkable rally. These five wings and centers carried a constant offensive inside the Chicago defense zone, scoring twice from scrimmage within 41 seconds. Bouchard got the first goal and Forslund the second. Five minutes later, Scott took a pass from Forslund and beat Mike Karakas, Chicago goalie, for the tying score.

With the score tied and only a few moments of play remaining, the Hornets continued the five man attack. Leswick sent a clear pass down in front of the Chicago net, but Forslund fumbled the puck on the pickup and missed an open shot as the bell rang.

The game was a desultory affair during the first two periods, with the Shamrocks getting a goal in each session. Halfway through the first period Preslesnik recovered his own rebound and batted the puck back at Turner. As it cut across the cage, Turner intercepted, but Riley recovered and flipped the puck into the cage.

Wiseman Scores.

In the second period, the Shamrocks received a gift goal when Turner lost the puck after saving on Riley's long shot. It struck him high on the chest and flopped into the air. Turner looked around for it while it bounded loosely in front of him. Wiseman skated in and pitched it into the net.

CHICK EVANS' 73 LEADS GOLF PLAY AT FRENCH LICK

French Lick, Ind., April 8.—[Special.]—Chick Evans of the Edgewater Golf club, Chicago, scored 73 to lead the field in the inaugural midwest medal play tournament here today. Evans reached the turn in 37. He came home in 36, finishing with four fours.

John Lehman of Chicago, Jim Manion of St. Louis, and B. H. Heinlein of Indianapolis, the Indiana state champion, tied at 76 for second place. Other leaders were Douglas Casey, Chicago, 77; Jack Westland, Chicago, 78; A. L. Miller, Chicago, 78; Peter Schaefer, Indianapolis, 82; Max Buell, Indianapolis, 83; Phil Talbot, Bloomington, 83; John D. Ames, Chicago, 83. Other leading Chicago scores were Glen Clark, 85; Tom Heneage, 86, and A. B. Sweet, 88.

Of a field of 150 entries only 100 started and a number of these did not finish because of rain. The special train from Chicago carried 175 players, including a number of women, but the event carded for women today was not played.

The second round of the championship will be played tomorrow. Among the Chicagoans present are Harry Radix, John D. Cady, Francis Blossom, Walter Carr, Harold N. Scott, Don MacMurray, Douglas Treedie, John Hackett, James Levy, George B. Harrington, and H. H. Taylor.

New Orleans Awarded Davis Cup Play May 13-15

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association today announced New Orleans had been selected as the site of the second round matches in Davis cup play between Mexico and the winner of the United States-Canada first round series. The dates were set for May 13, 14 and 15.

WISE COUNT WINS BOWIE RACE IN 3 YEAR OLD DEBUT

Regula Baddun Second, Gay Party Third.

Bowie, Md., April 8.—[Special.]—Wise Count, a 2 year old which promised highly last spring, made his 3 year old debut with a victory at Bowie today. The gelded son of Wise Counsellor and Grace Troxler was sent to the post by Elmer Trueman, who is leading the trainers at the meeting.

At the end of the six furlongs Wise Count was a half length before Regula Baddun, which was the choice jointly with Don Romiro, which got fourth. Gay Party was third, five lengths back of Regula Baddun, and the same distance before Don Romiro.

Wise Count was ridden by Jockey A. Robertson and was timed in 1:12 2-5 under 115 pounds, which was top weight. The winner returned $9.60 for $2 and had to be put to a drive to win.

Wise Count Away Well.

Wise Count was away swiftly when the bar was sprung. Regula Baddun fell into stride behind him, but was unable to keep up in the early stages. Hank Mills, southern riding sensation, was up on Regula Baddun and urged him on strongly through the stretch. The last furlong developed a close contest between Wise Count and Regula Baddun, but Robertson was able to keep his mount going long enough to win.

The Holly Beach purse, originally scheduled as the fourth event, was canceled, and a six furlong test for horses of claiming caliber substituted. Calgary Kay won the race by a neck. Sun Memory landed second, two lengths before Dunlin's Lad. Dunlin's Lad was the favorite.

Negopoli Wins by a Nose.

Sun Memory was the early leader and opened up a substantial lead over Dunlin's Lad, which was in closest pursuit during the early pace. Continuing in front until well into the stretch, Sun Memory then began to shorten stride. Calgary Kay came up from a rear guard position and won under a hustling ride by Jockey J. Gilbert.

In the fifth race, the seven year old Negopoli, which has been consistent in claiming company, just got up to win by a nose. Stone Martin was the second horse and Don Tasker was third. Three lengths separated Stone Martin from Don Tasker. The winner returned $4.50 for $2.

Sportsmen Air Views on Shell Tax Plan

BY BOB BECKER.

Although no one knows just what kind of duck season sportsmen may expect next fall, because regulations on hunting water fowl have not yet been issued, the recent three day open hearing conducted by the special senate wild life conservation committee in Washington gives Illinois sportsmen an idea of how the country thinks about the proposed shell tax. A bill incorporating the plan to tax every shotgun shell one cent in order to provide funds for duck feeding grounds and refuges has been introduced into congress.

Scores of conservationists, heads of game and fish associations, and state conservation officials aired their views on the duck situation and the shell tax before the committee. Senator Harry Hawes asked each one what he thought about the tax plan.

Midwest Against Bill.

Midwest sentiment apparently is strongly against the shell tax. George R. Hogarth, head of the Michigan conservation department, branded it as unfair. J. T. Treharne, head of the Illinois division of the Izaak Walton league, opposed the tax when he spoke before the committee, as did Willoughby Walling of Chicago, chairman of the executive board of the league. Haskell Noyes, chairman of the Wisconsin conservation commission, told the committee he believed the tax plan unfair. Charles T. Lawton of St. Paul, Minn., head of the United Sportsman's association, opposed the shell tax as penalizing farmers who kill vermin and as being unfair to upland game hunters.

W. T. Cox, Minnesota's director of conservation, was another representative from the Mississippi valley who spoke against the tax. He opposed the so-called "baiting" of birds, said he was not in favor of the shotgun shell tax and urged "a serious nation-wide effort to stop overshooting." Reflecting Missouri sentiment J. R. Cunningham of Kansas City testified before the committee to the effect that most of the Walton league chapters in that state opposed the shell tax.

However, several states expressed sentiment in favor of the shell tax and others urged that a $1 federal license was preferred to the tax. One of the surprising reports coming from the Washington hearing is to the effect that neither a shell tax nor a federal license plan had much chance in congress. This opinion was expressed by a senator who ought to know what he is talking about.

Manufacturers Protest.

The climax of the hearing apparently came when the ammunition manufacturers pointed out that a shell tax would reduce the production of shells and the number of workers required in their factories by 25 per cent as well as add to the actual cost of the shell before any tax was levied.

Chicagoans Win 2d Leg on National Contract Trophy

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—[Special.]—R. W. Halpin and C. W. Rilling of the Auction Bridge club of Chicago tonight for the second time won a leg on the three leg trophy given by Henry F. Campbell of Indianapolis for the national contract pair championship. They were playing in the sixth annual national interclub duplicate bridge tournament at the Indianapolis Athletic club.

Chicago Swim Stars Set Two World Marks

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Two new world's records were established by Chicago swimmers in the 400 yard relay and the 300 yard medley relay in the dual swimming meet between Los Angeles and Chicago held last night at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The relay team, composed of Arthur Highland, M. Wilcox, Dr. Sampson, and Walter Laufer, set a new time for the 400 yard event of 3:32.1, bettering the former mark by 2 8-10 seconds. Laufer, anchor man for the victors, touched in with an advantage of 10 feet.

Los Angeles won the meet, 33 points to 31.

The medley relay team of L. Kerber, Don Horn, and Highland stroked the old mark of 3:05 3-5 into the discard by 1 3-5 seconds. The Chicago team led all the way, gaining its advantage on turns.

Mickey Riley of the Los Angeles Athletic club, the defending champion in the high board diving event, lost his title to his teammate, Dutch Smith, by 3-5 of a point. Smith gained the winning fraction margin by his execution of a one and one-half gainer.

Buster Crabbe's victory in the 220 yard free style swim broke the 25 point tie of the two clubs, giving his club the winning margin.

100 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Blankenburg, Los Angeles Athletic club; Horn, Chicago, second; Bridenthal,, Chicago, third. Time, 1:09.1.

440 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Buster Crabb, Los Angeles Athletic club; A. Clapp, Los Angeles Athletic club, second; Wilson, Chicago, third. Time, 5:45 flat.

100 YARD BACK STROKE [exhibition]—Won by Elizabeth Henry, Illinois Women's Athletic club; Marian Stanton, same club, second; Cleon Martin, Edgewater Beach hotel, third. Time, 1:17.9.

150 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Kerber, Chicago; Maiola Kalili, Los Angeles Athletic club, second; H. Murphy, Chicago, third. Time, 1:41.3.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Walter Laufer, Chicago; Schwartz, Chicago, second; Manuella Kalili third. Time, :53.4.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Dutch Smith, 152.15 points, Los Angeles Athletic club, Mickey Riley, 151.85 points, Los Angeles Athletic club, second; Al Green, 143.5 points, Chicago, third.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Buster Crabb, Los Angeles Athletic club; Maiola Kalili, Los Angeles Athletic club, second; Wilcox, Chicago, third. Time—2:19.3.

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Chicago; Los Angeles Athletic club, second. Time, 3:04 [new world's record].

THREE TIE FOR CUE LEAD; HOLD PLAYOFF TODAY

Augie Kieckhefer, world's champion, gained a triple tie for first place by breaking even in the last two games of the all star three cushion billiard tournament at the Kieckhefer Recreation last night. He lost to Welker Cochran, 40 to 27, in 31 innings and then triumphed over Willie Hoppe, 40 to 34, in 34 innings.

Kieckhefer, Hoppe and Cochran, who finished with five games won and three lost, will meet in the playoff today, all games at 50 points. Hoppe and Kieckhefer will play the first game this afternoon. Cochran will meet the loser in the second afternoon game and at night Cochran will oppose the Kieckhefer-Hoppe winner.

Earl Lookabaugh helped to make it a triple tie by defeating Cochran in the afternoon, 40 to 33, in 49 innings. In the other afternoon game Hoppe defeated Arthur Thurnblad, 40 to 25, in 34 innings. Final standing:

	W.	L.	High Run	Best Gm.	Tot. Pts.	Tot. Ings.	Gd. Ave.

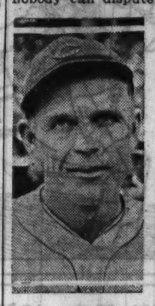
How I Got My Start in Baseball

BY BOB SMITH.

[As told to Irving Vaughan.]

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—I guess nobody can dispute me if I say that I broke into the big league first and into baseball after that. This can easily be understood when you stop to figure that I came up to the Braves as a somewhat obscure infielder, with only a slim chance to make good and later became a regular pitcher.



BOB SMITH.

That happened because, after I had done some throwing to batters in practice, Dick Rudolph, the old pitcher who then was coaching the Braves, thought he saw possibilities. He suggested that I consider the switch and casually reminded me that there wasn't much hope for any youngster to beat Dave Bancroft out of his shortstop job. I realized that in a hurry, so it was pitching from then on. I started my first game at Pittsburgh in 1925 and won it, 2 to 1, in eleven innings.

When I was a kid around Atlanta I put in five years of playing with a Baptist Sunday school team and then a year (1919) with a team put together by the Atlanta Steel corporation, which also employed me as a machinist. We played 120 games that season and lost only eleven. One of the games in which a semi-pro title was at stake was at Birmingham against the Tennessee Coal and Iron team, which for the occasion had enrolled two young men by the names of Riggs Stephenson and Joe Sewell of the University of Alabama.

In 1920 I thought I was good enough at infielding to hire out exclusively as a player, so I hooked on with West Point, Ga., which was in a sort of semi-pro league. The manager there was a Carl Eubanks and on his recommendation I was signed by New Orleans in 1921. It was from New Orleans that the Braves drafted me at the close of the 1922 season. It was my infielding that induced the Boston club to put in the draft bid involving a $4,000 expenditure.

to get his topping off exercise, as he is slated to pitch the second game of the season in Cincinnati. Burleigh set the boys down one, two, three in the sixth, but was in trouble in the seventh. Grigsby led off with a scratchy single that English was able to knock down. Grigsby took second on Pick's grounder and moved to third on Boken's out. Kelly walked and then Monahan singled to right, scoring Grigsby and sending Kelly to third.

Monahan and Kelly then started a double steal while Grimes was holding the ball. He faked a throw to second and then tossed to Hack. Kelly was trapped between third and home, but got safely to the plate when Hartnett dropped Hack's throw. This tied the score. Phillips' long fly ended the mess.

In the ninth inning the Cubs did some speed stuff on the bases and gathered two runs. Cuyler opened with a single to right. Barton sent a perfect bunt toward third, and beat it for a single, and when the third baseman cut loose with a wild throw Cuyler dashed on to third. The first baseman recovered the ball and made another wild throw to third, letting Cuyler score and Barton go to second.

Barton Scores on Steal.

Gudat filed to left and English filed to center, Barton dashing to third after the catch. Harry Taylor walked and the two young men immediately staged a double steal, Barton scoring. Hartnett ended the inning with a grounder to third.

In the last of the ninth, the Blues got one run when, with one out, Pick singled, took second on a passed ball, and scored on Boken's single. Kelly also scratched a single, but Monahan slapped into a double play that ended the game.

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—Chicago landed another place among the leaders in the American Bowling congress tournament tonight when the Brucks five rolled 2,954 for eighth position.

The Chicagoans appeared to be headed for the lead when they opened with games of 993 and 997. But the assignment was too difficult.

Conroys Get 2,806.

The John E. Conroys, another Chicago team, tallied 2,806 on games of 900, 930, and 976. M. Weisner paced his mates with 606. Chicago scores:

Thirty Chicago teams, the last of 137 lineups entered in the tournament, are scheduled on tomorrow night's card. These quintets will attempt to dethrone the leading Verifines of Milwaukee and bring back the world's bowling crown to Chicago.

Several of the most formidable lineups in A. B. C. competition are included in the Chicago delegation. Frank Wright's S. and L. Motor team will be closely watched. The Chicago five won the championship at Buffalo last year with a total of 3,013 and finished second at Cleveland in 1930 with a score of 3,082.

Roll on Best Alleys.

The Boyle Valves, leaders of the Randolph league, boast such stars as Eddie Krems, Ad Carlson, Dominick Devito, Ernie Schanz, and Leo Faetz. This Chicago team is scheduled on alleys 29 and 30 said to be two of the best drives in the Coliseum building here.

The ten leaders in the doubles and singles were not threatened in this afternoon's competition. Steve Novak, Toledo, paced the singles entrants when he hung up a 662 total on games of 236, 214, and 212. J. Walters and C. Waters, Binghamton, N. Y., were high among the doubles teams with 1,243 on 398, 396 and 449.

Giants Defeat Tigers, 2-1, in Detroit Opener

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—The New York Giants defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1, in the opening baseball game of the season here this afternoon. The score was tied, 1 to 1, until the eighth inning when the National leaguers scored a run to win the game.

Whips Celebron for 147 Pound Title.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Johnny Phagan, Golden Gloves inter-city welterweight champion, added the Central A. A. U. 147 pound title to his list of conquests last night at Loyola university gymnasium. Phagan defeated Billy Celebron of Rockford Ill., in three rounds.

It was a thrilling battle, particularly the last round when the boys stood toe to toe and slugged. In many ways, the bout was a repetition of that a month ago for Golden Gloves, when Phagan whipped his opponent for the first time. Both were members of the Chicago squad which fought in New York.

Casserio Easy Winner.

Max Marek won the light heavyweight title by defeating Frank Androff of Minneapolis. Marek's aggressiveness in the third and final round earned him the decision. In the semi-finals, Marek whipped Johnny Long of Hammond, Ind., in another close bout.

Time was taken out in the second round of the heavyweight final when a punch bounced Frank Ketter of the Belle Plaine A. C. into the ropes and snapped the support of the top rope. Immediately after repairs were made, Ketter was stopped by Earl Sather of Minneapolis, National A. A. A. heavyweight champion.

Frank Sanello of Trafton's gymnasium won the flyweight championship beating Lynn Thompson of the same gymnasium in three rounds.

Scialaba Scores Knockout.

Nick Scialaba had a harder battle in the bantamweight semi-finals than he did in the title match. He outpointed George Goodman in three rounds and then knocked out John Scanavino of the Welter A. C. A left hook to the jaw put Scanavino out in the first minute. In the semi-finals Scanavino won an unpopular decision from Sammy Fisher of Rockford, Ill.

The eight champions qualified for the National A. A. A. meet at New York. This tourney will decide the makeup of the American Olympic team. Summaries:

Lou Brouillard's Right Beats Johnny Indrisano

Boston, Mass., April 8.—(AP)—Lou Brouillard of Worcester, former welterweight champion, tonight defeated Johnny Indrisano of Boston in the Boston Garden's 10 round feature bout. Brouillard owed his victory to a heavy right to the jaw that dropped Indrisano for a count of nine late in the second round. Brouillard weighed 148 and Indrisano scaled 148¼.

Levinsky, Fields and Laurie to Attend Amateur Bouts

King Levinsky, Jackie Fields, and Joe Laurie Jr., musical comedy star, will be present Monday night at the all-star amateur boxing show in St. Philip's High school gymnasium, Jackson and Kedzie. Proceeds will go to the fund being created for a new athletic stadium at the west side school.

"I was thinking," said Max, "about those undertakers at Conneaut lake when I was training last summer. That night they got drunk and slept in the caskets and somebody puts a wreath on McCarney's chest, so he wakes up in the morning and reads 'Rest in Peace,' and a sign by the bed says, 'Funeral; No Parking.' I laugh all day that day."

It was growing late and the boys began to drift away.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Old West Division High school, from which, I understand, the present Wake was graduated, was located at Ogden avenue and Congress street. In another location, it is now called McKinley High. In 1888, Hyde W. Perce, now a well known realtor, and Fred A. Hayner were star pitchers of the baseball team.

We played ball in a vacant lot on Harrison street. Seniors were constantly taking up 10 cent collections from us freshmen and sophomores to pay for broken windows in the adjoining College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Perce lived on Ashland avenue, directly across from Carter H. Harrison's old home. He has since been prominent in real estate circles and was president at one time of the Chicago Real Estate board, and also disturbed the air as a member of a quartet appearing at Masonic gatherings.

Fred Hayner later went into newspaper work and you no doubt remember him as sporting editor of the Chicago News after he had been graduated from Lake Forest college. He was a football player and later a Big Ten official at gridiron contests. He met a tragic death when his Lake Forest home burned.

Those were great old days at West Division, with Prof. Clayberg, father of the "gemini," as principal, and teachers, such as Charles D. Lowry, Dr. Willard, Frank Morse, now principal at Harrison High; William Morton Payne, Prof. Monroe, George Howland, Miss Vaughan, and Miss Edith Huguenin.

Arthur M. Hull.

Who remembers Bushnell's field in 1893? It extended from the south side of 79th street to 82d street, with Muskegon and Marquette avenues as east and west boundaries. It was used as the camping ground of National Guards from various states which came to the World's Fair. These militia companies marched to the fair east on 79th to Bond avenue [now South Shore drive], north on Bond to 71st, west on 71st to Yates, north on Yates to the 67th street entrance, just about where the street cars now stop.

"On His Blindness."

[With apologies to John Milton.]

When I consider how my dough is spent,
Ere half the year, in this dark world and wide
And that one dollar, hoarding 'tis to hide,
Lodged with me useless, though my soul were bent
To serve therewith my dear wife and present
My true account, lest she, returning, chide;
"Does wife exact money, work denied?"
I fondly ask: But congress, to augment
That murmur, soon replies, "The government
Wants all your dough," for its own wastes; who best
Bear its heavy yoke, yet expand it most; the state
Is kingly; millions at its bidding spent

Source of Wealth.

A member of our sporting department has a daughter in the first form of an Evanston school. Recently a cash collection was taken up for hungry school children elsewhere. Miss Julie gave 22 cents, which was all she had. Her teacher facetiously asked Julie if she could afford it. The miss replied, quite seriously, "Well, I think I can. You see Daddy has a friend who gave me four $5 gold pieces for Christmas and I still have that."

"In what business is your daddy's friend engaged?" asked the teacher.

This puzzled Julie, but she finally came back with, "Well, I don't know exactly, but I think he sells gin in summer."

Kildeer to Open Courses May 28 with No Worries

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

When the Kildeer Country club formally opens it two courses on May 28, members will find that it is prepared for the 1932 season in more ways than one. The club is in excellent financial condition, according to President K. L. (Tug) Wilson, who pointed out that curtailment of expenses for last year was responsible. At the conclusion of the 1930 season officials decided that the income for 1931 must at least equal the club's operating expenses. As a result, Kildeer showed a profit at the end of last season.

TUG WILSON.

Kildeer has two 18 hole courses, but is able to maintain them at a cost only slightly more than that incurred by the average club with only one. Reductions in the budget for the coming year include lower priced meals and the placing of all entertainment on a paying basis.

From the standpoint of membership, Kildeer also is in good shape, having at present an enrollment of 450 members in good standing. Both courses survived the winter well, and the more impatient members have already played over them. After the official opening of the club, members will have their eye on the Karnival, Kildeer's annual invitational tourney, which will be staged on July 20.

The following committee heads have been appointed by President Wilson: Entertainment, David B. Corbett; finance, Lawrence J. Knapp; membership, Donald E. Nichols; caddy, William N. Erickson; handicap, Harrison E. Gibbes; sports and pastimes, Conrad P. Cormany; publicity, Lyman L. Weld; house, Robert H. Koeppe; grounds and greens, Dr. C. W. Johnson, and tournament, Homer D. Lininger.

Play at Lincoln Park.

The nine hole course in Lincoln park will be opened at 6 o'clock this morning. A new course under preparation, just north of the one now in use at the foot of Diversey, will be ready later in the season.

The Northwestern course in the forest preserve at Simpson and Golf roads will not open today as scheduled because of the dampness. Edgebrook No. 1 and No. 2 and Palos Park will open today.

Hickory Hills Opens Today.

Hickory Hills, a member of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, located at 95th street and Roberts road, will hold its official opening today. The club is under the management of Edward Visk. Among the improvements which will greet golfers at Hickory Hills will be a remodeled clubhouse, card rooms, an enlarged locker room, fairway sprinkling system, and a new green on the No. 3 hole.

Among other daily fee courses scheduled to open today are Pickwick, Shermer road, Glen View; Glendale, Lake street highway and Glen Ellyn road; Cherry Hills, 191st street and Kedzie avenue; York, 22d street and Golf road, and Evergreen, 9140 South Western avenue.

Another Opening.

The Silver Lake Country club, daily fee course located at 151st street and 82d avenue, will hold its official opening today. Ralph Chrissie, professional at Indianwood last year, will be pro and supervisor of the club. Among the improvements are an oil heating system in the clubhouse and an enlarged locker room. The eleventh and twelfth are the only water holes now.

Chicago Pros Make Good.

Harry Cooper of Glen Oak and Abe Espinosa of Medinah are the two local boys who made good in the winter tournament season, just completed after 16 weeks of play from California to North Carolina by way of Texas and Florida. Harry and Abe are listed by Robert Harlow, tournament manager of the pros, as among those who finished the tour with a profit.

Glen Oak's President.

From strikeout records to holes in one is a lengthy jump in the matter of sports achievements, but not for Gustave E. Munch, newly elected president of Glen Oak. Sixteen years ago, Mr. Munch established the present Chicago semi-pro strikeout record of 19 in a nine inning game. Then came Aug. 11 of last year, and with it a hole in one from a Munch club on the eleventh at Glen Oak.

The duties of president will not be strange to Mr. Munch, since he held the same post 15 years ago at the Maywood Golf club.

DANUBE PARLEY CLOSES; FAILS TO AGREE ON HELP

"Big Four" to Continue Efforts at Geneva.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—The four power conference, called to work out means to help the Danubian states, adjourned indefinitely today, having found the problem of providing prompt aid insoluble on account of the divergence of view between France on one side and Germany and Italy on the other, with Great Britain occupying the middle ground.

P. E. FLANDIN. [A. P. Photo.]

The conference met for a couple of hours this morning and heard a report frod the Big Four—Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, Finance Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin of France, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, and Foreign Ministern Bernhard W. von Buelow of Germany—on their failure.

Efforts to Continue.

Later a communique was issued, setting forth that while the powers agreed on the necessity of prompt and concerted action to save the Danubian nations — Austria, Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia—a number of economic points had emerged which called for further examination and information. It had been agreed, therefore, that each of the four powers at the earliest possible moment would address to the others a statement of its views on these points and offer what it considered the best methods for further advance.

The conference will not meet again in London, but at least three of the delegates will be at Geneva next week and the informal discussions may be resumed there.

Envoys Quit London.

Immediately after the adjournment of the conference Prime Minister MacDonald called leading members of the British cabinet and experts together and impressed them with the necessity of getting on immediately with consideration of the problems outstanding.

The German delegates left for Berlin tonight. Tomorrow the Italian foreign minister, Dino Grandi, will leave for Geneva. The French delegates probably will also travel to Geneva at the same time, stopping at Paris overnight.

Central Europe Not Surprised.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, April 8.—Central Europe was not surprised at the breakdown of the four power conference in London today. They were hardly disappointed, either, for the hard headed Danubian statesmen whose countries were to be saved never hoped for very much from the beginning. They knew that Germany and France, fighting to dominate central Europe, could not arrive at an agreement in so short a time.

For Austria the failure was a big blow because it means a delay in the $14,000,000 loan recommended by the league of nations financial commission as an immediate necessity if the country is to be saved from bankruptcy. Chancellor Karl Buresch tonight canceled a trip to Geneva, where he had hoped to bag a loan next week.

The reaction in the Danubian valley is, naturally, of two kinds. The little entente capitals, Prague, Bucharest, and Belgrade, tonight blamed the Germans and reiterated their faith in France, which has nursed them along with many loans.

Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Greece, all worse off than the French satellites, sided with Germany and Italy, their godfathers.

FRANCE 'WARNED' OF ITALY'S GAS BOMB ARSENALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 8.—Revelation that detachments of the Italian airforce, garrisoned near the frontier, are abundantly supplied with gas and incendiary bombs is made by a Paris newspaper under the signature of Admiral Degouy, a prominent naval officer and authority on military subjects.

According to Admiral Degouy, the Italians maintain numerous bombing squadrons, organized on a wartime basis, grouped at strategic points along the base of the Alps, particularly on the Jugo Slav side. Each of these garrisons he insists, possesses a permanent arsenal of chemical weapons.

State Refused Rehearing in "Jack" White Reversal

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused to grant the state a rehearing in the reversal of the conviction of William ["Three-fingered Jack"] White, gangster, for the murder of Edward Pflaume, Forest Park policeman. The first trial resulted in a life sentence for White, but the case was reversed. The second was reversed and sent back for a retrial on the ground that the state had submitted incompetent evidence.

Woman Burned to Death in Bathtub of Kerosene

Mrs. Adele Jackman, 72 years old, 2222 South Wabash avenue, was burned to death in her flat yesterday in a bathtub partly filled with kerosene. Police believed she put the oil in the tub, then got in, and ignited it to end her own life. Firemen called by another tenant of the building battered down the door and found the bathroom a roaring furnace.

STIMSON SAILS FOR ARMS MEET IN SWITZERLAND

He Sees Agreement on "Useful Measures."

New York, April 8. — [Special.] — Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, sailed tonight on the French liner Ile de France to assume the leadership of the American delegation at the disarmament conference in Geneva.

Before sailing he issued a statement expressing confidence that there is in prospect agreement upon "a number of useful measures designed to limit the chances of war."

Mr. Stimson, who is scheduled to reach Geneva April 17, was accompanied by Mrs. Stimson, Norman H. Davis, a member of the American delegation to the conference; Allen W. Dulles, recently designated as its legal adviser; Allen T. Klotz, special assistant to the secretary, and Capt. E. A. Regnier.

Confers with Hoover.

Before he left Washington in the morning Mr. Stimson had a final conference with President Hoover, who has announced that the secretary of state's mission is to obtain "some concrete and definite results, even though they may not be revolutionary."

A delegation of Washington students who plan a youth disarmament mass-meeting Sunday afternoon bade farewell to Mr. Stimson with the assurance of "determined support for every step that the American delegation may take to lead the conference to definite reductions."

Upon his arrival here Mr. Stimson went directly to the Ile de France, where he retired to his suite on the promenade deck without posing for photographers or granting any interview. Through Capt. Regnier of the French liner, however, he issued a formal statement.

He Issues Statement.

"I am going to Geneva," he said, "for the purpose of conferring with the other members of the American delegation to the arms conference. From information which has been brought to me it appears that there is prospect that the conference may be able ultimately to agree upon a number of useful measures designed to limit the chances of war. I hope to be able to be of some assistance in helping forward this program. My stay in Geneva will necessarily be brief. The other members of the delegation, including Mr. Davis, who is returning to Geneva with me in this ship, will carry on the work under the chairmanship of Mr. Hugh Gibson."

Frank B. Kellogg, Mr. Stimson's predecessor as secretary of state, also sailed on the Ile de France to attend the session of the world court at The Hague, which begins on April 18. He expressed confidence that the Sino-Japanese dispute will be settled without involving the far east in a general war.

MANCHURIAN CITY AFIRE AS JAPS ATTACK CHINESE

TOKIO, April 9.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—The city of Sinhsin, Manchuria, is burning in several places, partly as a result of Japanese air bombs and partly because of fires set by Chinese troops fleeing to the northeast from Japanese attacks, the Rengo [Japanese] News agency reported today.

Peace Parley Gets New Plan.

SHANGHAI, April 8. — (AP) — Japan today accepted provisionally a general plan for withdrawal of their troops as suggested yesterday by Sir Miles Lampson, the British ambassador, and one of the neutral negotiators for Sino-Japanese peace. The Chinese objected that the proposal did not set an absolute time limit on the Japanese withdrawal and characterized the plan as "hardly acceptable."

The conference will meet tomorrow to discuss the plan, which is understood to provide for a Japanese retreat further toward the international settlement than they heretofore had been willing to accept.

TAKEN BY DEATH

CARL ANTONSEN.

Funeral services for Carl Antonsen, a leader in Danish-American circles in Chicago, will be held at 2 o'clock Monday in the chapel at 3301 Fullerton avenue, followed by burial in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Antonsen, who was 65 years old, died on Thursday in Augustana hospital after an operation.

He was knighted in 1912 by the Danish king after the dedication of a Danish-American national park in Denmark. Recently he had been receiver for the First and Second Humboldt State banks.

His widow, Mrs. Gerda Antonsen, living in the family home at 1129 Loyola avenue, and three sons, Otto, Kai and Charles Antonsen, survive.

COUSIN OF DEAD HUSBAND SUES TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

The charge that a 21 year old woman tricked a 67 year old man into a marriage by telling him that she was taking him to the Field museum and going to the marriage license bureau in the county building instead was made yesterday in a bill filed in the Superior court to annul the 9 year old marriage of Frederick I. Judson, who died on Jan. 26 in Oak Park.

The bill charges that Judson was mentally incompetent in 1923 when he married Mrs. Winifred Rath Judson. His widow, now 30 years old, is working as a housemaid in Oak Park. The bill was filed by Mrs. B. C. Walcott, a second cousin, of 421 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, in whose home Judson died.

Mrs. Walcott charges that Mrs. Judson's motive in marrying Judson was her knowledge that he possessed a $45,000 trust estate left by his mother. The mother's will provided that at his death half of the estate was to go to his wife, if he married. Mrs. Walcott also seeks an injunction restraining the First Trust and Savings bank of Springfield from paying any money from the trust fund to Mrs. Judson.

CLERKS SET UP CLEARING HOUSE IN MORGAN PARK

Two enterprising young men, Sydney Rushton and James Campbell, who lost their jobs as tellers when the Morgan Park State bank was closed some weeks ago, have set up a miniature clearing house in the bank's old quarters, providing most of the facilities the bank offered for a small fee.

Their "clearing house" makes change, cashes checks on small working capital, issues checks, makes out money orders and provides checks for payment of bills and taxes. Through it the Morgan Park merchants may make deposits in banks in neighboring areas.

The Morgan Park State bank was the only one in the community of 5,000. When it closed business was transacted under difficulties until the two tellers opened their exchange. The tellers say they are performing every service of a real bank except to take in deposits.

Ex-Secretary Hartzell of Porto Rico Dies at 70

SAN JUAN, P. R., April 8.—(AP)—Charles Hartzell, 70, who was secretary of Porto Rico under the McKinley administration, died today. DENTIST SEIZED IN LABORATORY AS AUTO KILLER

Named by Witnesses as Hit-Run Driver.

Twenty-five days ago a coroner's jury investigating an accident in Sherman avenue near Fountain square, Evanston, when a hit-and-run motorist fatally injured a woman, issued a mittimus charging manslaughter. The driver was named as "John Doe" and the police were ordered to arrest him.

Yesterday the papers were served upon Dr. Heath Cortland Reese, 32 years old, 4618 Washington street, Niles Center, in his dental laboratory on the 16th floor of the Marshall Field Annex. He was taken to Evanston and later placed in the county jail, where he will remain pending grand jury action.

Find Witnesses to Accident.

The accident occurred on Feb. 28. The victim, Miss Debora Baughn, 55 years old, of 843 Sherman avenue, Evanston, died at the county hospital on March 13. The following day police produced four witnesses who had seen the driver of the death car, a small tan roadster, standing in a drug store a few minutes before the crash. They said they had watched him start his car and then speed on after the woman was struck.

These witnesses saw Reese on Easter Sunday when he was arrested and charged with having fictitious license plates on his automobile. Because their identification was doubtful he was released. When he appeared in court a week later, however, all four witnesses asserted that he was the driver.

Reese is the son of Dr. Charles N. Reese of 537 Sheridan road, Evanston. He refused to answer questions by detectives.

Two More Auto Deaths.

Two fatalities in Cook county yesterday increased the motor toll since Jan. 1 to 290. The victims:

James Smith, 9 years old, 526 Roscoe street. Fatally hurt when he was struck by a hit and run auto at Sheridan road and Hawthorne place.

William R. Wires of Aurora, a veteran of 45 years' service with the Burlington railroad, died at the Copley hospital there yesterday from a skull fracture suffered earlier in the day when his small sedan was struck by a motor truck.

Simon Wolfson, Head of Auto Body Company, Dead

Simon Wolfson, 72 years old, president of the Maremount company, 1625 South Ashland avenue, manufacturers of automobile bodies, died yesterday at his home, 5314 Drexel boulevard. He was an old time carriage maker. Surviving Mr. Wolfson are his widow, Dora, three daughters, and three sons. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

PETER A. FREEMAN, Aurora greenhouse owner and member of the Kane county board of supervisors, will be buried today after funeral services at 3 p. m. in the chapel at 332 Downer place, Aurora. Mr. Freeman, who was 71 years old, died on Thursday.

NELSON P. LLOYD, 46 years old, chiropractor, formerly of 3312 West Madison street, died yesterday in Elgin. Funeral services will be held at 118 Villa street, Elgin, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

HUNT BARTENDER IN APPLEQUIST MURDER INQUIRY

"Davy" Jacobsen, a missing bartender, was sought by police last night in their attempt to solve the slaying of Benjamin [Red] Applequist and his brother, Ernest, in their speakeasy at 42 North Paulina street Thursday night. An inquest into the deaths was continued to April 21.

Capt. Charles McGurn of the Warren avenue police expressed the belief that Jacobsen was in the speakeasy at the time of the murders. A search had also been ordered for Dago Lawrence Mangano, Capone henchman on the west side. Later in the day, Lieut. Joseph Ronan told Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker that Mangano had gone to Honduras.

Police were investigating a rumor that the Applequist brothers had recently "spiked" near beer with alcohol instead of buying brewery beer from the Capone syndicate. The Applequists rose to affluence with George [Bugs] Moran several years ago, but when his gang broke up their fortunes dwindled, police said.

Francis M. Tuite, candidate for state senator, whose picture hung on a wall of the saloon, denied that the Applequists were in his organization. There was also a picture of Omer N. Custer, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

FORM DEFENDERS AND START WAR ON COMMUNISM

Fifty business leaders gathered yesterday at the Medical and Dental building and held the inaugural meeting of a new civic organization, national in scope, looking toward the schools and colleges as the first place to fight subversive tendencies toward communism and the lowering of the American standard of living.

The organization, named the Defenders of America, is incorporated in Illinois as not for profit. The following men are listed as directors: Homer C. Boblit, Samuel T. Chase, Col. Walter C. Cole, Thomas E. Donnelley, Dr. David Kinley, Oliver P. Kline, Nathaniel Leverone, Carroll J. Lord, Lewis E. Megowen, Neman T. Powers, Col. R. I. Randolph, Kenneth E. Shepard, Clement Studebaker Jr., and Laurence O. Wilson.

A platform, advocating an adequate military defense, decent government, the end of racketeering, no entangling alliances, and a cessation of the overlapping bureaucracies of government is sponsored by the organizers. Speakers are to be sent to schools and colleges to enlist the aid of American youth. It is hoped to enlist a membership of a million. Offices will be at 1 North La Salle street.

Mrs. Bangard, Resident of City 91 Years, Is Dead

Mrs. Christine Bangard, who came to Chicago 91 years ago, when she was only 4 years old, died last night in her home at 1211 Frontier street. Mrs. Bangard had lived in the house at that address for 45 years. Surviving her are her son, George Bangard, and a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Deck, who lived with her.

ANDREW MELLON TO SERVE LIQUOR AT U. S. EMBASSY

He's Not Sure About Knee Pants.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—Andrew W. Mellon, new ambassador to the Court of St. James's has not yet made up his mind whether to wear knee pants or trousers when he goes to court. He made this reply to a question by reporters today after his arrival in London to take up his new post. One of his aids pointed out that the first court will not be held until the end of May, so he will have plenty of time to think it over.

ANDREW MELLON. [Acme Photo.]

Mellon was more definite in replying to a question of whether liquor would be served at the American embassy. He said he would follow the custom of the country. When asked, "Which country?" he replied: "The country I can get it in."

Mellon landed at Southampton this morning from the liner Majestic, which arrived last night, after a civic welcome aboard from the mayor of Southampton. He came ashore to strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," played by the Southampton police band.

This afternoon Mellon issued a formal statement to the press, in which he said:

"Relations between our two countries were never better and while we both face problems of the most serious nature arising out of the war and economic and industrial readjustments that followed, these problems are not insoluble and they must disappear if we approach them frankly in an effort to understand each other's difficulties and with a firm determination to be of assistance where we can."

When questioned about this statement Mellon denied that it meant that he had any special plan to deal with war debts or reparations. He denied that he had any special mission to come to the aid of bankrupt Europe.

RESERVES ACT TO RETAIN NAVAL SHIPS ON LAKES

Naval reserve men and others interested in national defense started petitions in five states yesterday to keep afloat the Great Lakes naval reserve training ships during the coming season. Their action followed an order from Washington, according to Capt. E. E. Evers, to take the vessels out of commission as an economic measure.

"It simply means," said Capt. Evers, "that for sake of saving $250,000 of the navy's budget, which last year was $343,000,000, the middle west would be cut off from its only contact with the navy. It would take away from the men in this territory their opportunity for training. And the saving would be a mere drop in the bucket."

For the last ten years, naval reserve training ships have been maintained at Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, and Michigan City. Submarine chasers are maintained at Milwaukee and at Green Bay, Wis.

AUCTION SILVER OF BLUEBEARD'S VICTIMS FOR $500

The collection of hammered silver which Harry Powers, the West Virginia Bluebeard, stole from the Park Ridge home of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher last summer after he had murdered her and her three children at Clarksburg, W. Va., brought only $500 when it was acutioned off yesterday.

The silver was recovered by Clarksburg authorities and returned to Public Administrator Halbert O. Crews, who ordered it sold for Mrs. Eicher's estate. One set of 110 pieces of solid silver flatware brought only $35.

"The silver was appraised at nearly $5,000," said Jack Rubens, assistant to Mr. Crews, "but people haven't any money. We had about 40 people at the auction, but most of them kept their hands in their pockets."

BIG INDUSTRY ENTERS TAX REFORM WAR

Du Pont Appeals for Public Economy.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The opening gun in what may prove to be a broad campaign by great American corporations against excessive taxation and governmental expenses was fired yesterday by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., chief factor in the chemical industry and one of the large interests in the automobile field. In a letter sent out to the company's thousands of stockholders, employés and customers, President Lammot du Pont urged a concerted movement to force congress to end extravagance and the constant increase in taxes.

"The situation at Washington deserves your active and immediate attention," the letter admonishes. 'The national government is spending more money every year than the previous year and you are one of those who must eventually pay the bill. According to the December estimate of the secretary of the treasury the expenditures of the major departments and commission of the national government will, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, exceed by $1,231,100,000 those of 1927, when industrial activity was nearly at its peak and when prices of substantially all commodities and services were considerably above those of today.

Congress Cries for Taxes.

"To finance these ever increasing disbursements congress is now planning huge additoinal taxes to be paid out of the already shrunken income of prostrate industry and individuals. Taxes levied upon corporations and other producers increase the cost of their products. Higher costs lessen sales, slow down industry, increase unemployment and want, all of which drive costs still higher and further increase distress. Taxes upon individuals have a similar effect by curtailing their capacity to purchase the products of industry.

"It is lower costs and higher purchasing power which we need today, perhaps more than ever in our history. Why are industries and individuals that must reduce their expenditures to meet the depressed conditions saddled with ever mounting taxes to cover the ever increasing expenditures of the national government? Why should the confidence in the financial security of the government itself be jeopardized by extravagance? Why does not congress balance the national budget by reduction of expenditures through efficient operation and the curtailment of nonessential services and functions?

Part of Congress' Duty.

"Since the ways and means of curtailing governmental expenditures are the responsibility of congress, these questions should be answered by congress. Your senators and congressmen are in a position to know whether the continuance of this deplorable condition is necessary. The future of industry and employment will be affected by your action. If you feel as I do, make your feelings known immediately to your political representatives directly, through your friends, your newspapers, your chambers of commerce, your trade associations or other groups or individuals in a position to impress congress."

Shows Vast Increase.

Mr. du Pont points out that total government expenditures have increased from $3,493,600,000 in 1927 to $4,482,200,000 this year, in spite of an indicated decrease of $103,700,000 in statutory interest and sinking fund payments and of $138,800,000 in miscellaneous expenses not included in budgets of the major departments. Expenditures of the major departments now total $3,195,100,000, compared with $1,964,000,000 in 1927, an increase of $1,231,100,000, or 63 per cent.

Mr. du Pont then cites the annual report of the secretary of the treasury comparing expentdiures of the departments and commissions for 1927 and 1932. Expenditures for the current fiscal year and their percentage increases over 1927 follow: Agriculture, $333,500,000, increase 113 per cent [not including $155,000,000 for the agricultural marketing fund, or farm board, which did not exist in 1927]; postoffice deficit, $195,000,000, increase 614 per cent; treasury department, $312,900,000, up 106 per cent; war, $483,700,000, up 34 per cent; navy, $378,900,000, up 19 per cent; shipping board, $60,800,000, up 220 per cent; justice, $53,800,000, up 117 per cent; commerce, $54,700,000, up 77 per cent; other independent offices and commissions, $57,600,000, up 63 per cent; legislative establishment, $32,400,000, up 64 per cent; labor, $14,100,000, up 42 per cent; adjusted service certificate fund, $200,000,000, up 74 per cent.

Veterans Bureau Costs.

The veterans bureau [veterans administration since 1930] shows expenditures of $784,400,000, an increase of 100 per cent, while the department of the interior total, $78,300,000, is a decrease of 74 per cent. Since the bureau of pensions was transferred from the interior department to the veterans bureau in 1931, in order to make a fair comparison with 1927, it is necessary to combine the expenditures of the interior department and the veterans bureau for each period, which results in an increase of expenditures in those two divisions of $168,500,000 for 1932 as compared with 1927.

Ward Baking Has Profit for 13 Weeks' Period

Ward Baking corporation had net profit of $162,724 in the thirteen weeks ended March 26, equal to 59 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock. For twelve weeks ended March 21, 1931, the company had profit of $196,367, or 71 cents a preferred share.

Tax Boosting Saves Credit of New York

BY SCRUTATOR.

The state of New York on March 30 succeeded in selling $50,000,000 of 3¾ per cent notes at par. These notes are dated April 1 and will mature Jan. 15, 1933.

This sale afforded great satisfaction to the politicians at Albany, because in those days of unbalanced budgets, diminished incomes, and increased taxes, municipal and state loans are by no means easy to float. Many issues large and small, find no takers and others that do sell have to be baited with high interest rates.

The New York issue was oversubscribed 100 per cent an hour and a half after the books were opened. The entire $50,000,000 was taken by a group of 35 banks.

Might Be Encouraging.

If the credit of the state of New York had been maintained at this high level without injuring the credit of citizens and corporations of that state the ready sale of these notes might have been a distinctly encouraging sign. It happens that it was nothing of the sort.

In order to preserve its credit the state of New York had to double its income tax rate and make the increase retroactive for 1931. It had to add another cent to its gasoline tax.

Last year New York's budget was $328,165,894. On Feb. 27, 1932, the governor signed the main budget bill and four other fiscal measures appropriating a total of $293,011,553 for the operating expenses of the state government in the fiscal year 1932-'33. Other fiscal measures bring the total for this year to about $319,000,000.

The national income dropped about 20 per cent last year and it is presumed that the income of the people of New York declined at about the same rate. And yet the decrease in spending by the state government is less than 3 per cent.

Big Blow to Profits.

Heavy increases in taxation force going concerns out of business by destroying profits. By precluding the possibility of profits, they also discourage the launching of new business enterprises. The result is that there is less demand for credit and many concerns that do need credit are reduced to a condition that makes them poor risks.

New York, having sponged up a larger proportion of the state's income than ever before, is now able to borrow funds more easily than private companies competing with it in the money market. The state's excellent credit standing has been maintained by stripping its people.

The state has other advantages in competing for credit with private concerns. It makes its bonds and notes exempt from all state taxes, just as they are exempt from federal income taxes. It makes them legal for trust funds, savings banks, and insurance companies.

Makes Hollow Triumph.

New York state's feat in balancing its budget by raising taxes instead of reducing expenditures is a hollow triumph. It has made the notes due next January a sound investment by impairing the ability of a lot of its citizens to pay their own debts.

Credit is not unlimited and when government absorbs the lion's share there isn't enough left for business. Yesterday, while stocks dropped to new lows, government bonds made new highs. That was no coincidence. The national budget is being balanced by raising taxes. The amount of the increase in taxes measures the potential drop in the profits of industry. The incentive to build and produce and create jobs will be reduced accordingly.

HOUSE STOCK TRANSFER TAX STIRS PROTEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Wall street's first official protest against the proposed one-quarter of 1 per cent tax on stock transfers was forwarded to Washington today by Howard C. Sykes, president of the New York Curb exchange, in the form of a five page closely printed memorandum.

The pamphlet sent by the curb exchange is entitled: "Memorandum submitted by Howard C. Sykes, president of the New York Curb exchange, to the committee of finance of the senate of the United States in opposition to section 723 of H. R. 18236, entitled 'Revenue act of 1932,' in so far as this imposes a stamp tax on transfer of stocks."

The memorandum declared that the action of the public since this sale tax feature was approved by the house is eloquent. Security prices have fallen to new low levels, and the recuperative power and hope of the country have been given another blow, it said.

It declares further that "industry is sick and needs a reviving optimism in our people. Any act the result of which may, even to a slight degree, tend to influence our people to hoard their funds, or to throw over securities held, will not only deprive the government of taxes on the sales of securities but may also place a very grave obstruction to the recovery so urgently hoped for."

Fashion Park February Sales Amount to $1,427,958

Net sales of Fashion Park Associates, Inc., for February amounted to $1,427,958, against $1,799,106 in the same 1931 month. For the first two months of this year sales were $2,669,683, against $3,698,472 in the corresponding period a year ago. This is after elimination of sales between companies reporting and does not include the sales of those companies controlled but not entirely owned.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates March motor production at 130,700 units, compared with 122,890 in February and 289,398 in March a year ago.

YANKEE GOLD RENEWS TRIPS TO ALIEN BANKS

Two Fast Ships Sail for France.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The first sizable outflow of monetary gold from this country in recent weeks occurred today as $10,400,000 was withdrawn from the vaults of the Federal Reserve bank and placed aboard two trans-Atlantic liners.

While definite figures were not available, it was understood about $9,000,000 of the total shipment would go to France and that the remainder of the metal was destined for Belgium. With the French franc holding firm around 3.94 15-16 for cables, which is just about the gold point, further shipments from New York were regarded as probable.

Foreign Gold Rises Little.

A relatively small increase, amounting to $915,000, was reported in gold held here for foreign account, which is equivalent to a decrease in the American stock. Losses were moderately offset, however, by imports of $2,112,800 received here from Canada, Mexico and Uruguay, and in addition, $1,493,000 was received in San Francisco from the orient.

At least part of the strength of the French franc as against the American dollar, making the gold shipment profitable, was attributed to bear propaganga on the dollar in Paris, together with publication yesterday of a fallacious report in a minor Parisian publication that a large American bank had suspended payments. It was explained that there also may have been some selling of dollars abroad, based on concern over the ability of congress to balance the national budget. Bankers, however, doubted that strength of the French franc against the dollar could long be maintained, in view of the adverse trend in France's foreign trade.

Would Combat Dollar Foes.

Wall street international bankers said today they would leave no stone unturned in their effort to protect the American dollar in foreign money markets against the insidious spread of false rumors, such as the rumor published yesterday in Paris that a large American bank had suspended payments.

While they were not prepared to say an organized attack had been instituted against the dollar, using false propaganda for its ammunition, they did not hesitate to express irritation over the Paris article, which coincided with other specially written articles purporting to show the dollar is in weak position.

They expressed their gratification, however, that the French government was reported to have taken prompt action designed to set the French public straight on the falseness of some of the rumors now afloat in that and other countries.

Based on False Rumors.

Bankers also said the publication of the false report on the bank had some reassuring aspects. For one thing, they said, it showed part of the recent selling of the dollar which had come from France was based on misinformation and not fact. They reasoned that this selling was largely speculative, and with the true facts once placed before the public it would cease.

A spokesman for the American bank which had been named in the Paris article said his institution was making no statement of any kind. It was pointed out a public apology had been made and that, so far as the bank was concerned, the matter was now closed.

In other banking quarters it was pointed out that the position of the American dollar had been strengthened recently as a result of the Glass-Steagall act.

Newspaper Makes Apology.

PARIS, April 8.—(AP)—The small nationalist newspaper L'Ordre expressed "most sincere apologies" today to the National City bank of New York and its readers for a statement printed in it yesterday to the effect that the National City bank of New York had suspended payments.

The original statement was made coincidentally with extracts from an article by the British economist, Sir Walter Layton, in which Sir Walter said the fall of the dollar was likely. Financial circles promptly denied that the National City bank had suspended payments.

There was no evidence today of any concerted attack on the dollar, which opened at 25.33 on the bourse and closed at 25.34. The unit was firm, 1 point under yesterday's close.

RADIO CORPORATION DENIES GOVERNMENT CHARGE IT'S A TRUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—The Radio Corporation of America today filed in the federal court at Wilmington, Del., an answer to the amended and supplemental position of the government in anti-trust law proceedings against that corporation and others. The answer asserts there is no monopoly in the radio industry, but, on the contrary, great competition.

"Radio broadcast receivers are manufactured by more than 35 concerns in open, intense, and unrestricted competition with each other and having a productive capacity of more than 20,000,000 receivers a year compared to the present yearly consumption of about 3,500,000, the total business of all of the defendants in such receivers being less than 20 per cent of the total receiver set business," the answer says.

FOREIGN FORD BRANCHES OMIT 1931 DIVIDENDS

All but German Show Fair Profit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Sir Percival Perry, chairman of the Ford Motor Company of Great Britain, at the annual meeting in London today, told stockholders no dividends would be paid by any of the European Ford companies for last year, although all of them, except the German unit, had shown a profit sufficient for dividend purposes.

Discussing Ford of France, he said that the company would show a profit after all depreciation and reserve requirements, more than sufficient to pay the same dividend as in 1930, but that directors had decided to omit the dividend, pursuing the policy of other Ford companies in Europe.

German Condition Different.

In regard to the German Ford, he indicated that omission was inevitable to avoid substantial losses caused principally by forced realization on investments rather than in the course of normal business. Ford Motor Company of Great Britain controls all the Ford units operated on the continent through ownership of majority of their shares. The decision to omit dividends, Sir Percival declared, was taken on the advice of Henry Ford, who considered it a sounder policy to conserve resources for the time.

American Cigar Dividend.

Declaration of a dividend of $6 a share on the preferred stock, announced today by the American Cigar company, clears up all dividends accumulated on that issue. American Tobacco controls nearly all the common stock of that company.

Dominion Motors, Ltd., declared a dividend of 10 cents, against 20 cents on Oct. 15, 1931.

NEW PETITION ASKS RECEIVER FOR CARPET FIRM

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in the United States District court today against C. W. Richardson and company, wholesale and retail furniture, with two downtown stores and a third in Oak Park.

The petition was filed by Attorney A. L. Shapiro on behalf of the Valentine Seaver company and two other companies with claims of $1,600.

Federal Judges Charles E. Woodward earlier in the week appointed the president of the company, L. S. Tiffany and Saul Optner, as receivers for the company in a friendly action filed Monday.

FOUR GROUPS FORM FOR ACTION UPON KREUGER SCANDAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Four separate committees under independent chairmen are being organized to protect the interests of holders of Kreuger & Toll and International Match securities issued in the American market, it was announced tonight by Lee, Higginson & Co. The four issues covered by the committees are Kreuger & Toll American certificates, representing participating debentures; Kreuger & Toll 5 per cent secured debentures, International Match preferred stock, and International March 5 per cent debentures.

The organization of the two committees representing the Kreuger & Toll American certificates and the 5 per cent secured debentures was completed tonight. The International Match committees are in process of formation. Aggressive steps will be taken by each committee, the announcement said, to bring to light all facts relating to the financial position of Kreuger & Toll company and International Match corporation and to protect the investments of holders of the securities of these concerns issued in this country.

The American issues of Kreuger & Toll securities, which will be represented by these committees, consist of American certificates, of which approximately 7,354,000 are now outstanding, representing kr. 147,080,000 par value of participating debentures, and $47,596,500 principal amount of 5 per cent secured debentures now outstanding out of an original issue of $50,000,000. The outstanding issues of International Match corporation include 1,350,000 shares of preferred stock, $47,430,500 principal amount of 5 per cent debentures due in 1947 and $23,973,000 principal amount of 5 per cent debentures due in 1941.

PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX SUBSTITUTES STOCK PLAN FOR BONUSES

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The Paramount Publix corporation, in a letter to stockholders, announces a plan to set aside six blocks of its stock, each amounting to 108,000 shares, for subscription by executives.

There will be one block of shares for each of the six months' periods of service between Jan. 1, 1932, and Dec. 31, 1934. Executives will have the right to subscribe at $15, $18, $21, $24, $28, and $32 a share for each of the blocks in the six months' periods.

Upon approval of the plan, certain officers now entitled to a percentage of the corporation's profits as a part of their compensation will surrender all future rights under the old profit sharing agreements.

The company also proposes to change the shares from no par value to $10 par, which will result in outstanding capital stock of a total par value of approximately $33,000,000, or substantially less than present stated capital. This will create a considerable capital surplus, it is stated.

DENVER AND RIO GRANDE WESTERN ISSUES REPORT

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The pamphlet report of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad company for 1931, published today, showed current assets of $9,266,117 as of Dec. 31, against current liabilities of $5,559,904. Cash totaled $2,322,475, including $1,165,525 to pay bond coupons. Corporate surplus on the balance sheet was $15,442,171, a decrease of $344,134.

As previously reported, the road had a deficit of $225,652 last year contrasted with net income of $1,684,281 in 1930. Operating revenues dropped 21.05 per cent to $23,484,818. Freight revenues were off 19.23 per cent with a decrease of 23.63 per cent in tons carried, while passenger revenue fell off 32.62 per cent. Maintenance of way expenses showed a decline of 30 per cent.

J. S. Pyeatt, president, told the stockholders that formation last year of the Rio Grande Transport company, a motor bus subsidiary in eastern Colorado, had resulted in "a material increase in less than railroad freight traffic handled in this territory" and that consideration was being given to extension of the service.

Household Finance Corp. Reports Larger Earnings

For the three months ended March 31, 1932, Household Finance corporation and subsidiaries report net income of $1,085,553, after interest, reserve for taxes, and all other charges, equivalent to 4.71 times current quarterly dividends of $1.05 per share on its outstanding participating preference stock. This compares with $1,034,096.75 for the quarter ended March 31, 1931, and with average quarterly earnings of $1,038,652 for the four quarters of 1931. Such net earnings for the 1932 quarter amounted to $1.40 per share on the combined class "A" and "B" common stocks outstanding after allowing for current preference dividends, or $1.33 after allowing for maximum participation of $1.25 per quarter on the outstanding preference stock. These earnings on an annual basis are $5.60 and $5.32, respectively.

American Power and Light Earns $1.80 on Common

Net income of the American Power and Light company for the twelve months ended Feb. 29, after expenses, taxes, interest and other charges, was $14,264,942, equivalent to $1.80 a share on the common stock outstanding. This compares with net income of $16,617,878, equal to $2.88 a share, for the 12 months ended Feb. 28, 1931. The report of the New England Gas and Electric company for 1931 shows a balance of earnings of $4,134,311 available for interest charges, after deductions for subsidiary companies, compared with $3,689,809 for 1930.

HARTMAN CORP. REPORTS $2,076,266 LOSS DURING 1931

Hartman corporation reported a loss of $2,076,266 for 1931 after interest and expenses but before depreciation, amortization, and extraordinary losses. Special losses of $5,347,737 were charged against surplus. This included $2,248,140 for write-down of fixtures, $1,250,000 for contingency reserve and $761,648 on losses of stores closed. In 1930 the company had a net loss of $1,868,544. At the close of last year the company's current financial position showed a ratio of better than 2 to 1. Current assets were $3,978,091, including cash of $221,124 and customers' installment accounts of $5,376,401. Current liabilities were $4,198,813.

DIRECTORS OF NASH MOTORS CO. DECLARE REGULAR DIVIDEND

Directors of the Nash Motors company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable May 2 to stockholders of record April 20. Although earnings for the three months ended Feb. 29, which comprises the first quarter of the company's fiscal year, failed to cover dividend requirements by about $1,153,000, the directors felt justified in using a moderate part of large resources. The company held cash and government securities totaling $33,401,223 on Feb. 29. Net earnings for the quarter were $211,927, equivalent to nearly 8 cents a share on 2,730,000 capital shares. Net income for the same quarter a year before was $1,099,194, or 40 cents a share.

Sales of General Motors cars to consumers during March totaled 48,717 units, against 46,855 units in February, and 101,339 in March, 1931. Sales to dealers last month totaled 48,383 units, against 52,539 in February, and 98,943 in March, 1931. Sales to dealers in the United States and Canada, together with shipments overseas, totaled 59,696 units in March, against 62,850 in February, and 119,195 in March, 1931.

Bank Offers to Buy Millions in Realty Bonds

BY AL CHASE.

Holders of $13,000,000 first real estate mortgage collateral gold bonds issued in 1926 by the Continental Illinois company, investment subsidiary of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust company, may submit their securities for sale to the bank at a price between 65 and 75 per cent of par and accrued interest, according to an announcement mailed yesterday. Establishment of this market for these bonds will be accomplished by means of a sinking fund to be created. All bonds thus purchased will be canceled, the discount on them improving the margin of security for the remaining bonds outstanding, it is pointed out.

The proposed plan will be carried out unless more than 10 per cent of the bondholders object to it within the next thirty days.

These $13,000,000 bonds are a direct obligation of a trust created Oct. 1, 1926, and are payable out of a trust fund in which are deposited $13,000,000 first mortgages selected by the Chicago Title and Trust company. The latter also has set apart in trust $1,300,000 mortgages comprising a special protective fund which is held as additional security for the collateral bonds.

Called Beneficial.

"Both the Chicago Title and Trust company and Continental Illinois company have given the matter careful consideration for some time and it is felt that the plan is desirable and, based on present conditions, the retirement of bonds at a discount should prove a benefit to the bonds remaining uncanceled," the letter to the bondholders reads.

"So very few transactions between willing buyers and sellers have taken place in the last three years that a basis of fact is lacking upon which sound opinion can be formed. Falling rents, failure to pay rentals, inadequate occupancy, the future of real estate taxes, the wages of labor and the prices of building material make judgments of value uncertain.

"It appears, however, to both companies that, except in the case of sixteen out of 355 mortgages held in the main fund having a total par value of $938,750, equities currently exist over and above the par value of the mortgages.

Condition Abnormal.

"It is to be borne in mind that the mortgages placed in the trust fund were selected with care and with the exercise of the best judgment of the trustee. Under normal conditions, the possibility of ultimate loss, in connection with such a group of mortgages, in excess of the collateral pledged in the special protective fund, would be remote.

"Conditions, however, have not been normal and from time to time defaults have occurred in payment of interest and principal of some of the mortgages held in the main fund. Although in no sense under any obligation or duty so to do, prior to Jan. 13, 1932, the trustee voluntarily replaced mortgages in the main fund, upon which defaults had occurred, with other mortgages in good standing.

"Present circumstances are such, however, that it is no longer to be expected that the trustee will continue to replace mortgages constituting the main fund upon which there have been or may be defaults."

New York, April 8.—Finding nothing in the day's news to inspire confidence, the speculative community continued to sell stocks and talk hard times today.

It was the eighth consecutive session the market has had to take it on the chin to the tune of new low prices for the long decline. Hundreds of issues sold to the lowest levels in a decade or more, and on the face of some of the more representative averages the list broke through to subterranean regions not explored since the early days of the world war. Losses among the chief casualties ranged from 2 to 7 points or more.

Short covering by bear operators playing for a quick turn gave prices an upward slant in the later dealings, but the recoveries did not amount to more than a point or so as a rule and numerous of the lesser active issues finished at their extreme lows.

Utilities and Rails Sag.

Utility and railroad stocks as usual here of late bore the brunt of the day's selling. The power and light group was the real sore spot of the operations, due in a large measure, of course, to what the street has come to refer to as the Insull situation. Consolidated Gas, Peoples Gas, International Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and, in fact, most of the section were battered down 2 to 4 points or more.

International Telephone was under relentless pressure and bumped a new bottom of 4⅝. Some of the current weakness of this one time favorite grows out of the Kreuger mess. United Gas improvement ignored favorable comment by brokerage house advisors to hit a new low. Brokers have been counseling their customers for days

HEAVY SELLING SENDS CHICAGO STOCKS LOWER

Utility Issues Again Weak Spot in Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Unsupported by public buying a weakened stock market was called to bear an unusual volume of margin selling yesterday and the load proved too heavy. Shares of all classes broke to new low quotations on the Chicago exchange, with the utility issues showing conspicuous weakness.

With the reorganization plans of Middle West Utilities company still hanging fire and general market conditions particularly unfavorable, all the Insull shares were under severe strain. Stocks of the big Insull operating company, which are not involved in the present financial negotiations, broke to the lowest prices in several years.

News concerning the banking negotiations over Middle West was vague. Representatives of Chicago's two biggest banks arrived in New York and went immediately into conference with Samuel Insull and Owen D. Young. Definite information of the status of the conversations was lacking.

Tumbles 10 Points.

Liquidation in Commonwealth Edison on the Chicago board and Peoples Gas in New York led to discussion in brokerage circles here of the dividend prospects of these two companies. Both issues sold several points, with Commonwealth Edison tumbling 10 points and Peoples Gas giving up three points.

Maintenance of the present dividend rates by these two strong operating companies has generally been considered reasonably assured. It was pointed out, however, that the management might decide to lower the dividends temporarily to build up cash reserves. Both firms will be able, Mr. Insull has stated, to take care of financing this year through their own resources. If the moderate funded maturities are met in this manner a temporary reduction in dividends might be voted.

The volume of trading in Edison yesterday was the heaviest in several days, with transactions reaching 3,400 shares. The closing price of 63 was only a point above its low for the day. On sales involving only 650 shares the no par stock of Public Service of Northern Illinois fell to 45 then rallied to 48½, off 4 for the day. The 6 per cent preferred dropped three points on a 30 share turnover, reflecting the complete absence of support.

A Fraction Higher.

Middle West common stock fluctuated narrowly, closing a bare fraction higher at 75 cents on a 24,000 share turnover. All series of the company's notes made moderate gains on the New York curb, apparently on the strength of unsubstantiated rumors that a tentative agreement has been reached in the banking negotiations.

Failure of directors of National Electric Power company, Middle West's eastern holding company, to declare a dividend on the common stock was apparently fully discounted. The A stock was little changed at 1¼.

Declaration of the regular dividends on the preferred stocks of Central and Southwest Utilities company dispelled fears in that direction, but failed to stir any interest in the stocks. Central and Southwest is a large holding company of the Middle West system. Preferred dividends were also declared by the directors of three Middle West operating units: Central Illinois Public Service, Central Power and Michigan Gas and Electric.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Liquidation was renewed and stocks declined yesterday; many issues dropping to new low levels, with losses ranging from a fraction to 6 points, the latter on General Tank Shares.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed easy at new lows for the season on sales of 15 contracts or 2,250 barrels. Final prices were 3 to 6 points net lower influenced by the weakness of grains, easiness of lard, barely steady cotton and lower stock market. Crude oil was 2⅛c bid in the southeast and the valley and 2½c in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 3.50c; May, 3.52c; July, 3.68c; September, 3.82c; November, 3.98c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot, 3.50c; May, 3.45c; July, 3.50c; September, 3.65c.

FIELD BUILDING TO HAVE AN AIR COOLING SYSTEM

Will Have Entrance to Subway.

Chicago's first air conditioned loop skyscraper will be the new Field building, according to an announcement made yesterday by George Richardson, trustee of the estate of Marshall Field. The basements and first four floors of the 42 story structure will be supplied with fresh, cool air in summer from ten to fifteen degrees lower than outside, and with warm, pure air in winter. Air conditioning has been in operation in office buildings and department stores in Detroit for several years but this will be the first use of this modern comfort in this class of loop structure.

GEORGE RICHARDSON.

Another feature new to large loop structures will be alternating electric current which will enable tenants to enjoy the advantages of electric clocks, radios, and other electrical devices. Mr. Richardson, being an optimist and believing that some day Chicago will have a subway, has had provision made for an entrance from the basement to underground train service beneath Clark street.

900 Michigan North.

The 900 Michigan Avenue North Building corporation, of which Hopewell Rogers is president and Howard Eller is secretary, has given a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company for $885,000, due April 1, 1936, according to the county records. This is to be used for collateral purposes, according to R. B. Upham, vice president of the corporation and also vice president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank.

He states there is a $1,500,000 second mortgage which has never been sold to the public but is being used for borrowing purposes as collateral. The original first mortgage bond issue was for $2,200,000, since reduced to $1,850,000, and was underwritten by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. The building is a nine story cooperative project at the northwest corner of Michigan and Delaware, with a rather imposing list of tenants.

Bellevue Place Deal.

Richard S. Folsom and his wife, Dorothy M. Folsom, have purchased the three story stone residence at 63 Bellevue place, 18x108, from Robert C. Griffin for an undisclosed consideration, subject to an incumbrance of $10,000. The property adjoins the present Folsom home at 61 Bellevue place and was bought for investment.

Simon Alport has purchased the garage building, 50x100, at 1056 Glenlake avenue, from Samuel Goldman and Annie Goldman, for an undisclosed price.

Recently in this department it was stated that eighty-six lots were purchased by the Forest Preserve district in Northfield township from James B. McClane. This information was secured at the county recorder's office. Mr. McClane states he was merely acting as trustee and was not the seller.

PRODUCE MARKETS

There was little change in the price of fresh eggs and butter. Receipts 18,829 cases eggs and 9,529 tubs butter. Russet potatoes were steady and other kinds firm. Receipts, 47 cars with 205 cars on team track. Live hens were 1½c higher with leghorn hens and stags 1c higher. Receipts, 1 car and 16 trucks.

STOCK DECLINE CONTINUES; NEW LOWS RECORDED

to lay in a supply of the stock of this company on the scale down.

Both Kreuger & Toll and International Match preferred dropped to merely nominal quotations. The street heard that the Kreuger issues found themselves without a market in London today.

The Van Swerlingen rail group was conspicuously weak, Pere Marquette losing half its value in a sharp break in the earlier dealings and Chesapeake and Ohio and Chesapeake corporation suffering an acute sinking spell along with it. Union Pacific was in a bad way and New York Central looked wan.

Motor Stocks Skid.

The General Motors sales report disclosing sales to consumers in the United States last month as only 48,717 units, a reduction of 52 per cent by comparison with the total of March, 1931, hit the motor group below the belt and set the tapes to recording new lows there. General Motors itself went down to 11⅞ and could not get above 12 in time to go into the overnight record. Chrysler dropped to 8⅞. Nash was off in the early trading but braced up toward the last.

Case Threshing Machine reacted on a 2 cent break in wheat prices.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Some slight increase was reported today in the demand for unfinished cotton goods. Retailers are buying more small lots of wash fabrics. Silks are selling moderately with production being held down sharply. Dull luster rayon yarns are in fair demand. Several rayon producers have guaranteed prices, the largest producer being an exception. Linens are firmer. Openings are more frequent in men's wear suitings, prices being lower than last season. Burlaps are quiet.

Philippine Railway.

What is your opinion of Philippine Railway company first 4 per cent sinking fund bonds, due July 1, 1937? Thank you for any information you can give.—H. C. H.

Philippine Railway company operates 131 miles of railway on three islands of the Philippines under a perpetual charter. The company's tax is fixed at the rate of half of one per cent of gross revenues until 1936, at which time the rate increases to 1½ per cent.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $614,000, against $685,000 for 1930, $767,000 for 1929 and $706,000 for 1928. Net operating revenues were $185,000, against $180,000 for 1930.

In 1931 only 52 per cent of interest charges were earned. Only half of interest charges were earned in 1930, 66 per cent in 1929 and 51 per cent in 1928.

At the close of 1930 funded debt was $8,549,000. This consisted solely of first mortgage 4s, due July 1, 1937. They are guaranteed only as to interest by the government of the Philippine islands. Advances to the company by the government totaled $4,950,000 on December 31, 1930. These advances are a cumulative lien on the entire property subject to the first mortgage bonds.

The bonds are more a speculation than an investment.

Los Angeles Gas and Electric.

Will you please give me information on Los Angeles Gas & Electric corporation preferred?—E. S. P.

Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation, a subsidiary of Pacific Lighting corporation, operates in Los Angeles and vicinity, serving a population of about 1,750,000. About two-thirds of its revenue is from the sale of gas and about one-third from the sale of electricity.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $24,064,000, against $24,116,000 for 1930 and $23,903,000 for 1929.

Decreased expenses and taxes enabled the company to report net income of $5,214,000 for 1931, against $4,768,000 for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $5,833,000, and for 1928, $4,913,000. Preferred dividends were earned 4.45 times in 1931, 4.08 times in 1930 and 5 times in 1929.

On December 31, 1930, total assets were $122,316,000. Funded debt was $48,282,000. At the close of last year there were outstanding 195,181 shares of 6 per cent preferred, par $100.

Continental Roll and Steel Foundry.

Would you please give me a rating on Continental Roll & Steel Foundry 6s, due 1940?—L. F.

SEGAL LOCK AND HARDWARE.

NEW LOWS ON COTTON

With the stock and grain markets weak and declining under liquidating pressure, cotton markets suffered from the same influences; prices sought new low levels. Buying was comparatively tame, and covering by shorts was the only factor of importance that gave the market any support. The weather was generally favorable, and private reports regarding acreage reduction and bearish sentiment stimulated selling. So also did the report on the Gore bill favoring the impounding of government holdings of cotton for liquidation by the department of agriculture, instead of by the farm board. Liverpool closed 4 points net higher; sterling exchange was steadier. Futures in Chicago closed 5 points net higher to 1 point lower with other markets mainly 2 to 4 points higher.

Spots advanced 5 points to 6.10c in New York and Galveston, and 6c in New Orleans and Houston. Prices follow:

Signs of weakness in extreme weights vanished when larger houses came into the trade for their share and only 3,000 head were left at the close. Fancy 160@170 lb light advanced 10c to a top of $4.50, within 10c of the highest price paid for hogs in the last 15 days. The general average for the day at $4.10 showed 5c gain. Soon after lightweights had sold interest centered in the larger supply of heavy butchers included in yesterday's arrivals. Several large droves of 325@400 lb averages went over the scales at $3.60@3.70 and occasionally slightly higher. Large local packers were the principal buyers in weighty stock.

Light weight hogs for next Monday's delivery were bid $4.50 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but none were willing to sell hogs on that basis. The futures market remained unchanged. July and September contracts were being offered at $5.75 and bid $5.00, while May hogs were offered again at $5.00@5.25 and attracted a few $4.50 bids.

Cattle Market Firm.

Although no choice grades of cattle were available yesterday, action in the market was unusually good for a week-end affair. Strength was in evidence in all parts of the yards, and some sellers reported better prices for medium grades than they were able to get on the preceding session. Good steers are closing strong to 25c higher for the week, while all others are in a slightly stronger position. Buying centered in light weight steers of medium quality that were selling on quiet markets a week ago. Most of yesterday's 2,000 head sold within a range of $5.00@6.25, although a good showing reached $6.35@6.75, while a carload of mixed steers and heifers averaging 689 lbs made $7.10 the day's peak. Butcher stock showed little change yesterday, but ruled strong to higher for the week, yearling heifers showing gains of 25@50c, with the week's top at $7.25 standing 60c above the high mark last week. Most beef cows are slightly higher for the week. Calves were fully steady yesterday, and about in line with a week ago. Stockers and feeders continued draggy.

Lambs Advance.

Buyers and sellers came to grips over lamb prices again yesterday and the deadlock was not broken until a few minutes before the close of the session. However, the selling side had the better of the argument and managed to drive prices up 15@25c. About 90 per cent of the day's sales were made within a period of a few minutes. City butchers and shippers bought at $7.40 and below, while packers took most of the good slaughter lambs at $7.00@7.25, paying up to $7.40 for a few. Aged sheep came under pressure again and slumped 25@50c, top ewes selling at $4.00, with weighty stock at $3.50 and below. Slaughter lambs are closing steady with a week ago, while aged sheep and shearing lambs show 25@50c decline.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 100 cattle, 4,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 26 cattle, 4,798 hogs, and 8,384 sheep the previous Saturday and 157 cattle, 3,892 hogs, and 4,388 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for today are estimated at from 30,000 to 45,000. C. Southwick marked 45,000, S. Lund 42,000, R. Trullinger 41,000, J. M. Waters and R. B. Ellis 40,000, J. T. Brown 38,00, W. T. Reneker 37,000, A. E. Welhener 36,000, W. Garrett, F. M. Sherwood and H. Pattison 35,000, and M. J. Berkery 30,000.

"WE RECEIVED 17 REPLIES FROM THE BUNGALOW AD"

"In January of this year we determined to go after new business in rentals and real estate selling. We selected the Tribune Want Ad Section exclusively to carry our messages to the public. Results so far are gratifying. The advertising campaign began to click at once. For example, we received thirteen replies to a rental ad and rented the house. Another ad offering to sell a bungalow brought 17 replies. The house was sold." If you have a selling job to do, or a rental problem to solve, let Tribune Want Ads help you.
